FOIL SUFFRAGETTES' KIDNAPPING PLANS

Plot to Seize Cabinet Minister and Try Him Before Woman's Court Revealed in Time.

ALSO AFTER LLOYD-GEORGE

And Militants Tried to Steal His Child—Puncturing of Motor Tires the Women's Latest Device.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 14.—Among the mad schemes of the militant suffragettes disclosed yesterday was a plot to kidnap a Cabinet Minister, which was not carried out, because the details fell into the hands of persons who revealed them.

The plot, which originated with one of the boldest spirits among the militants, was to lure the Minister to a country house, dress him in an old woman's clothes, handcuff him, hold a mock trial in a barn, with a feminine Judge and jury, consisting principally of suffragettes who have suffered imprisonment, and sentence him to three years' penal servitude. What was to be the fate of the unfortunate Minister after the sentence was not disclosed.

It is stated that an attempt was made to kidnap the Chancellor of the Exchequer a month ago on the golf links, but that something went wrong with the suffragettes' motor car.

T. P. O'Connor relates a graphic story of how suffragettes intended to kidnap the Chancellor's little girl, Megan. Mr. O'Connor says:

"Mr. Lloyd-George at once rushed to a telegraph office and sent a wire to his wife, who was at Griccieth, Wales, with their daughter. He told her to look carefully after the 'Little Packet'—that is the name by which this lovable and delightful child is known to her parents."

For a long time Winston Churchill's baby has been carefully protected by the police against a plot to kidnap it.

Some piquant testimony was elicited at the Bow Street Police Court yesterday, when the suffragette leaders were again arraigned to answer the charge of conspiracy to commit malicious damage.

The name of the nursing home in which "Gen." Mrs. Drummond is lying ill was not disclosed, owing to the danger that the place would be boycotted. This is a significant sign of the public's indignation at the militants' outrages.

An elaborate system of rewards "for valor" in the campaign was disclosed. There are "Fed by Force" and "Hunger Strike" medals, and no fewer than 800 lithographed testimonials for sufferings for "the cause" were supplied by one firm of priters to the Women's Social and Political Union.

A particularly interesting witness was a woman who, with her husband, owned the refreshment pavilions at Kew Gardens and Regent's Park that were burned. She described how after the outrages she saw Miss Kerr, manager of the Union, and appealed for the safety of other pavilions owned by herself and her husband. Miss Kerr told her she took a "personal view of the matter." She said she could not give a promise respecting the other pavilions, but would report the matter to the authorities.

The puncturing of motor tires is the latest freak of the militants. A motorist who was stopped by a deflated tire in Essex found a nail in it, with a piece of leather attached bearing the usual inscription, "Votes for Women."

Four suffragists, three women and a man, Hugh Franklin, who were released after hunger strikes under the "Cat and Mouse" act, have returned to prison after the expiration of their periods of grace.

It is the view of the authorities that the accumulated funds of the militants have been taken abroad. A new bill dealing with the administration of justice is under consideration at the Home Office. It is understood that one of the provisions is designed to simplify the existing legal processes for the recovery of compensation for damage committed by members of an organization in pursuit of any avowed policy.

LONDON, May 13.—"Gen." Mrs. Flora Drummond, one of the militant suffragette leaders, was unable to appear at the resumed hearing at the Bow Street Police Court to-day of the charge of conspiracy under the Malicious Damage to Property act which has been brought against her. A doctor testified in court that, owing to her illness, she had been removed to a nursing home. It would, he said, take two weeks for her to get into a fit condition to undergo an operation that was necessary, and it would be another two months before she would be able to appear for trial. She was now, he said, in a state of collapse.

The other defendants, Harriet Rebecca Kerr, Agnes Lake, Rachel Barrett, Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, Annie Kenney, Laura Lenox, and the analytical chemist, Clayton, all surrendered to their bail.

In the course of the hearing the printers of the militants' newspaper, The Suffragette, told of the negotiations which led them to undertake the work. Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, they said, had conducted the negotiations, and in reply to fears expressed by the printers that the job was a dangerous one she gave her personal promise that no offensive or illegal matter should appear. She laid stress on the point that her daughter, Christabel Pankhurst, had received a legal training and was a specialist in constitutional law.

The interesting revelation was made on the witness stand that the militant organization, the Women's Social and Political Union, had paid for the printing of the election address of George

DOCTOR KILLED, GIRL HURT.

Tuxedo Express Hits Physician's Auto at Unguarded Crossing.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, May 13.—Dr. E. F. Brooks, a prominent practitioner of this city, was killed and Miss May C. Martin, a stenographer, was injured badly when the physician's auto was struck to-night by the Tuxedo Express, one of the fastest trains on the Newburg branch of the Erie Railroad. The accident occurred at an unprotected crossing at Vailsgate Junction. The doctor's legs were crushed and his chest was stove in. The girl, who saved her life by jumping, was hurt about the head.

Miss Martin recently had been operated on by Dr. Brooks. She called at the physician's office this afternoon to have her wound dressed. He offered to take her home in his machine. When the pair were in the car he remarked that he had to visit a patient in a suburb, and she consented to accompany him. They were returning to the city when the train ran them down as they were crossing the track.

The view on both sides of the road was obstructed, and the occupants of the machine did not notice the train until it was almost on them. After calling the physician's attention to the train Miss Martin jumped. She was unconscious when passengers from the train picked her up.

Miss Martin and the body of the doctor were brought to Newburg on the train which had figured in the crash. The girl's mother is critically ill and news of the accident was withheld from her. Miss Martin is 19 years old. Dr. Brooks, who was married, was 38. He was one of the most prominent Knights of Pythias in the State.

BOY DROWNS IN CISTERN.

Little Vincent Hopkins Strays from Nurse—Shock May Kill Mother.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN COVE, L. I., May 13.—Vincent Hopkins, three and one-half years old, son of the late Milton Hopkins, a Manhattan lawyer, who died in March, was drowned this afternoon in an unused cistern. He had strayed away from his nurse. The child's mother, who was just recovering from the shock of her husband's death, collapsed when she was told of the death of her child. Her condition is serious. It is feared that the shock will kill her.

Mrs. Hopkins sent Vincent out late yesterday afternoon with his nurse. The little child of a neighbor accompanied them. This child strayed away, and the nurse, telling Vincent to await her return, went to look for him. Vincent walked on. He made his way into a field in which there is an unused cistern. The top was guarded by a barrel against which it is believed the child leaned. His weight pushed the barrel into the opening and he fell after it into seven feet of water.

Missing the boy the nurse searched an hour for him and then alarmed the neighborhood. At the end of another hour's search the body was found.

EVERYBODY HITTING TAP DAY

Freshmen Won't Go, Faculty Will Hold Tea, Public to be Excluded.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 13.—Votes have been taken by the Yale freshmen and Sophomores not to attend the Tap Day exercises on Thursday and to-night it was learned that the Faculty have planned for their annual tea this year to be held on the forestry school grounds at the hour of the Tap Day exercises, a mile from the campus.

Sophomores sometime ago demanded less publicity in the selection of members of the Senior secret societies and agreed to absent themselves from the slappings of the candidates. The freshman vote not to attend was taken to-day. This action will make the Seniors and Juniors the only undergraduates present. Alumni who are in town will be admitted to the campus, it has been learned, but the gates to the campus will be closed to the public.

The tappings will take place, as usual, under the elm near the historic fence at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The Sophomore class have sent word to the societies asserting that their members will not accept elections next year unless the choices of the members made from the present Junior class on Thursday are representative men.

HANSONS ARE RECONCILED.

Son Who Married a Vaudeville Actress Forgiven by His Mother.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., May 13.—Legal proceedings which have kept the courts of New York and Saratoga Counties busy were suddenly quashed to-day, when Mrs. Aimée L. Hanson of Brooklyn settled all her differences with her son, Walter L. Hanson, who married Henrietta Reutti, a vaudeville actress of New York, contrary to his mother's wishes. Mrs. Hanson, who had previously brought suit to have the young man declared incompetent on the ground of habitual drunkenness, welcomed him to her Summer home here, and the lad and his bride will spend the Summer with Mrs. Hanson.

Until the wedding Mrs. Hanson, her son and Miss Reutti were close friends. She did not want her son to marry, however, and when he did so she closed the doors of her home to him. Previously he had transferred to his mother a $50,000 bequest which he had received from his grandfather, the late Henry B. Hanson. After the wedding he brought suit to annul this transfer, and his mother immediately began the incompetency proceedings.

Attorneys for Mrs. Hanson said to-night that the son sought the reconciliation, and that it was based upon no conditions or demands of any kind.

GREEKS EXPEL AMERICANS.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, Missionaries, Forced to Leave Albania.

BOSTON, May 13.—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions to-day received a cable dispatch from the United States Consul at Salonika stating that the Rev. Phineas B. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy, American missionaries, had been expelled from their station in Kortcha, in Southern Albania, by the Greeks, and were now in Salonika.

Secretary James L. Barton said that Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy were sent to Kortcha six years ago, and had been conducting a school for Albanian girls there. They were in the city when the Greeks took possession of it.

"Mr. Kennedy," Mr. Barton added, "has given himself very fully to the work of relieving the great distress prevailing in the city and in the neighboring villages. In the last letters received from him he reports that apparently the Greek officials were suspicious of this, as a guard was placed in front of his house and the names of all those who came to the house were recorded."

SALONIKA, May 13.—The British cruiser Gloucester left here to-day at full speed for Smyrna after the receipt of an urgent summons from that city.

THIEF GETS VITAL BATTLESHIP PLANS

SECRET WOULD AID ENEMY

Burns Detectives Called In—First Series Stolen from Department on Inauguration Day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—In spite of efforts to minimize the incident, the Navy Department is greatly concerned over the theft of duplicate sets of battle fire control plans to be installed on the super-dreadnought Pennsylvania. Those sets were stolen at different times from the Bureau of Steam Engineering in the Navy Department, the first on the night of March 4, when the Department Building was crowded with persons watching the fireworks display in honor of Woodrow Wilson's inauguration as President. When the second set of plans disappeared is not known to the department.

There had been several petty thefts in the bureau, and when the discovery was made on March 5 that the first set of plans had disappeared the disposition was to believe that a person not aware of the value the plans would have for a foreign naval power had taken them. But when the duplicates of the same plans disappeared at a subsequent date, the naval authorities began to suspect that the thief had a definite object and was aware of the advantage it would be to another government to know just how the fire control system of the big battleship was arranged.

When the men in charge of the naval administration awoke to that fact they engaged detectives in William J. Burns's employ and asked the Washington police to assist them. Burns operatives and local detectives have been on duty in the Navy Department since then under the guise of clerks and other employes.

Thief Baffles the Detectives.

Although the services of the Burns Agency and the police were obtained several weeks ago, when the department's own investigation had been futile, it was not until to-day that the fact became known publicly that the thefts had been committed. After the Navy Department learned that the secret was out Secretary Daniels gave out the following:

> On the night of March 4, when there was a large number of persons in the State, War, and Navy Building, assembled to witness the inaugural fireworks, there were taken by persons, as yet unknown, from the drafting room of the Bureau of Steam Engineering uncompleted plans of the electric wiring of the new battleship Pennsylvania. These plans showed the general arrangement of the decks and hatches, but would be of no particular value to any one wishing to obtain naval information not generally made public. A short time after similar plans were missed from the ame drafting room. The matter is still under investigation.

Although the department's statement seeks to minimize the importance of the thefts and the value of the plans stolen, it is understood that the arrangement of the important fire control apparatus was contained in both sets of drawings that were taken. The drawings showed in addition the deck plans, turret foundations, hatches, and general outline of the ship. But their special value, in the eyes of a naval expert, would be the plan for placing the connections of the fire control system of the ship—the brain and nerves of the fighting organism. Such knowledge in the hands of experts would be fatal in almost any fight where the Pennsylvania might meet a vessel of anywhere near equal fighting power. Marksmen with such information would be able quickly to direct a shot that would disable the ship and make it impossible to direct her fire.

Persons who have been modern American battleships have been particularly interested in the tall skeleton structures erected fore and aft, looking like oil derricks. Those are the fire control masts. In their tops, during a naval engagement, officers are stationed who send signals to all the batteries as to how to direct their fire at the enemy. It is from those tops the wires run that are shown in the plans stolen from the Navy Department. The importance to a prospective enemy of the United States of the plans showing how that signaling apparatus is arranged is obvious.

Daniels Tells of Theft.

Secretary Daniels and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt said to-day in answer to questions from THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that the first set of plans disappeared between 7 o'clock on the evening of March 4 and the next morning, when the draughting force of the Bureau of Steam Engineering reported for work. The plans were known to be o nthe draughting tables at 7 P.M. on inauguration day, which was a holiday in Washington. They were drawn on linen paper that could be made into a small bundle and concealed under an overcoat.

The petty thefts in the Navy Department recently were confined to the Bureau of Steam Engineering and the Bureau of Construction and Repair. Only such things as copies of the naval regulations and other books of a public character that are easily obtainable were taken. Suspicion as to the thief who carried away the Pennsylvania's plans naturally pointed to the person guilty of the petty thefts, and it was taken for granted he was an employe of the department and probably attached to the Bureau of Steam Engineering.

For the last two weeks orders have been enforced in the Bureau of Steam Engineering and the Bureau of Construction and Repair which make it impossible for any save the chiefs of those bureaus and two trusted assistant officials in each to enter any of the rooms occupied by the bureaus after the department closes at 4:30 o'clock each day. All passes to the bureau rooms have been canceled. Any person found trying to enter the rooms after the business day would be subject to arrest.

The Bureau of Construction and Repairs, where all plans for battleships are designed, has met no loss of valuable plans of the various types of ships.

There usually is little about a battleship in this country or abroad that sooner or later is not known fully to the intelligence offices of all the leading navies of the world, but the fire control plans of all our battleships have been guarded carefully.

The theft of the fire control plans of the Pennsylvania from the Navy Department is punishable by a fine of $1,000, or a year's imprisonment, or both.

The law also provides that any person who, after taking any such photograph or making a sketch of United States fortifications or any navy yard, naval station, fort, battery, arsenal, camp, factory, building or office or other places connected with the National defense attempts to communicate it to any foreign government shall be imprisoned for not more than ten years.

Old Home Week In Old Greenwich Village

IN NEXT SUNDAY'S TIMES.

FOUR AUTOS PILE UP IN CORNER SMASH

Two in Collision First and Then Third and Fourth Come On and Tangle Up.

A roomy touring car came speeding down Seventh Avenue toward Central Park at 10 o'clock last evening and at the same moment another touring car was headed for the avenue on 110th Street. At the crossing they met in a collision that entangled the cars, jarred all the passengers and tossed one of them to the street. Many persons gathered around to view the wreck.

The two motoring parties had hardly recovered from the first shock when there came another in the form of a third automobile down Seventh Avenue. Without swerving from its path, it drove straight into the other two cars and added another group of frightened, lame motorists to the gathering at that crossways. The crowd was just beginning to make waggish remarks about the new disposition of automobile parties to injure each other, instead of those who go afoot, when out of the darkness of 110th Street arrived a fourth car. This belonged to Isaac Rosenberg of 190 Tompkins Avenue, Brooklyn. The chauffeur drove straight into the confused tangle of automobiles, and landed there with such force that Mr. Rosenberg was catapulted to the curb, which he struck with such force that his left arm was broken.

The first car belonged to Charles Mitchell of Katonah, N. Y., and he had three friends with him when his machine crashed into the one belonging to Henry Stockhazen of 66 West Fifty-sixth Street. In Mr. Stockhazen's party was John Van Curren, who was the one tossed out. His injuries were not serious, although his eye was painfully bruised and his whole face cut and scraped. The third car was John D. Taylor's. Mr. Taylor lives at 153 West 123d Street.

It was the first case on record of a four-car collision. Just how it happened could only be guessed with the assistance of rough descriptions by spectators, for before Patrolman Lusser of the Lenox Avenue Station arrived the first three cars had been righted and made a limping but hurried departure from the scene of their misfortune. No chauffeurs were left to tell why they had been unable to drive their cars out of such quadruple confusion. Mr. Rosenberg's car was left, for he could not be moved until the ambulance took both him and Mr. Van Curren to the Harlem Hospital.

KILLED IN AUTO UPSET.

A. B. Willingham, Tobacco Buyer, Pinned Under the Machine.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., May 13.—Andrew B. Willingham, chief buyer of the American Tobacco Company, was fatally injured at 6 o'clock this evening, when a touring car turned turtle as it was leaving the grounds of the Country Club of Virginia, in the western suburbs of the city. He died four hours later of a fracture of the skull. Thomas J. Walker, Director of the American Tobacco Company, and manager of the Richmond Stemmery, received injuries which may result in death, and other officials of the company and the chauffeur were slightly hurt.

The accident is attributed by Oscar C. Gregory, assistant to Mr. Walker, the only occupant of the car to escape injury, to the fact that the chauffeur took the inside turn on a steep down grade, instead of going to the outside. Mr. Willingham was pinned under the machine.

MEXICAN FEDERALS FLEEING

Governor of Sonora Says They Are Hurrying to the Gulf.

NOGALES, Ariz., May 13.—The Federal forces have been routed and all are fleeing toward the Gulf, according to Gov. Pesqueira of Sonora, who arrived to-day in Hermosillo from the front above Guaymas. He said the State troops had captured 200 rifles and 3,000 rounds of ammunition. Another report from the front was that seven cannon and seven machine guns had been taken.

The confusion is so great below the State base at Ortiz, to which point the telegraph is operating, that only meagre details of the happenings about Guaymas can be obtained. A strong detachment of Federals under Col. Barron is reported cut off from retreat and besieged in the hills by the insurgents under Col. Hill. Barron has been wounded.

GUADALAJARA, Mex., May 13.—Rebels under command of Julian Mediana, a former Jefe Politico, occupied to-day the town of Hostotipaquillo, 60 miles northwest of Guadalajara and the centre of the most important mining district of the State of Jalisco. The small garrison and townsfolk held off the rebels for four hours, after which the ammunition of the defenders became exhausted. Six Federal soldiers were killed. When the insurgents entered Hostotipaquillo they looted the stores and burned the Court House. Several big American camps are situated in that vicinity.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, May 13.—United States Consul Jesse H. Johnson in Matamoras, Mex., wired to-day to the State Department:

"Still in suspense awaiting arrival of rebels, who are expected almost hourly. About 300 soldiers here. Supposed to be 600 rebels."

DR. ABBOTT TO PRESIDE.

Choice of Mohonk Conference, Despite Peace Society's Recent Action.

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., May 13.—A buzz of comment among the 300 delegates to the nineteenth annual Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration, which will open here to-morrow morning, was caused by the announcement that the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, who was lately removed as a Vice President of the American Peace Society, was to be the presiding officer at the first session. The general query was whether Dr. Abbott's opening address would deal with the recent incident at St. Louis.

Agreeably to the wish of the late Albert K. Smiley, founder of the conference, his brother Daniel will deliver the opening address of welcome. To-morrow afternoon a memorial service to Albert K. Smiley will be held under the direction of a committee consisting of Dr. Lyman Abbott, Hamilton Holt, Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, and Dr. George W. Kirchwey.

JOHNSON CONVICTED AS A WHITE SLAVER

May Get Five Years, but Is Bailed and Will Seek New Trial.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Jack Johnson, negro champion heavyweight prizefighter, was found guilty to-night of violating the Federal white slave law in transporting Belle Schreiber from Pittsburgh to Chicago in 1910. He was convicted on all seven of the counts remaining in the indictments. The jury returned its verdict after an hour's consideration.

The maximum penalty under the finding is five years' imprisonment or $10,000 fine, or both.

A motion by Assistant District Attorney Parkin that Johnson be confined in the county jail was overruled by Judge Carpenter, and the negro was released on a bond of $10,000. A motion for a new trial was filed at once by counsel to Johnson. Argument on the motion was set for May 19.

Four ballots were taken by the jurors, the first being four for acquittal and eight for conviction.

Taking of testimony was ended today after the prizefighter denied on the stand the statement of the Schreiber woman that he paid her transportation. A night session was held so the attorneys might complete their arguments.

Johnson admitted he had sent money to the woman in response to her request by telephone, but denied he made any stipulation that she should use it to come to Chicago.

He testified he had spent "between $9,000 and $10,000" on Belle Schreiber, but denied positively he had sent her a telegram telling her to come to Chicago and wait for him here. Whether his agents sent such a telegram without his knowledge he could not say. He said she telephoned and asked him to send $75. He complied, but had no intention that she should come to this city. His purpose in coming here afterward was to arrange boxing matches.

The woman, he said, asked him to furnish a flat for herself, her sister, and her mother. She wished to work as a stenographer again.

"I sent about $1,000 for her to fix up her flat," Johnson related, "and then gave her $500 to keep her going till she could get a job as a stenographer."

He denied he ever had given her diamonds. Johnson also denied he had made improper use of the Schreiber flat here, and that he forcibly had taken money from the woman or had beaten Etta Duryea, his first white wife.

"If you should find this defendant not guilty, knowing as you do the evidence in the case," said Assistant District Attorney Harry Parkin to the jurors, "I do not see how any of you can go home and look squarely into the faces of those you respect and admire."

Mr. Bachrach for the defense maintained that the general record and behavior of the negro were not to be considered.

"If he sent her the money to come to Chicago for improper purposes, he is guilty," he said. "That is the only thing to be considered by the jury."

Two counts of the indictment were dismissed yesterday at the request of Judge Carpenter, who decided that no good purpose could be served by airing unnecessary details of the relations of Johnson and the white woman.

Lucile Cameron Johnson, the fighter's present wife, did not appear in the courtroom at any time, his attorneys fearing the effect of her presence. Instead, Mrs. Tiny Johnson, the negro's mother, sat constantly at his side. Only a few persons were in court when the verdict was reached, as a result of an order by Judge Carpenter that "scandal fans" be barred from the hearings.

Johnson's smile, which had been on his lips during the time of the jury's deliberations, faded when the clerk pronounced the word "Guilty." Johnson sat solemnly in his seat until Mr. Perkin's motion that the fighter be taken into custody was denied. Then the convicted man slipped quietly from his seat and made his way from the courtroom alone.

"I have nothing to say," he said. "My attorney will speak for me."

Suit for $63.50 was filed against Johnson by an automobile company to-day, it alleging he had failed to pay for goods he had bought.

BOLDT HAD READY PISTOL.

Princeton Student Apologizes to Negroes and Escapes Prosecution.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 13.—College circles are much interested in a recent adventure of H. St. J. Boldt, a junior, the son of a New York surgeon. Young Boldt is of Southern descent and has ideas about the negro race. In order to command respect from two negroes he covered them with his pistol in the neighborhood of Cranbury, N. J. When he was finally hunted down the Princeton authorities went into consultation with Boldt's father and with the negroes, and it was agreed that there would be no prosecution if Boldt apologized, which he did.

The first display of the student's feeling came when he and another Princeton student were bicycling by a negro at work in a field. Boldt dropped a reference to the man's race, and immediately received a sharp retort from the other side of the hedge. He did not settle the score, however, until a week ago, when, so the story runs, he hunted up the offender, drew a revolver, and at its point received an apology.

The student was riding back to the university when he noted that a negro driving a cart on the highway did not give him the greeting so familiar to white men who travel Southern roads. Boldt remonstrated, and the man in the wagon said he spoke only to people whom he knew. Boldt drew his pistol and the negro was ordered down from his seat. Then he tried the effect of a shot in the air.

This brought J. S. Flavel, Superintendent of the trolley line, to the rescue. He seized Boldt's bicycle, but at the point of the revolver he surrendered it speedily, and the student pedaled back to Princeton. Besides making the apology, Boldt has been disciplined by the university.

WITTPENN MEN LEAD ELIMINATION VOTE

His Candidates Sure of Three Places, Says Jersey City's Mayor.

HAS HOPE FOR TWO MORE

Fagan, Republican, Gets the Biggest Vote of Any One—Great Interest in Election.

At 2 o'clock this morning Mayor Wittpenn of Jersey City conceded the nominations in yesterday's elimination election of the following eight candidates for the office of City Commissioners, the first officers of the municipal government to be chosen under the new city charter, which provides for the commission form of government: Mark M. Fagan, former Republican Mayor; Frank Hague, independent Democrat; John H. Morris, A. Harry Moore, James A. Ferris, George F. Brensinger, Joseph F. Farmer, and Walter L. McDermott. Of these, Farmer, Moore and Ferris are Wittpenn candidates.

The two remaining nominations for the general election on June 10, Mayor Wittpenn said, rested between Charles P. Olwell, Carl G. Shumann, John Rotheream, and Thomas Stewart, an Independent Democrat. Of these Olwell and Shumann are the remaining Wittpenn candidates. Rotherham is the former Republican leader of Hudson County. Wittpenn thinks that the odds favor his other two candidates.

There were ninety-one candidates in the field for nomination yesterday, and of these the ten receiving the highest individual votes will be placed upon the general election ballot for the choice of the voters on June 10. The five chosen at the general election will be sworn in as City Commissioners on June 17, and will choose from their number a Chairman, who will act as Mayor.

At midnight, three hours after the polls had closed, the returns from only thirty-nine out of 158 districts in the city had been completely tabulated. Scattering returns from various parts of the city, however, indicated that Mark M. Fagan, former Mayor, would receive the highest number of votes cast for any individual candidate. Fagan is a Republican and is the only one of that party who apparently is certain to receive a nomination for Commissioner.

The returns indicated that John Rotherham, the former Republican leader of Hudson County, had polled a heavy vote, but it is not believed that it will prove sufficient to land him among the final candidates on the municipal ticket. Louis L. Finke, a Democrat, was also a strong contender at midnight, and his adherents were confident that further returns would drag him up among the winners.

Great Interest in Election.

Never in the history of Jersey City have the citizens witnessed a more exciting election battle than the one conducted yesterday under the new form of government. Almost every district in the city had one or two favorite sons in the field among the ninety-one candidates. As a result, much trading was done among the adherents of this and that candidate.

"You vote for Jack and I'll vote for Bill," was the general method of campaigning, and the effect of such trading was apparent in the varied returns, which kept shifting as district after district was heard from.

Throughout the day automobiles and carriages brought voters to the polls, and on every side could be seen vans decorated with placards urging support for some individual candidate or coterie of candidates. Each voter had the privilege of indicating a choice for five men on his ballot, and some of the ballots cast were weird in the apparent disregard on the part of the voter for all political partisanship.

6,000 Await the Returns.

The vote cast yesterday was very heavy, and the intense interest felt by the citizens in the result of the election was demonstrated by the 6,000 persons who waited outside City Hall until early this morning to obtain the returns and learn the result of the contests.

Owing to the fact that City Clerk John H. Morris was himself a candidate, Judge Mark A. Sullivan decided that it might not be quite proper for Morris to supervise the tabulation of returns, and yesterday afternoon he designated three Deputy Sheriffs of Hudson County to take charge of this important feature of the election work. Returns were also tabulated in Police Headquarters.

A large number of arrests for illegal voting occurred during the day, but there was no trouble at any of the polling places. Most of the arrests were the result of misunderstanding on the part of voters who were unaware that only those who actually had voted last November in the State and National elections were eligible to express their preferences at the primaries yesterday.

This new provision in the election law that a voter at the primaries must have cast a ballot at the last preceding general election caused the district election officials a great deal of trouble and occasioned some ill-feeling.

Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to President Wilson, journeyed from Washington in order to vote in his home district. He arrived in Jersey City shortly before 5 o'clock and went at once to his polling place which was in a barber shop. After casting his ballot he spent a few hours with some friends and returned to Washington at midnight.

The ballots used in yesterday's election were only about nine inches square in spite of the number of candidates in the field. The name of each candidate appeared only once and the names were arranged in three parallel columns in the order in which their nominating petitions had been filed. No party emblems appeared on the ballot, nor was their any symbol to designate the party affiliations of any individual candidate.

The success of the candidates backed by Mayor Whittpenn, according to some disgruntled adversaries, was due to the fact that the employes of the present administration in the various municipal departments were led to support them at the polls in the hope of retaining their jobs after June 17, when the new city administration will come into office.

GAYNOR RAPS ALDERMEN.

Says It Would Be a Good Thing to Take Their Powers Away.

Mayor Gaynor expressed his opinion of the Board of Aldermen yesterday at a hearing on a bill in relation to the Municipal Explosives Commission, which was before him. When a young lawyer suggested that the same provisions described in the bill could be obtained from the Aldermen, the Mayor said:

"What can you get through the Board of Aldermen? I am unable to get an ordinance regulating moving pictures. These vile places are safeguarded by the Aldermen. I have not scolded about it. I have used fair words to try to get some measure through there, but it is impossible. It would be a good thing to take all their powers away, the way they are acting now."

MT. HOPE LINE BLOWN UP.

Road Dynamited After Conference with Mine Strikers Fails.

Special to The New York Times.

WHARTON, N. J., May 13.—The Mount Hope Mineral Railroad, which has been tied up for weeks on account of the strike at the Mount Hope mine of the Empire Steel and Iron Company, was dynamited at midnight last night in three places simultaneously. Three hundred feet of track were destroyed. The company representatives declared the work was that of strikers, angered because a conference yesterday failed to bring the strike to an end.

The section gang of the railroad quit work to-day at 11 o'clock, fearing that if they undertook to repair the track the strikers would attack them. President Leonard Peckitt said yesterday that he would not accede to the demand of the strikers that men who had refused to strike be dismissed. That was the obstacle in the way of a settlement.

STRIKE IN A SELECT SCHOOL

Miss McIlvaine's Teachers in Flushing Wouldn't Wait for Money.

When the seventy-seven children of wealthy Flushing families, pupils at the Hawthorn School, a fashionable private institution conducted by Miss Elizabeth D. McIlvaine, arrived at the school yesterday, they were met by the Principal.

"You may go home, children," she is quoted as saying. "There will be no lessons to-day."

Happily the youngsters ran home and told their parents they had an unexpected holiday. An investigation revealed the fact that the seven teachers connected with the school were on strike. They said their salaries had not been paid. Miss McIlvaine issued a statement late in the day in which she said she had told the teachers that they might have to wait a few days for their money, and had asked them to wait.

The school has long had the reputation of being one of the richest of its kind in Queens Borough. The rates for tuition are such as to attract only the children of wealthy parents.

CARLISLE KILLS ROAD BIDS.

Rejects Eight Contracts as Against the Public's Interest.

ALBANY, May 13.—As the specifications called for the use of patented materials, as "public policy requires better construction than was provided for," and because some routes "were laid out in an improper way and should be changed," State Commissioner of Highways Carlisle to-day rejected the bids and refused to enter into eight contracts for improved roads that had been awarded, but not signed by the commission.

Commissioner Carlisle indicated that the future policy of the department would be not to lay "expensive types of pavement" in municipalities, to "uphold the policy of home rule so far as possible" in the department's approval of State construction in corporate limits, and to discontinue the use of patented materials in road construction.

The date for the wedding has not yet been fixed.

POWERS OCCUPY SCUTARI.

Naval Force Installed To-day—Bulgars Lost 30,000 in War.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 14.—An international naval force will occupy Scutari to-day, and the Montenegrins will then begin the evacuation of the town.

Official figures of the Bulgarian losses in the war, published at Sofia yesterday, give the following estimate: Killed, 330 officers, 29,711 men; wounded, 950 officers, 52,550 men; missing, 3,193.

A conference of the Austrian and Hungarian Ministers will be held to-day to arrange for further demobilization, now that Balkan peace is assured.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 13.—The Budget Commission of the Duma estimates that the Balkan war has entailed upon Russian trade financial losses amounting to nearly $60,000,000.

WARNED BY TELEPHONE.

A. B. Croney Got to His Office in Time to Save Miss Millerman.

Miss Marion Millerman of 140 West 104th Street stayed late last night at work on the books in the office of Albert B. Croner, a building decorator, at 206 West Forty-second Street. At 9:30 Miss Millerman had not returned home, and friends notified her employer, Mr. Croner, to whom she is engaged. He went to the telephone and called up his office.

Miss Millerman answered the call, but after she had spoken one or two words which were almost inarticulate, Mr. Croner heard the telephone fall with a crash to the floor. Mr. Croner called a taxicab and with Policeman Phelan of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station, went to 206 West Forty-second Street. They met with a strong odor of gas on the staircase and in the office where an electric light was burning they saw Miss Millerman lying unconscious on the floor. The gas was coming from a gas jet partly open.

As the young woman had only been unconscious a few minutes she was quickly revived and taken home in the taxicab. Policeman Phelan reported it as an accident.

MOBS OF BARBERS WRECK MANY SHOPS

FIGHT TO FREE PRISONERS

Resist Police with Stones and Fists, but Find Big Hotels Too Well Guarded to Attack.

Efforts of the warring barbers to spread their strike through all the shops in Manhattan were attended yesterday with indifferent success and a great deal of violence. There was less violence and more success as the Strike Committees made the rounds of the 600 barber shops in the Bronx, where, according to the union reports last night, a very considerable proportion of the journeymen laid aside their razors.

In Manhattan, especially among the higher class barber shops, the journeymen seemed cold to the striking zeal. Furthermore, the police seemed omnipresent. They were thick about the hotel shops, where the Strike Committees were signally unsuccessful, and in some of the downtown shops there seemed to the dismayed strikers to be quite as many bluecoats as barbers on the premises. The day was marked by scattering arrests all over town. Meanwhile, signs of unrest were increasing in the shops in Jersey City, and to-day will decide whether the Hudson County barbers will fight or compromise.

In a descent on the shop at 94 East Fourteenth Street last night the strikers used stones to shatter the plate glass windows and wreck all the mirrors and crockery inside. Two of the recklessly hurled stones came into contact with the head of Police Sergeant Apple, and the rioters were only dispersed with the aid of the Fifth Street Station reserves.

The animus against this shop was inspired by the proprietor, Adam Balz, who shut and locked his door in the faces of the strikers, apparently to the great content of the three journeymen at work within. The sharpness of this dismissal caused an outburst of rage, and Sergeant Apple paid part of the penalty. He stuck to his post, however, and with the assistance of two other policemen clung to two prisoners until the reserves came. The men arrested were accused of malicious mischief.

Magistrate Cornell a Victim.

When the strikers visited the shop of Wiliam Renke, next door to the Colonial Hotel in Harlem, his journeymen declined to walk out and Renke stepped next door to call for the police. They arrived in time to see the strikers battering away at Renke's mirrors and bottles, and out of the wreck of the shop they plucked four prisoners. The police were more forehanded in the case of a shop in Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, for the mere arrival of a tempting striker led to his arrest for disorderly conduct.

A hundred or more striking barbers visited the shop of Charles Bishop, at 309 Fourth Avenue, near Twenty-third Street, in the evening, and ordered the five journeymen barbers employed there to leave. The men refused and the strikers began a demonstration. Some one threw a headrest, snatched from a barber's chair, through the plate-glass window in front of the shop. The police of the East Twenty-second Street Station dispersed the crowd and made three arrests. The prisoners were all charged with disorderly conduct.

Similar difficulties beset the strike committees in their march from shop to shop earlier in the day, and those arrested and taken to the Jefferson Market Court found small comfort in the attitude of Magistrate Cornell, who announced from the bench that he needed no police testimony to tell him the prisoners were disturbers of the peace. Had not he been defrauded of his shave earlier at the Hotel Brevoort when the strikers arrived as he was waiting his turn in the barber's shop there?

Wrecked Shop in 14th Street.

This information came from the bench following the visit of a committee of the strikers to the shop of Joseph Maynard at 403 West Fourteenth Street. When the doors were closed against the committee a volley of stones shattered the plate glass window. Headed by Paul Torrent of 63 East Thirty-sixth Street, some of the strikers forced their way into the place and commanded the four barbers at work there to give up their jobs.

Policeman King of the Charles Street station ordered the strikers to leave. Joseph Gresceuzi of 217 West Twenty-eighth Street dared the policeman to put him out. King promptly placed the man under arrest, and then the rest of the strikers attempted a rescue.

King whistled for help, and Policeman Sindt of the West Seventeenth Street Station and another policeman came up just as Torrent struck at Policeman King, and the other strikers closed in. The group fought its way to the street, and two firemen on a passing surface car jumped off and assisted in arresting Torrent and Gresceuzi.

The prisoners were taken to the Jefferson Market Court, where Magistrate Cornell fined Gresceuzi $5 and sent Torrent to the workhouse.

After the prisoners had been sentenced the policemen went back to the Fourteenth Street place and found that besides smashing the windows the rioters had driven the boss barber, the four journeymen and a girl manicurist to the street, along with four partly shaven men. The strikers were quickly dispersed.

Another demonstration was made at a barber's shop in Thirteenth Street, near Fourth Avenue, but the crowd dispersed on the arrival of policemen. Several other demonstrations were stopped in the same way.

Hotels Well Guarded.

Before they began their uptown march the strikers invaded some of the downtown places. They induced three barbers to strike at 27½ Frankfort Street, and then went to the shop of Charles Spey, at 196 William Street. The German barbers there refused to quiet. So did those in the shop at Spruce and Nassau Streets, where there were as many policemen as there were barbers.

The strikers then went uptown to try the hotel barber shops. They frightened some of the ourneymen away from the Hotel Brevoort barber shop, but as far as known the strikers were unsuccessful at the other hotels. The mob waited outside while three of the strikers went into the barber shop of the Hotel McAlpin. The barbers refused unanimously to quit. Louis Morgan, Superintendent of the shop, said that the hotel barbers were paid more than the union was asking. Committees of the strikers had as little success at the Hotel Imperial, the Martinique, the Knickerbocker, and other large hotels in the district. All the big hotels were protected by policemen, and the Astor and one or two others had special guards as well.

In some of the other barber shops in the district the Strike Committee met with more success. After the committee had visited the Empire Barber Shop at 506 Sixth Avenue three times, three journeyman barbers left. At Hartman's barber shop, 57 West Thirtieth Street, the three men were allowed to join the union, whose demands will be agreed to.

State Board Seeks Agreement.

Meetings of the representatives of the Brooklyn and Manhattan strikers were held, but Strike Leaders Cancellieri of Manhattan and Frisini of Brooklyn did not seem to agree very well. John J. Bealin and Col. Michael J. Reagan of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration have arranged a meeting of representatives of both sides to-day, with a view of settling the strike. According to the reports, there are from 7,000 to 10,000 barbers on strike in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx.

The violence that attended the demonstrations in Manhattan was mild compared with the excesses which marked the progress of the strike in Williamsburg last night. There the strikers paraded past many a shop after 8 o'clock. If it was still open the invaders tossed head-rests and shaving mugs into the mirrors. Ine some cases revolvers were flourished, but none was fired. From shop after shop, highly indignant patrons fled, hatless, coatless and often collarless, with faces half shaven or heads half cropped.

In Jersey City there are signs of peace, although the barbers were grumbling threateningly last night. It was freely predicted last night that the journeymen, who have done nothing more violent than parade to show their strength, would be rewarded by the concession to their only demand, closed shops at 8 P. M. instead of 9 P. M. Hoboken has not yet been infected.

JOHNSON REPLIES TO-DAY.

Sacramento Thinks He Will State His Views, Then Sign Alien Bill.

SACRAMENTO, May 13.—Gov. Johnson will probably send a message to Secretary Bryan to-morrow morning, giving his decision on the request of the Federal Government that he withhold his signature from the Alien Land bill.

This was the announcement given out to-night from the Executive office, and is taken to mean that the Governor has made up his mind what he will do. The belief prevails here that he will send a full statement of his views to Washington and immediately thereafter sign the bill.

It was known to-day that Gov. Johnson expected to reach the matter to-night, but the press of legislative business kept him engaged most of the day and resulted in a change of plans.

Special to The New York Times..

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The fact that nothing was received by the Administration to-day from Gov. Johnson of California in response to Secretary Bryan's telegram of Sunday night, urging the Governor to veto the Alien Land bill or defer action on it, revived hope here in official circles that Mr. Bryan's message would be heeded.

As the President and his advisers now understand the situation as it exists in California. Gov. Johnson really has thirty days in which to give further consideration to the Land bill after the adjournment of the Legislature. Much could be accomplished in thirty days, it is believed here, toward bringing about an understanding by which the bill will be made inoperative, while the Federal Government engaged in treaty negotiations with Japan to adjust the differences that have been the cause of the anti-Japanese legislation by the California Legislature.

The Constitutional period of ten days, given to Gov. Johnson to take action on the bill, will expire on Friday. The legislative session, limited to sixty days, must end on Thursday. Should the Governor fail to veto or approve the alien land measure before the session of the Legislature expires by limitation he would have an additional period of thirty days for consideration of the bill.

TICKLISH FOR ARBITRATION.

Pall Mall Gazette Doubts if We Would Agree to Go to The Hague.

LONDON, May 13.—"If it be true that Japan wishes to carry the California land question to The Hague Tribunal we may shortly obtain a fruitful lesson in the practical limits of arbitration," says The Pall Mall Gazette to-day in discussing the situation which has arisen between the United States and Japan in regard to the California Alien Land bill. The newspaper continues:

"If the Chinese and Japanese are to have free entry to the Pacific coast it means eventually the extirpation of white labor from that region. All the arbitration in the world will not persuade the people of the Western States that it is their duty to give up their bread and butter to an alien race, and we can imagine how much likelihood there is of the Government at Washington taking measures to enforce such an award upon its own subjects. We should rather like to see the experiment for its usefulness in bringing many dreamers back to hard facts."

PRAYS TO ST. RITA, BETTER.

Improvement After Sick Woman Turns to Saint of the Impossible.

Since she started praying to St. Rita, who through constant prayer caused her two sons to be slain by an unseen power just as they were about to slay another, Mrs. Rose Boutz of Union Hill, who has been seriously ill since January, has shown marked improvement.

She is the wife of Emil Bautz, Town Clerk of Union Hill, and because of a weak heart Dr. Curtis, the family physician, for some time entertained slight hope that the woman would ever sufficiently recover to allow her to leave her home.

Several weeks ago the condition of Mrs. Bautz took a sudden turn for the worse, and as a last resort she began to pray regularly to her patron saint, St. Rita, the Saint of the Impossible. In a few days the young woman appeared much stronger, and when George Hencl, a brother brought a priest to the bedside with a relic of the saint from a church in Vineland, N. J., she improved further. Dr. Curtis now believes Mrs. Bautz will recover.

EXPECT TO DEFEAT TARIFF HEARINGS

Senate Continues Debate on Penrose Amendment--Leaders Predict Majority Against It.

QUESTIONS FOR WITNESSES

Testimony La Follette Wants from Manufacturers if Hearings Prevail — A Sugar Amendment.

Special to The New York Times..

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Democrats in the Senate have let another day go by without sending the tariff bill, which passed the House last Thursday, to the Finance Committee. The subject of sending the bill to committee with or without instructions to hold hearings was debated for several hours in the Senate to-day. When it appeared that the debate would drag on indefinitely Senator Bacon, one of the majority leaders, moved an executive session. This kept the tariff over until to-morrow.

There seems to be no question now of the ability of the majority to vote down any attempt at instructing the committee to grant hearings. Some Republicans are known to be against hearings, while the Democrats are solidly united against them, with the exception of the two protectionist Democrats from Louisiana. But the kind of tactics now being followed give no indication when a vote will be reached. The leaders hope, however, that the Penrose amendment ordering the hearings and Senator La Follette's secondary amendment, offered to-day, embodying questions to be asked of witnesses by the committee, will be voted down to-morrow afternoon. In that case the bill will be sent to committee without delay and reported back to the Senate probably within ten days.

Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, and Senator Penrose, leading the Republican fight to refer the bill with instructions for public hearings, delivered oratorical broadsides against each other in the Senate to-day in the debate on the Penrose amendment.

Senator Penrose likened the secret House caucus on the tariff bill to the "methods of the Spanish Inquisition," and brought laughter from both sides when he described the caucus and declared no one was present to witness the "murder of American industry."

Senator Simmons declared that, if the Democratic purpose to eliminate hearings could be called reprehensible, it was the first time the Democratic Party had copied the methods of the Republicans, and he argued at length why public hearings were not necessary, averring that they were not even demanded.

Mr. Penrose referred to Mr. Simmon's attitude on the lumber schedule four years ago when the Payne-Aldrich bill was under consideration. Senator Simmons answered: "I will vote with pleasure for free lumber."

Senator Simmons charged that what the Republicans sought through public hearings was an opportunity to arrange for "stump speeches by the interests and to give the gentlemen representing the interests grown rich under Republican protection another opportunity to declare that if the Payne-Aldrich rates are reduced 1 per cent. their industries will be destroyed; to give them a chance to make an appeal from the judgment of the country expressed in the last election."

Mr. Simmons declared that many manufacturers had notified him that they did not want open hearings. The Senator said the finance sub-committees were making some changes, but that they were not material. Reduction of the proposed duty of 12 per cent. on structural steel to 9 per cent. is said to have been considered.

Senator Bristow offered an amendment to the sugar schedule providing for graduated reductions for two three-year periods, at the end of which time refined sugar should be taxed at $1.27½ per hundred pounds and "ninety-six Cuban sugar" at $0.972.

Senator Thomas admitted that his statement to the Senate last Friday, that laborers in the Western beet fields received 22 cents a day was incorrect. He said that he found adult laborers in those fields were paid from $1.50 to $2 a day, but that women and children received much less.

Senator Smith of Michigan, referring to a batch of telegrams which he said came from beet raisers in the West, declared that, according to figures in them, laborers received from $2.50 to $3 a day. He added that the fact that Senator Thomas, a member of the Finance Committee, admitted that he had made such a mistake was a good reason for holding hearings on the bill.

"It was just such inaccuracies as this, the lack of reliable information, that prompted me to suggest that we ought to have hearings," said Mr. Smith.

Senator La Follette's amendment, which was accepted by Senator Penrose, provides that manufacturers who appear or file briefs before the Finance Committee be required to answer under oath sixteen questions relating to the commodity they manufacture—the raw materials used, the amount of production and consumption of the commodity in this country, the number of concerns engaged in its manufacture and their identity, the market price in this and competing couutries, the cost of production in this and competing countries, percentage of labor cost here and abroad, transportation costs to principal markets here and abroad, what part of the existing tariff duty represents difference in cost of production here and abroad, and what part of the tariff duty represents profit of the American manufacturer.

President Wilson has taken the position that he ought not to commit himself in any way with respect to numerous minor amendments to the tariff bill being suggested by Democrats. Secretary Redfield had a half-hour talk with the President before the Cabinet meeting to-day, and declared he believed unimportant changes would be made, but that if the President consented to certain ones he would be besieged with requests to open up other schedules.

Secretary Redfield said that since it had become known that an inquiry was to be made by the Bureau of Domestic and Foreign Commerce into wages and industrial conditions in connection with the tariff bill, some requests had come from manufacturers themselves inviting such an investigation. These, Mr. Redfield declared, were based, however, on the belief that the inquiry would be more the basis for tariff rates than an examination as to the effects of the bill after it had become law.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS SHRINK.

Due to Impending Tariff Reductions, Treasury Officials Declare.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Government revenues from customs receipts are beginning to show a material decline for May, although heavy importations usually are characteristic of the Spring months. Treasury officials familiar with the temper of the business world during tariff revision periods declare that the condition is not unusual, as business interests then seem to mark time, holding importations to the lowest limit in order to secure the advantage of prospective lower rates.

Customs receipts for the first twelve days of May amounted to $7,428,278, as compared with $10,768,975 for the corresponding period of 1912, a decrease of $3,340,697. Despite these figures, the total receipts from customs up to date during the current fiscal year are $12,250,000 greater than for the corresponding term of the preceding year.

$18,000 Verdict for Loss of Arm.

Max Chasen, 33 years old, of 26 Wilson Avenue, Astoria, obtained a verdict of $18,000 in the Queens County Supreme Court yesterday against the Astoria Heat, Light and Power Company for the loss of his right arm. Chasen lost his arm in attempting to replace the belt on the pulley of a coke conveyor while the machinery was in operation. His arm was drawn into the pulley and was pulled out of the shoulder socket. He sued for $25,000.

CENSUS FIGHT IN SENATE.

Republicans Begin Their Filibuster Against Harris's Confirmation.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Senate Republicans began their big fight against President Wilson's nominations to-night when the appointment of W. J. Harris of Georgia, as Director of the Census, to suceed E. Dana Durand, was taken up in executive session. For nearly five hours the Senate played at cross purposes on the Harris nomination without ever entering into a discussion of the merits of the case.

The Republicans forced roll call after roll call on questions of procedure and in support of tactics which the Democrats termed dilatory. Motions to put the nomination over until to-morrow, until Friday and until next week were made and defeated, and finally, when the membership on both sides had dwindled away to almost nothing, adjournment was taken until to-morrow at noon, with the Harris nomination just where it was when the doors were closed shortly before 4 o'clock.

Republican leaders have served notice that they expect to keep up the fight against the confirmation of Harris until July 1, at least, when Mr. Durand has announced his intention of giving up his office. Under the Senate rules there is no question of their ability to filibuster to their hearts' content, and if they are willing to go into long executive sessions day after day they can prevent confirmation as long as their talking powers last.

During the debate to-night an unsuccessful attempt was made to invoke the famous "Reed rule" by which members present in the chamber, but not voting, were counted in an attempt to disclose a quorum. This innovation brought forth more speeches, and before the session ended most of the Democrats and some of the Republicans had spoken, although none touched upon the nomination itself.

A minority report against Harris was filed by Senator Townsend, and Senators La Follette and Cummins, also of the Census Committee, Senator Burton, and other Republicans were interested in the case. Senator Burton asserted, after the debate had proceeded for several hours, that he was willing to review the history of censuses from the present day to the time of Babylon before he would see Harris confirmed. Mr. Burton was strongly of the opinion that Mr. Durand should have been allowed to serve out his term.

The Republican fight centres largely upon the contention that offices requiring technical knowledge or scientific attainments should not be given as political rewards, but that qualifications and experience should be the only consideration. While no charges have been made against Mr. Harris, the Republicans urged that he was not so well qualified by experience, at least, to hold the office as was Mr. Durand. Mr. Harris was Chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee of Georgia in the last campaign and is known as an original Wilson man. His appointment was one of the early ones to important offices sent in by President Wilson.

TO SETTLE OLD CLAIMS.

Commission Meets to Award Damages to Britons and Americans.

Special to The New York Times..

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Half-forgotten tales of old days will be told before the International Joint Commission which met here to-day for the purpose of disposing of all outstanding pecuniary claims between Great Britain and the United States. The claims of British subjects against the United States total $2,966,000, while the American claims against Great Britain aggregate $4,333,000.

Henri M. Formageot of France; Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of the Dominion of Canada, and Chandler P. Anderson, former Counsellor of the United States Department of State, are the Commissioners. Robert Lansing is the agent; Reuben Clark, Jr., former Solicitor of the State Department, the counsel, and T. S. Young, the Secretary for the United States. Great Britain's agent is C. J. B. Hurst; A. Kerr Clark Kerr of the British Embassy, the Secretary, and H. H. D. Peirce, former American Minister to Norway; A. P. McKinstry, Charles F. Wilson, and E. L. Newcombe, the counsel for the British Government.

Perhaps the most interesting case to come before the commission involves the alleged illegal seizure of the British ship Lord Nelson on the Great Lakes by a United States National vessel a fortnight prior to the beginning of the War of 1812. A United States court declared that the seizure was unlawful, and awarded the owners of the Lord Nelson $5,000 for the loss of the vessel, which had been sold.

It is set forth in the claim that Theron Rudd, clerk of the United States Court for the District of New York, absconded with most of the $5,000 damage money. Only $183 was left, and this was awarded by the United States Court of Claims to the heirs of the original claimants. An act of Congress was required to pay this small sum out of the Federal Treasury, but the act never got on the statute books, in spite of the efforts of two Presidents to have an appropriation bill passed. Henry James Bethune of the Province of Ontario is the present claimant. He has asked the International Committee to award him $5,000 with interest at 6 per cent. from June 6, 1812, making a total of something more than $35,000.

WILKIE TO LEAVE SERVICE.

He Will Resign Government Post to Enter Business in Chicago.

WASHINGTON, May 13—John E. Wilkie, Supervising Special Agent of the Custom Service and for fourteen years Chief of the Secret Service, will resign from the Government service soon to take a business position in Chicago. His successor has not yet been chosen.

Former Secretary MacVeagh appointed Mr. Wilkie to head the force that investigated the custom frauds unearthed during the last few years. As Chief of the Secret Service Mr. Wilkie organized the emergency force of men that checkmated Spanish spies during the war with Spain.

Mr. Wilkie was in Boston to-day in connection with the investigation of alleged frauds in the importations of women's gowns. It is not expected that he will retire until Secretary McAdoo has chosen a successor.

JOB FOR MRS. LONGSTREET.

Former Union Soldier Offers Her a $3,600 Post in His Office.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, widow of the famous Confederate General, who failed of reappointment as Postmistress at Gainesville, Ga., has an offer of employment from a former Union soldier. Mrs. Longstreet said to-day that Col. Albert E. Boone og Clarksburg, West Va., had promised her a place in his office at $3,600 a year.

"If I find that I feel fitted to do the work in Col. Boone's office," she said, "I shall accept his offer in the same spirit in which Gen. Longstreet accepted a commission from President Grant when he found himself an outcast in the land whose battle flags he had followed with supreme devotion."

TO REPORT ON HAWTHORNE.

President of Parole Board Reaches Washington with Recommendations.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The eligibility for parole during the next few months of Julian Hawthorne and Dr. William J. Morton, convicted in New York of misuse of the mails, and many other prisoners serving terms in the Atlanta Penitentiary, has been determined by the Federal Parole Board, but the results are not made public.

Hawthorne and Morton will have served the necessary one-third of their sentences on July 25, and if the Parole Board and Attorney General McReynolds approve they will be released then. Robert V. La Dow, President of the Parole Board, returned to Washington to-day from a meeting at Atlanta, prepared to make recommendations to the Attorney General.

17 INDUSTRIES HERE NEED NO TARIFF BARS

So Elated Democrats Interpret Taft Bureau Report Showing Manufacturing Costs.

DUE TO LABOR EFFICIENCY

This Offsets the Lower Wages and Greater Use of Machinery by Rivals in Great Britain.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Democrats in Congress think that they have found at last an argument that will impress even Republicans against the demand of the Republican platform for a tariff, based on the difference in cost at home and abroad.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the Department of Commerce has brought together figures which go a long way toward showing that if there is a difference in cost, the advantage is on the side of the manufacturers in the United States.

This reversal of what has long been accepted as the truth means, says the report, that the efficiency of the American workman is so much higher than that of his foreign competitor as to offset the cheap wages that obtain abroad. To such an extent is this true, says the report, that on a specified unit of manufacture the British manufacturer needs so many more workmen than his American rival that in spite of the low wages paid to English laborers the wage cost in the unit is considerably higher in Great Britain than in the United States.

The Democrats are particularly pleased with the document, just put into their hands, because it bears in a way the stamp of Republican approval. The chief of the bureau is Albertus H. Baldwin, a holdover from the Republican Administratoin, and the bureau under him is just as President Taft left it.

The handicap under which the British manufacturers produce in competition with Americans is explained here as meaning that manufacturers in Great Britain are content with moderate gains and do not demand the large profits to which protection has accustomed the American.

As far as possible the bureau has used the official census figures of the countries under consideration. The greatest attention was paid to conditions in Great Britain, but general remarks indicate that while labor is cheaper on the Continent than in the British Isles, the difference is probably not enough to offset America's great advantage. The British census does not compile wages, says the report, so that particular item was prepared by the bureau, on seventeen industries from original investigations.

Greater Labor Efficiency Here.

The unit of comparison, adopted by the bureau, is the amount of labor and the horse power of machinery required to improve raw material so as to make it worth $110,000 more. In this connection the report destroys another long accepted theory, that American manufacturers make more use of machinery than the British. The inference is that the difference in production is almost wholly due to the American workingman's greater efficiency.

"The results," says the report, referring to the bureau's investigations, "show remarkably high efficiency on the part of American industries, as compared with the British. Not only, as would be expected, are more laborers employed in the United Kingdom than in the United States to add by manufacture $1,000 to the value of products, but also machinery of much greater capacity. In British factories nearly 18 per cent. more power and nearly two and one-half the number of laborers are required to obtain results, measured in the value added by manufacture.

"In the seventeen selected industries the average wages in the United States were almost twice those in the United Kingdom, yet the total expenditure for wages was only $470 in the United States as compared with $561 in the United Kingdom for every $1,000 added by manufacture. Owing to the higher level of prices in the United States, the foregoing comparison, being based on values, is more favorable to the United States than would be one based on quantities, if such could be made.

"During the ten years that elapsed between the census of 1900 and 1910 there was a marked increase in the wages, mechanical power, and productivity of industry, compared with the number of wage earners. The gain in Canada has been proportionately even greater than in the United States, although the averages have not yet reached the level, shown by the American returns. Notwithstanding the increase in wages in the United States, the total expenditure for wages, as well as the capacity of engines, has increased at a lower rate than the value, added by manufacture."

In many industries the efficiency of Canadian workmen seems to be considerably in excess of the efficiency of their American rivals. This is not true, however, in regard to the paper, wood pulp and paper goods industry, where 75 workmen are required in Canada to do the work performed by 60 Americans. This seems to be explained by the greater use of machinery in this country. 839 horse power being used in the United States to the unit of value in comparison with only 487 horse power in Canada.

Some Striking Comparisons.

The following tables show the amount of horse power used in this country and Great Britain for every $1,000 added in manufacture, and the number of workingmen, employed in this country, Canada, and Great Britain to produce the same increase of value, with the aggregate wages paid to obtain such production:

"After allowance," the report goes on, "for changes between the dates of the European investigations and those in the United States, it was found that for the trades covered by the inquiry weekly wages were more than twice as high in the United States as in the United Kingdom, that the hours of labor each week were slightly shorter and that consequently the wages per hour of labor were 140 per cent. higher in this country. Rents were found to be slightly more than twice as high as in England, and food prices, based on the customary expenditures of American workingmen, 25 per cent. higher.

"Both in Germany and France, on the contrary, wages are materially lower and the hours of labor longer than in the United Kingdom. The wages per hour in Germany average three-fourths, and in France less than two-thirds of the corresponding amount received by British workingmen. The inclusion in British rents of so-called 'rates,' which, although paid to the landlord, really represent local taxes, makes a comparison with rents in other countries difficult. If such items are excluded from the English rents, it would appear that in Germany rents are 23 per cent. higher than in England and in France 2 per cent. lower. Expenditures for food are higher in both countries than in England. According to the customary standard of living in Germany and in France, the differences are, respectively, 8 and 6 per cent."

The report, which was compiled at the request of Chairman Underwood for the use of the Ways and Means Committee, is likely to be quoted often in the coming debates in the Senate.

NEILL WITH GUGGENHEIMS.

Quits Federal Service to Run Smelting Company's Labor Department.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Dr. Charles P. Neill, Commissioner of Labor since 1905 and recently made Commissioner of Labor Statistics in the new Department of Labor, resigned to-day to take a position with the American Smelting and Refining Company to organize and conduct its labor department. Dr. Neill said the offer came to him from President Daniel Guggenheim through William Loeb, Jr., Managing Director of th eGuggenheim corporations.

Dr. Neill was confirmed only recently as Commissioner of Labor Statistics, the nomination having been held up for a time by Senator Overman of North Carolina, Senator Tillman of South Carolina, and other Southern members of the upper house who opposed Dr. Neill because of criticisms of the cotton mill industry in the South published in one of his reports.

While Commissioner of Labor Dr. Neill was ex-officio a member of the Board of Mediation under the Erdman act, and with his associate in that capacity, Martin J. Knapp, Presiding Judge of the Commerce Court, helped to settle several serious labor disputes.

CHURCH UNDER MINE RULE.

So Miners Charge in Case Laid Before Senator Kern.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Charges of peonage, "mediaeval feudalism," and oppression of workers in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek coal fields of West Virginia were laid before Senator Kern to-day by representatives of the State Federation of Labor and the miners' unions. The Senator expected to use the charges in support of his resolution for a Congress investigation of the situation.

Copies of hesolutions adopted by the miners, asserting "that a Baptist church could not be organized without consent of the mine managers," were left with the Senator.

GETS 50 CENTS DAMAGES.

Verdict Against Western Union for Non-Delivery of Telegram.

City Court Judge Lynch awarded 50 cents damages yesterday to John B. Hyatt, a real estate broker, against the Western Union Telegraph Company for the non-delivery of a telegram which Mr. Hyatt said had caused him a business loss of $500.

Hyatt did not disclose the contents of the message or the specific reasons for the resultant business loss. The telegram was sent from Nyack, N. Y., on March 15, and, according to the complaint, on the following day a messenger boy called at the Hyatt home, offering to surrender the message on the payment of 50 cents, which Mr. Hyatt refused to make.

Lansbury, the former Socialist Member of Parliament, who failed to obtain reelection.

MANCHESTER, May 13.—T. Benson, the director of the National Labor Press, which has announced its determination to continue the publication of The Suffragette, said to-day:

"The fight is one of principle. Every edition will be censored by the management of the National Labor Press and any incitement to outrage will be excluded. The management believes that an attempt to suppress a newspaper before it is published affects the right of free speech. It means a big fight if it is pursued."

ANTIS APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

Preparing for a Three Years' Campaign Against Equal Suffrage.

An appeal for funds with which to carry on an active campaign against woman suffrage is being made by the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. In a letter sent out recently to business men the association says:

> My Dear Sir: We earnestly request your personal attention to the following facts:
>
> There are 133,000 illiterate women in New York. The time has come when every thoughtful man and woman in New York States who does not believe that our Government would be improved by adding this vote to the ignorant male vote should help toward strengthening the association which is carrying on organized opposition to woman suffrage.
>
> A woman suffrage Constitutional amendment will probably be brought before the voters of New York in November, 1915. During the next three years we must carry on a State-wide campaign against the expediency of extending the suffrage to women. This can only be done if we receive financial aid from those who believe that woman suffrage would be a serious menace in the State.
>
> Will you help us by indicating on the inclosed card how much you are willing to contribute toward this work for one, two, or three years? Your name will not be printed on any lists or given out if you request us not to do so.
> Our budget for 1913 is, approximately, $20,000, as follows: Office, $5,000; rent, $1,500; press, $2,000; postage, $1,500; telephone, $500; printing, $2,000; Organizing Secretary, (expenses and salary,) $7,500.

The association was founded in 1895. Its officers are: President, Miss Alice Hill Chittenden; First Vice President, Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge; Treasurer, Mrs. Charlton T. Lewis; Secretary, Mrs. M. E. Loomis; Honorary Vice Presidents, Mrs. Elihu Root, Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder, Mrs. Francis M. Scott; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Fritz Achelis, Miss Eleanor G. Hewitt, Mrs. George Douglas Miller, and Mrs. William F. Northrup.

ARCHBISHOP IS AN ANTI.

Tells Wisconsin Catholics Men and Women Are Unequal.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, May 13.—The first public utterance of Archbishop Sebastian G. Messmer on the subject of woman suffrage was made at Watertown to-day at the convention of the State Federation of Catholic Societies.

"Universal, unlimited woman suffrage cannot be sanctioned because of the essential inequality of man and woman," said the Archbishop. "They are equals before God and the law, but by their constitution, natural gifts, and endowments, they have not the same character and must manifest their excellences in different ways."

The Archbishop spoke for nearly two hours on the question, reviewing the history of woman suffrage from the beginning. A great deal of attention was given to labor matters at the convention; the discussions on the labor situation lasted for several hours.

RAISE, DON'T LOWER RATES, SAY CARRIERS

Briefs Filed with Commission on Eve of Conference Say Cuts Now Would Cause Havoc.

MORE REVENUE NECESSARY

Flood Damage and Needed Improvements Among Reasons Advanced Against Any Reduction.

Special to The New York Times..

WASHINGTON, May 13.—On the eve of the conference which President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio, and other representatives of the Eastern trunk line carriers will hold with the Interstate Commerce Commission tomorrow in connection with their proposal to make a horizontal advance in freight rates, briefs were to-day filed with the commission which threw considerable light on the revenue status of the Eastern roads.

These briefs were filed by the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, and Erie systems in the ore, coal, and coke cases instituted by the Republic Iron and Steel Company, and more than a dozen other independent steel and iron companies in the Pittsburgh, the Youngstown and Wheeling territories. These companies attacked as excessive and discriminatory the present rate of 56 cents a ton on iron ore from Lake Erie ports to blast furnaces in that territory, and condemned as excessive the existing rate of 70 cents a ton on coal.

The briefs declared that to reduce the rates on these commodities as demanded would work havoc with the revenues of the railroads, and force them to retrench in contemplated improvements. Instead of reducing these rates, the defendants argue, the general fabric of rates in the East should be raised.

"The Baltimore & Ohio," says one of the briefs, "has sustained injuries to its physical property alone, amounting to nearly $3,000,000, as a result of the recent floods in the West. This is an extreme instance of an ever-present class of expenses which are invariably ignored by accountants who possess no operating knowledge.

"Every cent of reduction in the ore rate would deprive the Baltimore & Ohio alone of $15,000 per annum revenue. The collateral effect of such a reduction on other traffic would be even more disastrous. A reduction in this rate could be made by the commission only on the ground on which the complainants' case has been presented, namely, that this ore pays more than its fair proportion of the total revenue because it loads heavily in the car. The adoption of this theory by the commission would be no less than fatal to the the Baltimore & Ohio. The Baltimore & Ohio is peculiarly unfitted to stand any substantial diminution of revenue at this time.

"With railroad securities steadily declining in the market," says the Baltimore & Ohio brief, "and the margin between gross revenue and operating expenses steadily growing narrower, the commission, having in view the public welfare, must necessarily consider the question whether the carriers here involved can continue to render adequate service if their revenues are depleted to the extent suggested.

"While the increased volume of business has increased the carriers' gross revenue, the ability to handle the increased traffic has been acquired only by the expenditure of considerable money for improvements. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie has four-tracked a considerable part of its line, to cite an instance of increased facilities.

"The loading capacity of cars has been increased, but the railroads had to pay for the new cars. The traction power of locomotives has increased, but their cost, especially the cost of bridges and other items of right of way construction and maintenance, has correspondingly increased.

"The Baltimore & Ohio is about to make further improvements. The Baltimore & Ohio's bridge over the Allegheny, which must be crossed in carrying this coal, is unequal to the strain of carrying a train large enough to utilize the larger locomotives to their full capacity. The removal of this bridge will cost $3,000,000.

"Another bridge used in this traffic, over the Monongahela, will cost $1,500,000. To replace these bridges and reduce grades and curvatures so that the Baltimore & Ohio may approach the present-day standard of efficiency on the line between Pittsburgh and the Valleys will require an expenditure of $15,000,000. After having spent $15,000,000 to increase operating expenses, the penalty is that a statistically inclined complainant ignores the interest on $15,000,000 that must be met out of operating revenue, and is well content to limit himself to an attempt to prove the operating cost is less than before the improvements were made."

In its brief, the Pennsylvania system points out that the existing level of rates on coal, coke, and other heavy commodities has been in effect twenty-five years practically without change, but that in that same period the capital of the railroads has increased 135 per cent. The capital of the Pennsylvania, it is stated in the brief, has been increased from $300,000,000 to $800,000,000 since 1901, and this money has gone into improvements and betterments. Many of these improvements are enumerated in the brief.

"A reduction of 5 cents a ton upon all these coal, coke, and iron rates," continues the Pennsylvania brief, "would certainly in the aggregate deplete the revenues of the carriers by over $1,500,000 a year, and would likely excite complaints of a collateral nature which might result in greater reduction of revenue. A reduction of 10 cents a ton on the average would actually threaten the solvency of some of the lines engaged in the business."

The pending cases are directed against the rates on upward of 8,000,000 tons of iron ore, 17,000,000 tons of coke, and more than 4,000,000 tons of coal moving annually from the Pittsburgh district, and involves indirectly the rates on 60,000,000 tons of coal moving annually.

Thieves Stop Alimony Payment.

TRENTON, N. J., May 13.—Arraigned before Vice Chancellor Backes to explain why he had not complied with the court order to pay his wife $5 weekly alimony, William Fisher of Ramsey, reputed to be worth $25,000, offered the excuse that he had been robbed of his wealth. He said he had only $8,000 left. This he withdrew from the bank and placed under his pillow, where thieves found it. Another hearing will be given.

TRIAL TRIP WITH SPONSORS.

New Steamboat Will Carry Fifty Girls with Auburn Hair.

The fifty auburn-haired girls of the Washington Irving High School, who in December last at Camden, N. J., participated in the ceremonies attending the launching of the Washington Irving, the new Hudson River Day Line steamboat, will to-day complete their sponsorship by making a trial trip on the boat to Stony Point and return.

Mrs. E. E. Olcott, wife of the President of the line, will chaperon the sponsors. Accompanying the party will be several city officers, including Controller Prendergast and Sheriff Harburger.

The girls have formed a club known as "The Auroral Club of Well Wishers," under the leadership of Miss Minnie Green, a graduate of the high school, and now a teacher. The party will leave the Desbrosses Street pier at 2:40 o'clock this afternoon, making stops at the Forty-second Street and Harlem piers of the company. On board will be the Washington Irving High School orchestra.

WANTS NEWS OF HER SON.

S. G. Calcagno Has Not Been Heard of for Three Years.

Salvatore G. Calcagno, who left his home five years ago with a traveling show when he was only 16 years old, is needed badly by his mother, Mrs. Mary Cristina Valentino Calcagno, who is ill at 223 East 102d Street. Mrs. Calcagno sent this letter to THE TIMES, through one of her neighbors who could write English after the fashion of Harlem's Little Italy:

> Salvatore G. Calcagno, 21 years of age, is away five years for the best and finished three years the family have no answer anymore. The family worry about him if something happened to him, specially the mother she doesn't want nothing only wants to see the son. He was very honest since he was small he was very kind to everybody. Mothers name is Mary Cristina Valentino Calcagno, the fathers is Rosolino Calcagno. Address, 223 East 102d Street, N. Y.

The mother heard from her son three years ago, when he wrote from the La Salle Hotel, in Chicago, saying he was coming home in a few days. Since then there has been no word from him. The case came to the attention of a nurse who called at the Calcagno home last Summer when Bianchi, a ten-year-old daughter, was sent away by the Tuberculosis Clinic for several months. The girl is still suffering from the disease, and it is feared the mother is in a similar state. She has two other children, Paul, 12 years old, and another boy 5 years old.

MISSING BICYCLIST DEAD.

Body of Herbert J. Adams, Trick Rider, Found Floating in River.

The body of Herbert J. Adams, 40 years old, of 2,843 Eighth Avenue, a former trick bicycle rider, whose disappearance was reported to the police on May 4, was found floating in the North River off the foot of 203d Street late yesterday afternoon. It had evidently been in the water for two weeks, and was clothed in a black striped suit, gray flannel shirt, and cloth slippers. It was removed to the Harlem morgue.

In the pockets of the clothing were found $2.91, also two gold, five silver, and two copper English coins, an English nickel watch, a bunch of keys, a penknife, and three pocketbooks. One of these contained a contract made in London on April 28, 1900, signed by H. Irving and C. E. F. Wood, calling for Herbert Adams to do bicycle novelty acts at a salary of £18 a month. Another letter showed that Adams had performed in England, France and Germany, and there were also a number of old press notices about him clipped from English newspapers. A third letter was addressed to Mr. Rolland Barrie, Newry, Ireland.

On investigation at the Eighth Avenue address, the police found Barrie there, who identified the body as that of Adams, who, he said, was a mechanic, and had been living with him up to the day of his disappearance.

WOMAN ROUTS HOLD-UP MEN

Thieves Who Attack Butcher Shop Flee Before Butcher's Wife.

Two thieves who attempted to hold up the butcher shop run by Fred Warner at Ashford Street and Glenmore Avenue, East New York, at 6 o'clock last night, were put to rout by Warner's wife, aided by her eighteen-year-old son. Waiting until all the customers left the store, the thieves demanded the money in the cash register. Young Warner ordered them out of the place. Instead, one of them grabbed a meat cleaver and a long knife and sprang at the boy. Mrs. Warner armed herself with a heavy knife sharpener and ran to her son's aid. A crowd was soon attracted by their cries and the thieves beat a hasty retreat.

Werner, who was cut on the hands and wrists and had a knife wound in the right side, was taken to the Bradford Street Hospital, while Policeman Steinale of the Liberty Street Station started on the trail of the thieves. He arrested Peter Walsh of 9 Melville Place and Edward McCarthy of 25 Williams Place. On the way to the station house, the crowd attacked the prisoners and kicked and beat them. They asserted that they were innocent, but were held on a charge of felonious assault.

NAVIGATOR A NOVICE.

New Testimony Elicited Regarding the Accident to the Arkansas.

It was brought out yesterday at the second day's hearing of the court-martial of Capt. Roy C. Smith at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, that the Arkansas, one of the newest and greatest battleships in the United States Navy, was being navigated by a comparative novice when it struck a submerged rock while entering the harbor of Guantanamo, Cuba, on last Feb. 11.

Testimony was given by Lieut. W. W. Smyth, who was navigating officer at the time of the accident, that the regular navigating officer of the Arkansas was on sick leave and had gone away to undergo an operation. Lieut. Smyth had been detailed to take his place. The witness said that up to that time he had had but a limited experience as a navigator.

Engineer George Littlehales of the Hydrographic Bureau, Washington, gave technical testimony yesterday regarding the charts, while Ensigns Leahy and Frederick of the Arkansas corroborated statements made by Lieut. Smyth.

GIRL DROWNS IN TUB.

Police Believe Seamstress Fainted While Getting Bath Ready.

Complaints from tenants on the first, second, and third floors of 1,385 Fifth Avenue that water was dripping down into their apartments led the janitor, David Holland, last night, to investigate on the fourth floor, where, just above the complaining tenants, was the apartment of Sara Agoss, a seamstress. He found the door locked and could get no answer from within. Suspecting something amiss, he called Policeman Bennett, who climbed up the fire-escape and entered the Agoss flat.

Bennett found the kitchen and the adjoining rooms flooded with water, which was flowing from under the bathroom door. As he opened the door, he saw in the bathtub the body of an eighteen-year-old girl, clad only in a single light garment. The policeman lifted it out and tried artificial respiration, but when Dr. Julius Goldsmith of 2 West 115th Street and an ambulance surgeon from the Harlem Hospital reached the house they said the girl had been dead for several hours.

Mrs. Agoss, who returned from work shortly aftrward, said the girl was Bertha Samuels, a sempstress, who had lived with her for the last two weeks. The girl, she said, told her she had been advised not to go to work that day, but to lay off till Monday. Her death, Mrs. Agoss thought, must have been accidental, as the girl seemed in good health and spirits in the morning. The police decided that the girl had fainted while preparing the bath, and falling into the tub had been drowned before regaining consciousness. The girl, according to Mrs. Agoss, had lived with a brother, James Samuels, at 1 East 113th Street, before she came to live with her.

PROGRESSIVES FEAR REPUBLICAN UNION

With a Convention for Party Reorganization Certain, Roosevelt Wing Issues Warning.

ATTACKS THE REFORMERS

But Republican Regulars Won't Fight Revision of Rules, and Party Unity Seems Assured.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Expressions from both radical and conservative Republicans to-day make it almost certain that the National Convention asked for at the conference of progressive Republicans in Chicago will be summoned to reorganize the party. There seems now little doubt that the regulars who supported Mr. Taft under the present party rules will make very little opposition to revising them. One of the most prominent of Mr. Taft's supporters said to-day that he knew that a majority of the National Committee would vote to call a convention to consider the points suggested in Chicago.

The flat rejection of the get-together plan by the Roosevelt Republicans was made conspicuous to-day. The attitude of the straight-out Progressives was shown by a dispatch sent to Progressive papers by Oscar King Davis, secretary of the Progressive National Committee, who is in charge of the local Progressive headquarters. Mr. Davis warns the Progressives all over the country that the men who demanded reforms in Chicago the other day were not the leaders of their party and could expect no consideration from party leaders whom they had themselves denounced, but under whom they continued to align themselves.

This attitude on the part of the Roosevelt faction was fully expected by the sponsors for the new movement and its effect is to that extent discounted. They foresaw that their plan, if it should come to anything, would mean the elimination of the Progressive Party by absorption. They did not think Col. Roosevelt would consent to anything like that unless his own nomination by the reunited party should be guaranteed. The impossibility of such a guarantee is indicated in the fact that many leaders of the new movement are themselves receptive candidates for the Presidential nomination.

Expect to Split Progressives.

The sponsors for the new movement to reorganize the Republican Party, and even the old line regulars do not despair however, of winning back many of the rank and file of the Progressive Party. They argue that if the things that split the party are removed—undue Southern representation, refusal to recognize primaries and the like—the Progressives will have no excuse for not coming back and fighting for the control of the Republican Party on equal terms against the present leaders. While they expect the Progressive leaders to adhere to their insurgent organization because of pride, they hope to undermine their forces by removing their grievance.

That the Progressives realize that desertions threaten them if the reforms are made is indicated in Mr. Davis's dispatch.

"The National leadership of the Republican Party," he says, "has not changed in personnel or in character since that convention last June. Nothing has occurred to enhance the standing, the authority, or the influence of 'these leaders of the Republican Party.' For reasons of their own they have chosen to remain in a party whose leadership and whose actions they have opposed and denounced.

"Nothing save their own claim," Mr. Davis's statement goes on, "now gives title to these gentlemen to assert Republican leadership. There is no pretense of other authority in their proposition. It has and it pleads but one justification—that of their own dire necessity."

The standing of the Chicago conference members in their own party has so far improved that what they pleaded for last Spring without any success seems now in a fair way to be granted without a struggle. The executive committee of the National Committee has been called to meet soon in Washington. There seems little doubt that the committee will in turn summon the National Committee and that this body will call a convention.

Convention Time in Doubt.

There is still some doubt as to when the convention will meet. Senator Cummins and his followers want it early this Fall, so as to prepare the way for battle in the Spring primaries next year by a reunited party. Mr. Cummins himself stands for renomination then, and the declarations he hopes to get from the National Convention would mean much to him. Some older leaders think next Spring would be better for such a gathering. By that time the Democratic tariff will be in force, partisan feeling will have died out, and the chances of a permanent welding together of the fragments of Republicanism, they think, will have improved.

CANNON SNEERS AT PLAN.

Says National Committee Has No Right to Call a Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

TERRE HAUTE, May 13.—The Republicans of Terre Haute had a banquet to-night, which served as a rallying event for the stand-pat element of the party in western Indiana and eastern Illinois. A hundred supporters of "Uncle Joe" Cannon came from his district to hear him talk about party policy. During his speech he said:

"The proposal that the Republican National Committee call a convention to change the basis of representation in the National nominating convention is not well considered. The convention in 1916 will have full power to provide for a basis of representation not only for future conventions, but for its own proceedings.

"Political parties are voluntary organizations. These gentlemen have been meeting in Chicago voluntarily. Do they want a law passed for other people or to read people out of a party? It is not in the power of these gentlemen to reorganize the Republican Party.

"I am entirely satisfied with the Republican Party without an adjective. In my judgment, the majority of the people who voted for Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 were and are, in principle, good Republicans. If the Democratic Government does not succeed in retaining the present material prosperity the Republican Party will progress far enough to turn them out of power."

BECKER GAINS MORE DELAY.

Hearing June 16 on Appeal in the Rosenthal Murder Case.

ALBANY, May 13.—The appeal in the case of ex-Police Lieut. Charles Becker of New York, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, will be argued before the Court of Appeals on June 16. The court granted to-day a motion extending the time for argument to that date. The motion was made by Joseph A. Shay, Becker's attorney, who filed an affidavit stating he wished more time to investigate possible new evidence.

The original time limit for submitting an appeal for Becker was May 20. Mr. Shay had asked for an extension on the ground that newly discovered evidence made further investigation necessary. The date set yesterday is eleven months from that of the Rosenthal murder.

Sam Schepps, the man who corroborated Rose, Vallon, and Webber, will bear the brunt of the new line of attack which is planned in case a new trial is granted. Every effort will be made to show that Schepps was an accomplice and not a mere corroborative witness. Mr. Shay said yesterday he would be able to present a witness who would swear that Schepps was at the scene of the murder. The witness, according to the attorney, would testify that Schepps attempted to distract the attention of policemen at Broadway and Forty-second Street by sounding a false alarm of fire.

SULZER PLANS ITINERARY.

Will Attack Buffalo First in Behalf of Primary Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 13.—A partial itinerary for Gov. Sulzer in his campaign to crystallize sentiment throughout the State in favor of his Direct Nominations bill was arranged to-night by the Governor's "War Board." The Governor plans to speak in two or three districts of Buffalo on May 19; in Elmira, May 20, and in Schenectady, May 21. The only other date fixed is May 28, when appeals will be made by the Executive in the Boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx. Other meetings will be arranged for Olean, Gloversville, and Glens Falls.

There are twelve legislators in Erie County, and of these only three, Senator Wende and Assemblyman Geyer, Democrats, and Assemblyman Horton, Republican, voted for the Governor's bill. The Governor's speeches in Buffalo will be in the districts of Senators Ramsperger and Malone, Democrats, and the seven Democratic Assemblymen who opposed the Governor.

The Governor has invited Secretary Bryan to come into New York State and make speeches in favor of his bill. Mr. Bryan has not yet replied to the invitation.

WIFE ASKS $78,000 ALIMONY.

Demand Said to be the Largest Ever Made in the City's Courts.

Mrs. Blanche Agnes Heye, wife of George C. Heye, a Manhattan banker, whom she is suing for absolute divorce, asked Justice Aspinall, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, to direct her husband to pay her alimony amounting to $6,500 a month, or $78,000 a year. She says that she needs this sum to maintain herself and her two children in the manner in which they have been living. Mrs. Heye's demand for alimony is said to be the largest ever made in the courts in this city. In addition, she wants $10,000 counsel fees.

Mr. Heye is a member of the banking and brokerage firm of Battles & Co., of Philadelphia and New York. They have offices at 60 Broadway in this city. He is the son of the late Gustave Heye, who was interested in the Standard Oil Company. From his father he inherited a fortune of $1,500,000. According to Mrs. Heye, her husband has an annual income of 150,000, and is worth several millions of dollars. Besides owning property in this city, he has a fine country home at Roslyn, Nassau County, L. I., near the estates of Clarence Mackay and W. K. Vanderbilt. Both Mr. and Mrs. Heye are prominent in the Summer colony society there. Mr. Heye is now living at the Hotel Belmont in Manhattan, while Mrs. Heye is living with her children and relatives at the Hotel Langdon, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street.

Papers in the action brought by Mrs. Heye were filed in Nassau County in February. She was able to bring the suit in that county, as she has a country home there, which gives her the legal rights of a resident. In her complaint, Mrs. Heye names Miss Myrtle Vincent, formerly an actress, as the co-respondent, a woman whom the complainant has described as a "person of no prominence." Although the suit will be tried in Nassau County, the application for alimony must be argued in Brooklyn, where there is a Special Term for contested motions.

SANE FOURTH MEETING.

Mayor's Committee Elects Herman Ridder as Its President.

The committee appointed by Mayor Gaynor to arrange for a safe and sane Fourth of July celebration this year met in the Council Chamber at the City Hall yesterday and elected Herman Ridder President, Benjamin J. Greenhut Vice President, Isaac N. Seligman Treasurer, and Dr. Edward H. Hall Secretary. Alderman Henry H. Curran, who is a member of the committee, told the gathering that there would be serious opposition in the Aldermanic Board this year if a request for an appropriation of $50,000, the amount granted last year, was made. He suggests that the committee ask the Board of Estimate to transfer funds over which it has control to defray the expenses of the celebration. An appeal for money will be made to the public.

The committee adopted a resolution authorizing President Ridder to appoint all sub-committees necessary to carry on the work of the central committee, and Mr. Ridder said he would immediately appoint a Finance Committee. It will hold its first meeting to-day.

BALLOT 30 YARDS LONG.

Initiative-Referendum Exhibit in Closing Illinois Struggle.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 13.—Progressive, Socialist, and Democratic orators contended with Republican speakers in the House to-day, and far into the night, as a prelude to the final vote on the question of submitting the initiative and referendum to the people of the State. Representatives Medill McCormick of Chicago, Progressive, and Seymour Stedman of Chicago, Socialist, were among those who advanced the heavy arguments in favor of the resolution, which already had passed the Senate.

Representative King of Galesburg exhibited a sample ballot, more than thirty yards long, extending from the Clerk's desk out into the rotunda, in his argument against the initiative and referendum. It presented the titles of all the measures introduced in the present Legislature up to April 9—more than 900. He predicted that such ballots would be necessary should the proposed reform be adopted, and said that piano-player devices would be necessary to handle them for the voters' convenience in every polling place.

Belmont Chosen Senior Warden.

August Belmont was re-elected Senior Warden at the annual meting of St. George's Episcopal Church at Hempstead, L. I., last evening. Mr. Belmont has been Senior Warden for several years. He intimated recently that he did not care to serve again, but was finally prevailed upon to accept. The other officers re-elected were: Junior Warden, Adam Seabury; Vestrymen, Bergen R. Carman, Eugene W. Denton, L. H. Irwin, Birdsall Post and J. W. B. Van Der Water.

Howard Greenley's Work on Plans.

NEW YORK CENTRAL TAKING LAKE SHORE

Financial Plan for Absorbing This and Other Lines Now Before Stockholders.

A $500,000,000 MORTGAGE

This Was for the Future—Another for $167,000,000—4 Per Cents to Lake Shore Holders of 3½s.

The New York Central lines will send out to-night to stockholders of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad and to holders of the Lake Shore collateral bonds announcement of a plan for effecting what is probably the most important railroad consolidation ever attempted in this country. As the result of preliminary work extending over a period of more than two years, the company is now ready to combine the two principal lines it controls into a comprehensive system with termini at New York and Chicago.

The purpose of the consolidation is to simplify the management and operation of the lines and to establish a basis for future financing on a broad scale. With the completion of the costly yards and station at Grand Central it is considered essential that the Western lines be made to bear their share of the terminal charges. The management made known as far back as December, 1911, its intention of merging the Lake Shore with the Central before taking up the problem of refunding short term obligations and providing for the financing needs of years to come.

For the purpose of voting on the consolidation a special meeting of stockholders of the New York Central has been called for June 16. In order to clear the way for the union it will be necessary to obtain the consent of three-fourths of the holders of the Lake Shore bonds issued in exchange for stock to the substitution of new mortgage bonds to be issued by the New York Central. To facilitate this the company is offering to exchange, par for par, a new bond bearing 4 per cent. interest for the collaterals paying only 3½ per cent. The security behind the new bonds will be substantially the same.

Consolidation with the Lake Shore is only the first step in the scheme for unifying the Vanderbilt system. It is proposed to absorb the immensely valuable New York & Harlem Road, which owns most of the property on which the Grand Central stands, just as soon as a difference of opinion between the company and the minority shareholders as to the value of their stock can be arranged. Eventually the West Shore, the Michigan Central, the Nickel Plate, the Big Four, and other lines making up the system will be taken into the parent company if no obstacles are raised by the State or Federal Government.

Legislation to Get the Harlem.

A bill now awaiting the signature of Gov. Sulzer is expected to pave the way for consolidation with the Harlem. This makes possible the absorption of the smaller road upon the consent of two-thirds of the stockholders, while protecting the minority holders by granting them the right of a settlement on the basis of an appraisal to be made by a committee to be named by the Supreme Court. The Central does not hold quite 66 per cent. of the Harlem stock, more than one-third of the holders having refused so far to accept the company's offer of $175 for each fifty-dollar share.

As for the West Shore, the Central owns all of the stock and could effect a consolidation now if it desired. It is reported that the management is uncertain as to the attitude of the Government toward a merger with what may be considered a parallel and competing line, and will not run the risk of becoming ensnarled in a dissolution suit until the status of the two companies is made clearer.

To take up the Lake Shore collaterals, the Michigan Central collaterals, and the Central's two issues of debentures a closed mortgage for $167,102,000 will be created. After that a new refunding and improvement mortgage for $500,000,000 will be created to provide for maturities and improvements of the entire system in years to come.

In the last few months the New York Central, with the approval of the up-State Public Service Commission, has been consolidated with or has absorbed by merger these lines: Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg, Utica & Black River, Oswego & Rome, Carthage, Watertown & Sacketts Harbor, Niagara Falls Branch, Little Falls & Dolgeville, Spuyten Duyvil & Port Morris, Mohawk & Malone, Carthage & Adirondack, Gouverneur & Oswegatchie, New York & Putnam, New York & Ottawa, Tivoli Hollow, Mahopac Falls, New York Central Niagara River, Buffalo Erie Basin, and the Tonawanda Island bridge.

The Lake Shore stock which the Central owns—that is, about 90 per cent. of the whole—is pledged as security for its 3½ per cent. Lake Shore collateral bonds. The Central offers the bondholders the privilege of exchanging these 3½ per cent. bonds for 4 per cent. bonds, which will be issued under a new mortgage, which will be a lien upon the railroad of the New York Central, including the lines recently consolidated or merged, and also upon its leasehold interests in the New York & Harlem Railroad, the West Shore Railroad, the Beech Creek Railroad, and the Troy & Greenbush Railroad, and upon three-quarters of the stock of the Hudson River Bridge Company.

New Mortgage Subject to Old.

That new mortgage will be subject to the New York Central's first mortgage, dated June 1, 1897, and, as to the properties covered by them, to the underlying mortgages upon the other railroads which have been consolidated or merged. The outstanding New York Central debentures will be secured on an equality with these 4 per cent. bonds; and the 3½ per cent. Michigan Central collateral bonds and the unexchanged Lake Shore collaterals will have prior lien under the mortgage; these provisions being made in order to comply with the terms of the indentures under which such collateral bonds and debentures were issued. The total amount of bonds under this new mortgage will not exceed $167,102,400—the aggregate of the 3½ per cent. Lake Shore collaterals, the Michigan Central collaterals, and the debentures, in exchange for all three of which bonds only may the 4 per cent. bonds be issued.

Following the consolidation of the Lake Shore with the New York Central, such of the 4 per cent. bonds as are issued in exchange for the Lake Shore collaterals will further be secured by a mortgage on the railroad now owned by the Lake Shore.

The Directors have authorized the execution of a refunding and improvement mortgage which will secure bonds to be used for future needs of the company and of the consolidated company which shall succeed it. On this point, President Brown, in his letter to the New York Central stockholders, says:

> The railroad company now has under way and in prospect extensive improvements necessary to enable it properly to care for the constantly increasing business passing over its railroad. The number of through main tracks is being increased in some places to six, in others to four, grades are being reduced, alignments improved, and changes in, and additions to, yards and terminals are being made, with a view to handling increased traffic at decreased cost. The improvements mentioned should add materially to the value of the railroad company's property and to the amount of its earnings.
> To provide, in whole or in part, for these and future betterments and additions; also to fund short-term notes issued by the railroad company from time to time for capital purposes, and to provide for other corporate needs, the board has authorized the execution of a refunding and improvement mortgage.

The New York Central Directors expect that this new improvement mortgage, which will cover all the New York Central Lines that it is proposed to consolidated, will be the basis upon which the enlarged company will plan most of its future financing, so far as it is to be provided for by bond issues.

Inquiry made last night of J. P. Morgan & Co., bankers for the Central, brought forth the statement from one of the partners that in the judgment of the firm the whole plan as presented, while not fully laid out in all its details, was a comprehensive one and should prove to be of great advantage to the whole New York Central system, as tending to promote simplicity, efficiency, and economy of administration and operation, and as providing a far broader basis than ever before for the financing of extensive improvement, which should mean much in the way of increased earnings. He added that the refunding of a large amount of outstanding securities of varying form and tenure would, the Directors believed, benefit the entire property and all its security holders; and the proposed consolidation should, in the long run, increase materially the railroad facilities of New York State and develop many advantages to the Port of New York.

LYSOEN OLE BULL'S SHRINE.

Daughter's Will Provides for Maintenance of Norway Estate.

The appraisal of the estate of Mrs. Olea Bull Vaughan, only child of the famous Norwegian violinist, Ole Bull, was filed yesterday, showing New York assets amounting to $14,281 and an entire estate of approximately $400,000. Mrs. Vaughan died a resident of West Lebanon, Me., on July 18, 1911, six hours after winning a contest over the will of her mother, Mrs. Sara Bull, who left the bulk of her $500,000 estate to Hindoo mystics.

In her will, which was dated two months before her death, Mrs. Vaughan bequeathed $30,000 apiece to her three adopted children—Amelia, William C., and Dorothy Shapleigh. To her 5-year-old daughter, Sylvea Bull Vaughan, she left a cash legacy of $25,000 and the residuary estate, estimated at $200,000, all being in trust till she should reach the age of 21 years. Lysoen, the Norwegian estate of Ole Bull, she left in the trust of her executors to her daughter till she should reach the age of 25 years, and enjoined her to "devote her life to the honoring of Ole Bull's memory in Norway, and to preserve Lysoen as the shrine for the followers of the great violinist." A fund of $30,000 was created to maintain the place.

WON'T SELL ON COMMISSION

Dealers Affected by New Cole Law Plan Way to Dodge It.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 13.—Commission merchants have formulated a plan to circumvent the Cole law, which requires all commission merchants dealing in farm produce to take out a license at a fee of $10 and file a $3,000 surety bond. The plan is to refuse any farm produce on commission after July 1, when the law goes into effect. If the goods are shipped with the bill for their cost they will be accepted by the merchant, but if they come to be sold on commission they will not be taken out of the freight house.

Commissioner Huson of the Agricultural Department is formulating an application blank for the commission merchants which he will send to all who can be reached. He expects trouble in getting the application blanks to the numerous commission merchants in New York City whose places of business are under their hats. After July 1 every commission merchant must have a stated place of business under the law.

*Decrease.

Increase in the cash in the City Treasury during the first ten days of May reflects the receipt of taxes under the semi-annual payment law, amounting to nearly $23,000,000. It is estimated that the taxes paid in the entire month will approximate $80,000,000. Half the taxes are payable in May and half in November. If the second half are paid in May, the city allows a discount at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum from the date on which they are paid to Nov. 1. Large taxpayers, such as the Astor estate, usually pay the full year's taxes on the first day in order to obtain the maximum discount. Receipts drop off in the middle of the month, and toward the close the money comes with a rush, as a penalty attaches to failure to make the May payments before June 1.

The sinking funds received about $9,000,000 in the ten days, which was invested in a similar amount of corporate stock notes, as shown by payments made out of the sinking fund, and by the receipt by the City Treasury of a corresponding sum from the sale of notes. When the forthcoming bond issue is made the sinking funds, which contain only $227,009 of uninvested cash, will receive about $28,000,000 in cash in payment of corporate stock notes held by them.

The outstanding corporate stock notes, increased by the $9,400,000 sold largely to the sinking funds, aggregate nearly $59,000,000, of which $45,000,000 will be redeemed from the proceeds of the bond sale. The outstanding revenue bonds also increased to nearly $107,000,000, but will be materially reduced as the tax payments, against which they are issued, are applied to their redemption.

QUINLAN GETS AID OF REV. P. S. GRANT

Preacher and Lawyer Battle Testify in Paterson for Accused Labor Agitator.

PROSECUTION OFF ITS GUARD

Flat Denial Is Made of Charge That Quinlan Incited Trouble by Speech.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 13.—The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension in New York journeyed to this strike-ridden city this morning and took the stand to swear to the good character and reputation for good citizenship of Patrick Quinlan, the Industrial Workers of the World agitator who is now on trial charged with uttering remarks inciting the silk mill strikers to commit assault. With the Rev. Mr. Grant came George Gordon Battle, the New York lawyer, who is a member of the Church of the Ascension. He also testified that Quinlan was a good citizen and that as Mr. Battle knew him he was not the sort of man to urge strikers to invade silk mills and club loyal workingmen and women from their places at the looms and dye vats.

After Messrs. Grant and Battle had left the witness stand, Quinlan was asked if he was a member of the Church of the Ascension. He answered that he was not, and he was then asked if he was a Roman Catholic.

"No, I am a religious progressive," he answered, with one of his broadest smiles.

When the trial of Quinlan was resumed this morning, County Prosecutor Michael Dunn, in charge of the prosecution, called Sergt. John Draper of the Paterson Police Department as his first witness. Draper said that on the morning of Feb. 25 last, after Quinlan had made his alleged incendiary remarks in Turn Hall, he was on duty outside the hall and had witnessed the departure of the strikers, which the police say followed Quinlan's motion that the strikers go to the silk mills and club those still at work out of the mills. Sergt. Peter Murner corroborated what Sergt. Draper said as to the actions of the crowd after it left Turn Hall.

The State called several foremen of the Meisch Silk Mill to the stand. It was to this mill that the crowd of strikers went and made a demonstration. William Laffert, foreman in the ribbon weaving department of that mill, said that a big crowd gathered in front of the mill and that he witnessed its dispersal by the police. William Fitzpatrick, who is employed in the winding department of the Meisch mill, testified along the same lines, as did also several other foremen of that and other near-by mills.

The State rested its case with the examination of the mill foremen, and Henry Marelli of counsel for the strike leaders made the opening speech for the defense. Mr. Marelli said that he would prove that while Quinlan was at the Turn Hall meeting near its close, he was about the quietest person in the hall. Mr. Marelli added that he would prove that instead of making a speech inciting strikers to commit an assault, Quinlan never uttered the words in the indictment, and that he did not make a motion of any kind during the entire time he was in the hall.

Otto Seyer, a striker, who was at the Turn Hall meeting, was the first witness called by the defense. Seyer said that Quinlan did not make a speech or a motion of any sort.

"What you want me to understand, is it not, is that you did not hear Quinlan make the motion?" asked Prosecutor Dunn.

"What I want you to understand," Seyer answered, "is that Quinlan did not speak at all that morning."

Carrie Torello and Regina Conover followed Seyer and testified along the same lines as did Seyer. Then followed Mr. Grant and Mr. Battle, who were character witnesses for Quinlan. Afterward strikers who were in Turn Hall on the morning the alleged utterances were made took the stand in rapid succession, each swearing that Quinlan had not spoken or made a motion.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, the woman agitator and one of Haywood's principal lieutenants, took the stand and swore that she had spoken, but that Quinlan did not on the morning in question. Miss Flynn will go to trial in the latter part of the week on the same charge that Quinlan is now facing. According to the police, she suggested that the strikers should drive the loyal workers out of the mills, and Quinlan then made the motion to carry the suggestion into immediate effect.

Quinlan in his own behalf made a specific denial of the charge. There was not a word of truth in what the police said, so far as he was concerned, he testified. A Paterson reporter also testified that he was at the hall on the morning in question, and that he was certain that Quinlan did not make the motion he is accused of making.

SEEK CLUE TO WRECKERS.

Boys Under Arrest Believed Not to be Responsible for Erie Outrages.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 13.—The police and the private detectives of the Erie Railroad were busy to-day trying to get a clue which would help them in running down the person or persons responsible for the two attempts made in the last three days to wreck Erie passenger trains by placing obstructions on the tracks at the outskirts of this city. Two boys are under arrest for "plugging" a train near Market Street. To "plug" a train, in the parlance of the railroad men, is to pull the emergency bell cord, which sets all the air brakes and brings the train to a stop in the shortest possible distance. The boys deny any knowledge of the attempts to wreck trains on Saturday and Monday night and say that they pulled the bell cord to stop the train near their homes.

The police think that the boys do not know anything about the attempts to wreck, despite the fact that both of the prisoners have served terms of imprisonment in the State Reformatory.

The silk mill strikers deny that the efforts to wreck the trains were made by persons who are on strike or are in sympathy with the strikers. There is a laborers' strike in progress here, and many of the Erie's laborers are among those who quit work. The actions of these men during the last three days are being investigated by the police.

The officers of the railroad company agree that both attempts to wreck probably were made more with an idea of intimidating the railroad management than for the purpose of injuring passengers or causing any great damage. In both instances the rocky obstructions were placed at points where they were sure to be seen by any alert locomotive engineer.

Within less than half a mile of the scene of last night's attempted wreck, at Belair, in Bergen County, an unsuccessful attempt was made early this morning to steal about 20,000 sticks of dynamite from a magazine owned by George A. Myers, a hardware dealer of 63 Washington Street, this city. The magazine is built of concrete, outside of which is a frame structure.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 13.—Officers of the Erie Railroad have sent telegrams to Judge William Seufert, Prosecutor Wendall J. Wright, and Sheriff Robert Conklin demanding protection for the railroad property in Bergen County, following the attempt made yesterday to wreck the Chicago Limited at Ferndale. Ferndale is near Bergen County line.

The Erie officers say that they are unable to cope with the situation with their special police and detectives. Under Sheriff Robert N. Heath went to Hawthorne with a number of Deputies and will swear in more to-morrow.

They patrol the tracks north of Ferndale in Bergen County.

FIRE CHIEFS SEEK A VETO.

Go to Albany To-morrow to Protest Against Two-Platoon Bill.

Fire Commissioner Johnson, Chief Kenlon, and fifteen deputy chiefs, will go to Albany to-morrow afternoon to urge Gov. Sulzer to withhold his approval of the bill which provides for the division of the fire fighting force of the city into two platoons, to be on duty for alternating periods of twelve hours. It is argued against it that the firemen's foe never sleeps, and that any such measure will disrupt the discipline of a department that has to operate on a military basis.

The opponents of the measure were heartened yesterday by the news that ex-Fire Chief Edward Croker had written to Albany in protest against the two-platoon system, which was tried out in his day and dropped hastily after the experiment. After telling of the six months' trial in the Third Battalion, Mr. Croker said in his communication to Gov. Sulzer:

> During that time charges were preferred against 147 members of the various companies of said battalion, which consisted of about 187 members; charges were mostly for intoxication, absence without leave, neglect of duty, &c.
>
> The two-platoon system caused a great deal of dissatisfaction, and long before the expiration of the six months almost every man who served in the battalion was very anxious to have the old system restored, as, after a thorough trial under the most advantageous circumstances, they realized that the two-platoon was very much to their discomfort and simply resulted in a large number of charges with fines and penalties spoiling the records of the men, and the only result achieved was to burden the City of New York with an unnecessary expense for additional firemen necessary under such a system.

The ways for the passage of the Two Platoon bill through the Legislature are supposed to have been greased by funds supplied by the Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association, and Commissioner Johnson is looking into the financial operations of the association.

COMPLAINS OF HUNTINGTON.

Deceived Him, Says Suing Stockholder in Old National Steel & Wire.

William James Anderson, on behalf of himself and other stockholders of the National Steel and Wire Company, began suit in the Supreme Court yesterday to set aside the exchange of the stock of that company for securities of the National Consolidated Wire and Cable Company. The transfer was made in 1905. It was consummated, Anderson alleged, through a voting trust, managed by Henry E. Huntington, who, according to Anderson, disregarded the interests of the stockholders.

Anderson alleged also that he and various other stockholders were deceived by various alleged machinations of Huntington into putting their own stock into the hands of the voting trust. In addition, Anderson alleged that Huntington dominated his fellow-members of the voting trust, Ogden Mills and Henry W. Monroe.

Although he named Mr. Munroe and Mr. Mills as party defendants, Mr. Anderson said that he did not hold them in any way responsible for his alleged losses through the management of the voting trust. Mr. Anderson also alleged that a letter of Huntington to J. P. Morgan & Co., and a letter of that firm to a European brokerage representative bore out some of his contentions. On this point he says:

"At the time said Huntington wrote the said letter to J. P. Morgan & Co., which caused J. P. Morgan & Co. to write their said letter, said Huntington well knew and should have known that said holding corporation was insolvent."

FOR COMPENSATION BILL.

H. R. Towne Says Foley-Walker Measure Is Equitable and Necessary.

The Foley-Walker Workmen's Compensation bill, passed by the State Legislature instead of the Murtaugh-Jackson bill, has a strong champion in Henry R. Towne of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company. Commenting yesterday on the bill Mr. Towne said:

"There are many reasons why a law should be passed in this State to provide fair compensation for workmen hurt in the course of their employment. As I said in a recent letter to Gov. Sulzer in my capacity as President of the Merchants' Association, this law should apply to uniformly as to impose the cost of all accidents upon the trade affected in such manner as to become part of the cost of production and thereby made capable of being redistributed by inclusion in the selling price. This compensation should be given without the costs and delays of litigation.

"The bill now before the Governor is sound in principle, and provides effectively for a sufficient damage fund in all industries. It is also sufficient for the speedy and equitable distribution of that fund, without impairment, to those entitled to it. With the members of the Merchants' Association I believe that the basis of compensation provided for, 50 per cent. of the workman's wage, is entirely fair. While the bill may not be perfect in its administrative details, it can be better improved after a reasonable period of operation."

ASK MAYOR FOR RELIEF.

Aged Peddlers Do Not Want to Work Under Williamsburg Bridge.

One hundred peddlers, all armed with physicians' certificates and affidavits to prove that because of their advanced age and physical condition they were unable to sell their wares in the noisy market place provided for them under the Williamsburg Bridge, met last night in the rooms of the East Side Protective Association at 1 Avenue B. It was decided to submit certificates and affidavits to Mayor Gaynor to-day, and Harry H. Schlacht, Secretary of the Association, was chosen as the representative.

"The Mayor doesn't understand that these old peddlers are physically incapable of remaining under the bridge because of the noise made by the cars and wagons," said Mr. Schlacht. "We think that the market place is a fine thing, and all right for the younger men, but we also feel that the Mayor ought to provide some other place for the old men. It is a serious matter with them, and one of them told me that he would have to take his children out of school and put them to work if the plan was carried out."

New Home for Hebrew School.

The West Side Hebrew School, at 307 West Thirty-sixth Street, has decided to buy a large building in West Thirty-fifth Street, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, as a school and club for boys and girls. Organized a year ago, the school has now an enrollment of 250 children, studying Hebrew, and it needs room for more. The classes are held after public school hours.

PLATFORMS SACRED, SAYS MR. BRYAN

Candidates Should Accept Them or Withdraw, He Tells Pennsylvanians.

DAY OF THE BOSS IS PAST

He Predicts the Nomination of the Next President by the People at Primaries.

HARRISBURG, May 13.—Secretary Bryan addressed the Pennsylvania Legislature this afternoon and predicted that before another Presidential election the Presidential primary would be so general that there would be no need for the holding of National conventions.

Mr. Bryan came here to speak at the Jefferson anniversary dinner of the Central Democratic Club of Harrisburg and was invited to address the members of the Legislature. After being formally welcomed by Gov. Tener in the Executive Offices, the Secretary of State was escorted to the crowded hall of the House of Representatives, where he was introduced by Speaker Alter.

Mr. Bryan said he appreciated the honor of addressing the members of the Legislature, and as he was going to speak at a Democratic Club dinner at night he was glad to get all non-partisanship out of his system before evening. "I am trying to bring myself within the propriety of my office, and I know you will be charitable if I talk less now than I used to," he said.

Mr. Bryan said that platforms were becoming more specific year by year, because the people believed more in them each year. "It is a settled principle of this country," said the Secretary, "that a platform is binding upon every man who runs on that platform. Some men violate platforms because they say they cannot violate their consciences. Far be it from me to have any man violate his conscience. No man should violate his conscience; but that does not mean that he should violate his party platform. It means that his conscience should begin to work before he is elected and not afterward. If, after election, he cannot violate his conscience to keep his party pledges, he should resign and not put his conscience above the conscience of his constituents.

"A man who violates a party platform and betrays his party and the people is a criminal worse than the man who embezzles money," declared the Secretary as he pounded the Speaker's desk.

Speaking of Progressivism, Mr. Bryan said there was a time when he seemed to be a radical. "Now I have to hurry to keep up with the other radicals," he added.

The Secretary told of his interest in the income tax as far back as seventeen years ago, and how pleased he was that an income tax amendment had now been written into the Federal Constitution. Continuing, he said:

"Twenty-three years ago I advocated that United States Senators be elected by the people. I have fought and fought on for that principle, and yesterday I was notified, as Secretary of State, that the thirty-sixth State had ratified the Senatorial amendment. And in a few days it will be my pleasure, my delight to affix my signature to that document that will put the United States Senate into the hands of the people.

"Now let me tell you something else. The day of the boss is gone. The people will write their own platforms hereafter, and send their own representatives to the legislative halls. And I venture to say that we have seen the last of the great National conventions. I predict that before another Presidential election rolls around the Presidential primary will become so general that the Presidential candidates will be elected not by the bosses or party leaders but by the people."

Mr. Bryan said that the two great principles to be upheld in the fight for representative government were two of the Ten Commandments: "Thou shalt not steal" and "Thou shalt not kill." All injustices that were done in the name of law were the same as larceny, he said. All laws that ground down the people to their last drop of blood, he added, violated the command, "Thou shalt not kill."

Secretary Bryan was accompanied from Washington by William B. Wilson, the Secretary of Labor; Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer and Warren Worth Bailey of Pennsylvania, and James I. Blakslee, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General. The party was joined at the Capitol by George W. Guthrie of Pittsburgh, the new Ambassador to Japan.

BRYAN PUNS FOR PEACE.

Tells British Delegates the Greatest Dreadnought Is Friendship.

WASHINGTON, May 13. — Foreign delegates in this country preparing for the centenary celebration of the Treaty of Ghent departed to-day for Philadelphia, after being the guests of John A. Stewart of New York, at a breakfast at the Army and Navy Club.

Secretary Bryan to-day bade the delegates from the British Empire farewell in the name of the United States. In the course of his remarks he said the preparations for the peace celebration were in the nature of the building of the greatest super-dreadnought, and that it was called "Friendship."

"Its compass is the heart," said Mr. Bryan in describing the allegorical ship of peace; "its shells carry good will; its missiles are projected by the smokeless powder of love; its Captain is the Prince of Peace. I want you to drink with me to the battleship of Friendship. No target will withstand that which friendship sends abroad."

Mr. Stewart, Chairman of the American Executive Committee, said a meeting would be held in New York on May 23, when plans would be formulated for raising several millions for the American features of the proposed celebration. Similar meetings are to be held by sub-committees in London, Toronto, Melbourne, and Ghent.

Norman Angell to Speak.

Under the auspices of the New York Peace Society, Norman Angell will speak at the Broadway Tabernacle Church, at Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street, on Sunday evening, on "The Great Illusion," his study of the relation of military power in nations to their economic and social advantages. Tickets to the reserved portion of the auditorium may be obtained free from the office of the society at 507 Fifth Avenue.

NOT GUILTY, SAYS STILWELL

Senator Says He Has No Money, So Court Assigns Counsel.

After first telling Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court that he had no money with which to hire a lawyer, State Senator Stephen J. Stilwell yesterday pleaded not guilty to the indictment for bribery found against him on Monday.

Stilwell appeared in court with his attorney, Senator James D. McClelland. He told Justice Seabury that he felt that there was a question as to the advisability of being defended by a lawyer who also was a member of the Senate, and asked that a lawyer be assigned to defend him. Justice Seabury said that he could not see why Senator McClelland should not defend him. Then Stilwell said that he was without funds. Senator McClelland then was assigned as counsel.

A plea of not guilty was entered, and Stilwell prepared to offer $5,000 bail. Stilwell had Patrick and Emma Butler of 3,301 Olinville Avenue, the Bronx, in court ready to go on his bond, but because the record showed that the property they offered was in the name of Mr. Butler's father the bond was refused. Stilwell was paroled until to-day when Mr. Butler will show that the property in question was willed to him by his father.

Stilwell is indicted for demanding $3,500 from President Kendall of the New York Bank Note Company. Mr. Whitman intends to force the case to an early trial and will ask that a special panel of talesmen be asked to appear in court on Wednesday.

Men's Patch Pocket Suits at Saks'

¶ The proper location for a patch pocket has got to be figured to a mathematical nicety, or it will be as out of place as a poor relation in an Easter parade.

¶ It is the function of a patch pocket to be both a part of the general scheme and a thing apart—like a rich man's son who is both a member of the family and a hanger-on.

¶ A Saks patch pocket is not an impertinent trifle butting in like a third party on an interested couple, but rather a pleasing episode in the narrative of style.

¶ The very angle at which a Saks patch pocket comes to view lends to the garment all the striking individuality of a silhouette.

¶ In checks, in blue serges, in fancy mixtures, in flannels, in pencil stripes, in all the fabrics for smart wear, and at all prices, we can show you the cleverest patch pockets that ever came from the tailor's bench.

THE TIMES'S DAILY TRANSATLANTIC WIRELESS AND CABLE DISPATCHES

PETRIE DISCUSSES FREER GOSPEL MS.

Says Value Depends Upon Whether or Not It Is "Heretical."

CONJECTURE AS TO DATE

London Times Fixes It as of the Fifth or Sixth Century—Hiding Place Unknown.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 14.—The British Museum authorities have hardly had time to examine the Freer fac simile of the Gospel manuscripts; but it is generally agreed that they will afford textual critics occasion for much study, and possibly some modifications of accepted views.

Prof. Flinders Petrie, who has just arrived in England after six months in Egypt, says that the value of the manuscript depends upon whether it is "one of the heretical manuscripts doctored to meet the views of one of the various parties, or a more excellent text than any we possess. I have not read the article in The London Times, but it will be by the best authority, I doubt not, and I expect that the manuscript discussed is the one discovered in the White Monastery, near Sohag, in Upper Egypt."

Prof. Petrie thus apparently accepts the view of Prof. Schmidt, whose theory is that all four manuscripts of the Freer collection came from the White Monastery; whereas, Prof. Saunders, in his second report to the Archaeological Institute of America, said that anyone acquainted with the Arab stories would advise looking in every other direction first, as toward the Nubian Desert or the Fayum or toward Sinai, if one wished to find the last resting place of this ancient Bible.

Prof. Petrie added:

"It is curious that no two important early manuscripts go to the same district or the same church. Thus we possess the Codex Alexandrinus; the Greek Church has another; the Roman Catholic Church the Codex Vaticanus; and now the Freer manuscript has gone to the United States, to the Non-Conformists."

While Prof. Saunders assigns the date of the manuscript to the fourth century, The Times, in an article discussing the value of the find, says it probably belongs to the fifth or sixth centuries, and adds that the history of how and where the precious volume was found remains to be told. All that is known at present is that it comes from Egypt. It is notorious that texts were very freely manipulated and forged by the early heretics.

Whole books of Gospels, Epistles, the Acts of the Apostles, and the Apocalypse seem to have been written sometimes for purposes of edification, sometimes in support of doctrinal views of particular sects. The "Logia" or "sayings" in the Oxyrhynchus manuscript have been accepted by many scholars as probably genuine, but it may perhaps be doubted whether they will be equally ready to regard the new Freer saying as authentic.

"In a general way," says The Times, "the new codex seems to support the views of Westcott and Hort, which had such great weight in determining the text of the English revision. We drew attention yesterday to the remarkable version which it gives of the last twelve verses of St. Mark. We have now three different endings to that Gospel, all apparently of very high antiquity. They are those of the English Bible, that of the Codex Regius, and that of the new manuscript.

"On the whole the tendency of the new text appears to be conservative. It does not support the Codex Bezae, the famous Cambridge manuscript, which is the great storehouse of so-called 'Western' readings, and which, by the way, has two striking 'logia' inserted in it. It does not seem to suggest novel doctrinal views, or like the Codex Sinaiticus, considerable changes in our criticism of the text; but these are matters which only time and minute examination can finally determine."

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, May 13.—Charles L. Freer could not be found this evening. His home is closed; he was not at his suite at his hotel, and he was not at his office in the afternoon. Friends say, however, that the original of the new Gospel manuscript is in his own possession in Detroit, but that it will go with his art collection to the Government after his death, to be placed in the Freer Memorial Building in Washington.

A copy of the Gospel, bound in Byzantine wood covers, has been presented by Mr. Freer to the Vatican and to every great university and library in the world, together with a volume by Prof. Saunders of the University of Michigan discussing the work. It was one of those copies which The London Times had.

Mr. Freer has received letters from the Vatican and from hundreds of the world's most noted theologians and savants, who have read the Gospel and Prof. Saunders's book, congratulating him upon the work he has accomplished. Among the librarians who have written him are those of the Bodleian Library of Oxford, the John Rylands Library of Manchester, the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, and all the great universities. They all praise the scholarship and the mechanical work of the fac similes. The entire work of preparation was done in the University of Michigan, and the mechanical work was done in the United States.

GERMAN OIL BILL MORIBUND.

It Is Possible That the Government Will Not Try to Revive It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 13.—Information recently obtained from American official sources in Berlin indicates that the German Government's Petroleum Monopoly bill, which aims at the extinction of the Standard Oil Company in the Fatherland, will remain in a dormant state for some time to come. There are well-posted persons who think it will never be seriously resuscitated.

The bill, in a form that differs considerably from the original measure, is now in the hands of the Illuminating Oil Committee of the Reichstag, which hopes to resume consideration of the scheme in June. If the committee finds that there is "no time" for this, the discussion will be "postponed" until after the Summer recess, in October or November.

The bill cannot possibly come before Parliament for a second reading before the end of the year. Domestic political conditions make it impossible for the Government to force the passage of the measure at the present session. The Government requires for the passage of the Army bill the support of several parties which are bitterly opposed to the petroleum scheme.

QUEEN MARY MISSED PERIL FROM A MINE

Was to Have Set Off Explosion at Aldershot Which Proved Dangerous.

PLAN LUCKILY CHANGED

Shed in Which She Would Have Stood Was Showered with Clay and Sand.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 14.—Owing to a change in yesterday's programme, says The Daily Mirror, the King and Queen escaped an alarming and possibly dangerous experience at Aldershot.

The Queen was to fire a mine consisting of 160 pounds of gunpowder by means of an electric button from an iron shed fifty yards away. The charge was too dangerous to leave unexploded, so when it was known that their Majesties would be unable to carry out that part of the programme, an order was given to fire it. The danger zone, it was understood, was a circle of about fifty yards' diameter, with the mine as it centre.

Owing, it is said, to the strong wind and other causes, the explosion caused dense masses of clay to rise high in the air and to fall mainly in the highroad, a distance of more than a hundred yards. Quantities of earth fell near the shed where the Queen would have been, and on the roadway where the King would almost certainly have been watching the explosion, probably on horseback. One piece of clay that fell near the shed weighed over half a hundredweight.

The sky was black with the clay for a few seconds. About 100 spectators and fifty sappers who were watching the explosion made a wild dash for cover. A large lump of clay was carried through the wind screen of the nearest motor car, which was covered with clay and sand.

Many telegraph wires on the further side of the road were brought down. A press photographer who was the nearest person to the mine was covered with clay from head to foot and his camera was hardly recognizable.

OUR FLEET MOST POWERFUL

Will Dwarf Other Squadrons in the Mediterranean.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 14.—The Daily Telegraph gives prominence to an article dealing with the forthcoming cruise of the American fleet in European waters and takes the occasion to set forth the need of a redistribution of British naval forces.

Referring to the fact that, apart from cruisers, torpedo craft, and auxiliaries, the American fleet contains no fewer than twenty-one battleships, the article says:

"During the presence of these vessels in the Mediterranean, the United States will dominate naval power there. The ships will represent a far higher standard of fighting power than ever before seen in those waters. The British Navy, even during the long period of Anglo-French antagonism, has never had more than fourteen battleships in the Mediterranean, and at present the French fleet has only eighteen vessels of the battleship type in active commission, while Italy has eight vessels, and Austria six. Consequently during the period covered by the visit of these American ships the United States will have the most powerful fleet in the Mediterranean. Its size will, indeed, completely dwarf the British squadron, which, even after the completion of the Admiralty's scheme of reorganization, will comprise only four battle cruisers and four armored cruisers. This British force when contrasted with the main fleet of the United States, will appear of almost insignificant size.

"This demonstration of American naval power is hardly likely to be without effect on British naval opinion. Throughout the British fleet it is felt that injury to the spirit and character of the service is being done by the policy of continuous concentration in home waters."

WHITE STAR PROFITS CUT TO 30 PER CENT.

Effect of Titanic Disaster on the Company's Dividend a Reduction by Half.

PREVIOUS RETURN WAS 60%

Changes in the Olympic and Labor Disturbances Also Figure in Reasons for the Reduction.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 13.—Covering as it does the year of the Titanic disaster, the annual report of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, which owns the White Star Line, shows that its operations have been seriously affected by abnormal conditions.

The sum of $540,790, described as a proportion of the loss on the first cost of the Titanic, was written off the profits. The Directors state that the profits were considerably reduced by the disaster to that vessel, by the withdrawal of the Olympic for repairs, and by labor disturbances. As a result, the net profits for the year were $1,226,720, of which $1,125,000, being 30 per cent. on the share capital, has been distributed. There thus remains a balance of $101,720, which, with $700,855 brought forward, makes a total of $802,575, of which $500,000 has been added to the insurance fund and $302,575 carried forward.

The dividend for 1911 was 60 per cent., or twice as large as last year's. The Directors refer with regret to the impending retirement on June 30 of Bruce Ismay, and intimate that this will also involve the appointment of new managers, as the firm of Ismay, Imrie & Co. will cease to act in that capacity.

LUNATIC KILLS ATTACHE.

Gen. von Lewinski and a Policeman Slain in a Munich Street.

MUNICH, May 13.—Major Gen. von Lewinski, Prussian military attaché in Bavaria, was killed here to-day by a supposed lunatic, who fired three revolver shots at him. A Sergeant of Police was also killed.

The assassin, whose name is Straffer, attacked the General in a crowded street, first firing several shots at him and then turning his weapon on Police Sergt. Pollender, who ran to the officer's assistance. The policeman was killed by a shot through the heart.

Gen. von Lewinski was still alive when picked up. He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance, and died shortly afterward.

The assailant was meanwhile seized by a crowd of persons, who tried to lynch him, and who succeeded in seriously injuring him before he was rescued and arrested by police.

Gen. von Lewinski was a promising officer of the General Staff, and occupied an important position connected with the co-operation of the Prussian and Bavarian armies.

IMPERATOR SAILING PUT OFF

Will Not Start for America Till June 11—Kaiser to Take Special Cruise.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, May 13.—It has been found necessary to postpone the sailing of the Hamburg-American liner Imperator on her first trip across the Atlantic from May 24 till June 11. The reason assigned for the change of date is that the provisional berth provided for the liner did not give sufficient shelter during the rough weather of the past week to render possible the completion of the work which remained to be done aboard.

It is stated that the Emperor will go on a special cruise on the vessel. This has been arranged at his personal desire for three days, July 7 to 10, right after the Kiel regatta.

TOBACCO STRIKE IN CUBA.

1,500 Sorters and Warehousemen Embarrass Havana Factories.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 13.—Fifteen hundred tobacco sorters and warehousemen struck to-day, demanding higher wages. This ties up the tobacco-selecting business in Havana and surrounding towns. The work of selecting the recently gathered 1913 crop had just begun.

Tobacco merchants predict that the strike will be overcome within four or five days. A committee of tobacco merchants has been appointed to confer with the strikers.

EXPOSES A 'CURE' BACKED BY LORIMER

Journal of Medical Association Gives a Sketch of Dr. Duket and His Practice.

LYMPH FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Said He Got It from Goats, but He Was Taken Back When Asked Where the Goats Were.

The Journal of the American Medical Association in its current issue relates the following concerning an alleged "consumption cure" which apparently has the backing of William Lorimer, who was expelled from the United States Senate:

"About the time that Friedmann's press agents were getting in their finest work, and when any news item—no matter how bizarre—regarding a consumption cure made good newspaper 'copy,' the Chicago newspapers came out with sensational articles regarding a locally exploited 'cure' for the white plague. Dr. Peter P. Duket of Chicago had produced, we were told, a 'serum' that would cure tuberculosis. It is probable that Chicago newspapers would not have 'fallen for' this canard if it had not been given an artificial news value by the fact that the 'cure' was financed by William Lorimer, who for a time occupied a seat in the United States Senate.

"Newspaper notoriety seems to have been assiduously cultivated, and the 'Duket serum' has been given publicity at stated intervals from the time of the first sensational articles in the early part of March until the present. The latest developments are that Mr. Lorimer has asked the Governor of each State in the Union to send a representative to Chicago to watch the Duket 'cure.' Furthermore, he seems to have brought his influence to bear at Washington, for the papers state that an investigation of the Duket 'cure' is to be undertaken by the United States Public Health Service.

"So many inquiries have been received by The Journal regarding the Duket 'serum' that we feel there is an urgent need of giving physicians such facts as we have already at hand. We have postponed publishing such matter as we have in the hope that we could have completed our investigations of this widely vaunted treatment. If conditions warrant it the result of these investigations will appear in due time.

"Peter P. Duket was graduated by Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago, in 1893. He was licensed to practice in Ohio in 1896 on the presentation of his diploma, examinations for licensure not being required in that State until 1900. His name does not appear in the medical directories for the year 1896, but in 1900 he seems to have been at Bowling Green, Ohio. His name is again absent from the directories for 1902, 1904 and 1906, but appears in the issues of 1908, 1910 and 1912 under the City of Toledo. In 1902 Duket presented his diploma and obtained a license to practice in the State of Michigan.

"In June, 1911, and again in January, 1912, Duket made application for license to practice medicine in Colorado. It was refused. But he obtained a license to practice in New Mexico in January, 1912, the license being granted on presentation of diploma. While in New Mexico in 1912, Duket wrote to the Ohio State Board asking that board to indorse him to the Texas board. The Ohio board 'inquired regarding his moral and professional standing,' and as a result of this inquiry the Secretary of the Ohio board 'was instructed to refuse the indorsement.' In January, 1913, Duket was granted license to practice in Illinois.

"In connection with Duket's application to the Colorado State Board of Medical Examiners for licensure in that State, some interesting points were brought out. In the course of Duket's efforts to get a Colorado license, he appealed to a prominent Denver politician, who appeared before the board in Duket's behalf. During the course of the hearing, however, the politician himself seems to have become skeptical of Duket's good faith. Duket is said to have claimed at that time that he was curing tuberculosis with a 'lymph' obtained from goats. The politician friend asked Duket where he kept his goats. Duket is said to have hesitated and finally answered that he had one goat that he kept at a certain address in Toledo, Ohio. The politician had the Chief of Police of Denver wire the Chief of Police of Toledo to locate the goat. The Toledo Police Chief both wired and wrote that investigation indicated that Duket had not at that time and never had had any goats quartered at the address given.

"In 1910 and 1911 Duket was operating what he called the 'Tubercular Sanitarium Company' at Findlay, Ohio. He was using this concern as headquarters for the exploitation of his so-called serum. Business apparently being slow, Duket seems to have gone about the country drumming up patients. He issued a somewhat elaborate booklet describing the sanitarium and giving some indefinite information regarding his medicament. When in a town he would send out this booklet to prospective victims with a rubber stamp imprint on its title page giving the name of the hotel at which he was staying and the time that he could be seen.

"From this booklet we take the following quotations:

> The only treatment that is to be considered is an intravenous treatment with an antiseptic lymph.
>
> This antiseptic lymph is non-toxic, non-irritant, and subdues the inflammation of the lungs.
>
> In our treatment we use an antiseptic lymph which is a recent discovery and has been used by ourselves exclusively.
>
> There is no other institution in the world that has the same antiseptic lymph.
>
> It is not made from any product from tubercle bacilli.
>
> When given intravenously, the action of the germs ceases. The patients are restored rapidly to their normal weight, enabling the system to assist the antiseptic in destroying the germs and curing the disease.

"With the usual assurance of exploiters of 'consumption cures,' Duket was not at all modest in the claims made for his antiseptic lymph.' Here is what he gave as the percentage of 'cures' made by his 'treatment:'

> Patients in the first stage, 90 per cent. of cures.
>
> Patients in the second stage, 75 per cent. of cures.
>
> Patients in the third stage, 50 per cent. of cures.

To a layman who wrote to the Findlay institution Duket replied in part:

> The length of time required to be at the sanatorium or to effect a cure in ten weeks.
>
> In some cases, of course, it may be longer than that.

"As this letter was not answered, a few days later another communication came from Duket, four pages in length, urging the prospective patient to come to Findlay. 'The treatment is safe, and none but good results follow,' the recipient of the letter was told. This does not seem invariably to have been the case. A tuberculosis subject who had been to the Ohio State Sanatorium and returned greatly improved took Duket's treatment. Each injection was followed by a rise in temperature and chill and in a few weeks all the good that had been accomplished at the State institution was undone. The poor fellow died and his brother writes that neither the deceased nor he noticed any improvement when his brother returned from Duket's sanatorium.

"Here then is another alleged cure for tuberculosis being foisted on the public by a man who has no scientific standing and who has had little or no scientific training. Nor is this all. Duket has succeeded in enlisting the help of men whose motives we need not question and whose influence is immeasurably greater than his own. Thus the potentialities for harm are enormously increased. At an early date we hope to be able to give our readers further details regarding the results of the 'cure' itself. In the meantime, every physician will, in the interest of his tuberculous patients, do well to give them such facts as we have presented regarding this latest cure."

THREE JUSTICES NAMED.

ALBANY, May 13.—Leonard C. Crouch of Syracuse was appointed today by Gov. Sulzer as a Supreme Court Justice of the Fifth Judicial District, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Peter B. CITY BEAUTIFIERS HEAR GAYNOR ON ART

Mayor Tells Visitors One Feels Like Kneeling Before the Public Library.

SOME EVIL HERE; MORE GOOD

Conference of Art Commissions Learns That a Good Deal of It Is to be Found in Our Architecture.

Representatives of art commissions from all over the country held their first annual conference at the City Hall yesterday, and matters of art in connection with city planning were discussed. The Mayor welcomed the visitors in the old Council Chamber after the members of the New York Commission had shown the delegates through the Governor's Room.

"Don't take the word of a few sensationalists about New York City," the Mayor said to them. "Perhaps I do not need to tell you that. Dr. Parkhurst knows more about the morals of New York City, or thinks he does, than does anybody else. Other people know a good deal about something else. But where there is evil there is also very much more good.

"Take the improvement in our architecture—our Public Library Building on Fifth Avenue, for instance. Who can pass by that building for the first time without stopping? (I almost said kneeling down; but we don't kneel down as easily as that in New York City.) There is our new Municipal Building. I suppose that some of you will look through that building before you leave the city. Then there is the new Woolworth Building, a magnificent structure."

The Mayor said he didn't know if New York City had imitated other cities or whether other cities had imitated New York in forming its Art Commission, but he paid a warm tribute to the local commission, saying that its influence upon public buildings and upon the development of artistic tendencies in architecture had been remarkable.

Arnold W. Brunner presided at the opening session. He said that the Art Commission of New York was very glad to welcome the out-of-town delegates, and added that the Mayor, although "the busiest of men" always found time to attend to matters of interest to the commission.

"This is a brand new society," said Mr. Brunner, "and it is now giving its first party. Our idea was to form a sort of alumni association of other art commissions for the purpose of discussing together the questions that concern us all. We have no formal addresses prepared, and every one is asked to speak when he wants. It is going to be the most informal conference you ever saw."

Robert W. de Forest, President of the New York Commission, spoke after the Mayor. He said in part:

"The purpose of this conference of American Art Commissions is not to magnify the great deeds of any—much less to glorify the accomplishments of our New York Commission—but to promote the establishment of such commissions in cities where none exist, and to point out their desirable powers and the inherent limitations of those powers.

"They have come into being as a protection against the 'city hideous' and a help toward the 'city beautiful.' Their usual functions are both negative and positive. Negative in preventing the acceptance of unworthy designs, and positive in encouraging worthy ones. Their creation recognizes the fact that our average elective municipal officers are not qualified to pass on the artistic merits of statues, pictures or structures, and that they need experts to act for them in this particular. It is a fact of which we need not be at all ashamed. It is no more a reflection on our Mayors than the same proposition would be if applied to our bank Presidents of our pastors.

"That there should be such commissions in all our lafge cities is generally recognized. They are a natural evolution to meet a growing need, but they are still in the experimental stage of development as respects the extnt o ftheir powers and their functions. Hence the desirability of just such a conference as this, to exchange views and experience, and to crystalize judgment into action."

The rest of the session was taken up with a discussion of the question whether an art commission should have the power of absolute veto. Frederick Law Olmsted of the Washington Fine Arts Commission maintained that a power of veto which could, on occasion, be suspended, made for the highest degree of efficiency. Henry Rutgers Marshall, a former member of the New York Art Commission, took the ground that as long as the commission was to remain a judicial body, without initiative authority, it should have the power of absolute veto.

The delegates adjourned to the Metropoltan Museum of Art, where luncheon was served and where another discussion took place during the afternoon. Among the visting delegates are:

John W. Alexander and Hermon A. MacNeil of the Pittsburgh Art Commission; Thomas Allen and Charles D. Maginnins of the Boston Art Commission; W. H. Bein of the New Haven Art Commission; Edward H. Blashfield, Cass Gilbert, Thomas Hastings, and Frederick Law Olmstead of the Washington Fine Arts Commission; Andrew Wright Crawford, Paul P. Cret, Leslie W. Miller, and Eli Kirk Price of the Philadelphia Art Jury; F. H. Denman and Edward Gay of the Mount Vernon Art Commission; Rudolf Eickemeyer of the Yonkers Art Commission; Charles Noel Flagg and H. Siddons Mowbray of the Connecticut State Capital Commission of Sculpture; Edgar R. Harlan of Des Moines, Iowa; Edward H. McKinney of Albany; Walter Gilman Page, representing the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; Josias Pennington and Joseph Evans Sperry of the Baltimore Art Commission; E. E. Prentiss of Cleveland, Ohio; George Dudley Seymour of New Haven, Conn.; Louis A. Gudebros of Meriden, Conn.; H. H. Carpenter of Chicago; George E. Eastman and James G. Cutler of Rochester, N. Y., and Henry W. Goodwin of the Pittsburgh Art Commission.

At the afternoon session there was a discussion on "The Organization of State Art Commissions," at which Edward N. McKinney of Albany, Lewis W. Miller of Philadelphia, Miss Evans of Denver, and Mrs. Patterson of St. Louis spoke. A resolution was passed approving of the organization of State Commissions and a committee was appointed to draft a bill providing for them.

Last night the New York Commission gave a dinner to the visiting delegates at the University Club. Those who spoke were Daniel C. French of the Washington Fine Arts Commission, representing the President of the United States; Cass Gilbert and Frederick Law Olmstead, Milo R. Maltbie, F. Hopkinson Smith, and Royal Cortissoz, Eli Kirk Price, Thomas Allen, Burton Mansfield, and Joseph Evans Sperry. Robert W. deForest presided.

DERIDES HARVESTER SUIT.

Calls Dissolution Proceedings "a Political Scheme."

ST. PAUL, May 13.—Farmers consider the Government suit for the dissolution of the International Harvester Company "just a political scheme to help get some fellows into office," according to the statement of Frederic R. Crane, in charge of the agricultural development work of the Great Northern Railway, who was a witness for the defense to-day.

E. P. Grosvenor, of Government counsel, objected to the admission of this statement, on the ground that no foundation had been laid to show that the witness had any knowledge of what the farmers thought. The objection was entered.

OPPOSES FORESTRY SCHOOL

Cornell Against $310,000 Appropriation for Syracuse Department.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 13.—Representatives of Cornell and Syracuse Universities opposed each other to-day at a hearing before Gov. Sulzer on bills designed to appropriate $60,000 for maintenance and $250,000 for construction of the State College of Forestry in Syracuse.

Economy was the principal argument advanced against the measure, M. C. Burritt, editor of an agricultural publication, who acted as spokesman for the hundred Cornellians present, declaring that forestry instruction could be carried on at Cornell for one-quarter of the appropriations asked for by Syracuse University. He also maintained that duplication of this branch of work was unnecessary, and that the State's agricultural and forestry work should be centralized.

Chancellor Day and Dean Baker of Syracuse University and Louis Marshall of New York, President of the Syracuse College of Forestry, appeared for the measures.

Auchincloss Left $7,500 to Hospital.

The will of Hugh D. Auchincloss, the merchant, who died on April 21, filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogates' Court, gave $7,500 to the Presbyterian Hospital, $2,500 to Aaron A. Quinby, and $1,000 each to his butler, Vincent Scully; Mary Reilly, a nurse, and John Mahan, an employe. All his other employes who had been with him for more than a year received a year's pay. The residuary estate was left to the widow, Mrs. Emma Brewster Auchincloss. Lawyers for the estate estimated its value to be about $1,000,000.

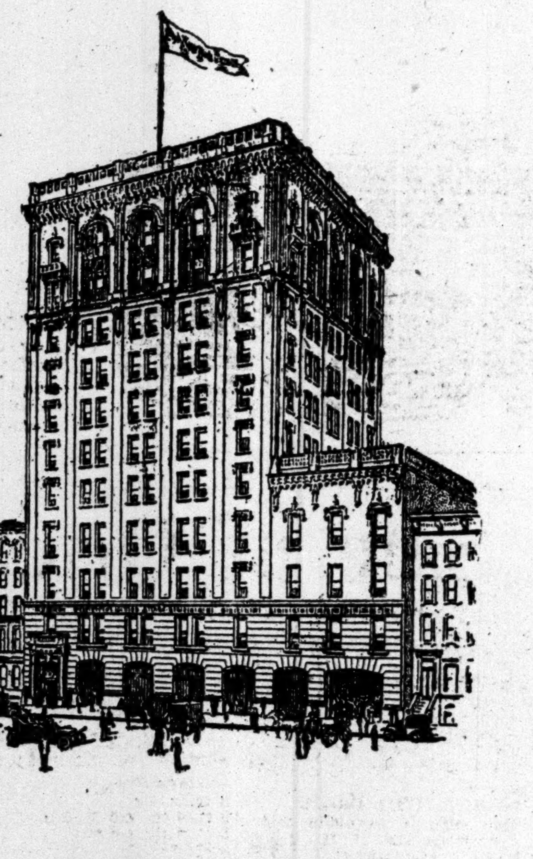
What The New York "Times" Thinks of Edison Service



The New York Times Annex

This great newspaper structure relies exclusively upon the Edison System for light and power. It does so after several years of Edison Service in the 42d Street structure.

The former "Times" Building downtown had a private plant. Here is what The "Times" says:

The Times Annex has seventeen miles of electric conduits with forty-nine miles of wire, excluding telegraph and telephone service. The Times Annex relies upon Central Station service furnished by the New York Edison Company. The amperage for light is 2,200, and for power 2,000 (the equivalent of more than ten thousand 50 watt lamps.)

The adoption of Centrtal Station service saved considerable money in first cost of installation. It saved valuable space. It avoided fires in the boilers in the warm months of the year, thereby keeping down the temperature of the press room. It minimized the handling of coal and ashes to the winter season and to the smaller quantities incidental only to heating the structure. It saved the extra cost of a "breakdown" connection for emergencies.

MORALS POLICE BILL UNDER SHARP FIRE

Bears Marks of Hysteria, Says Bruere—Binkerd Favors It Strongly.

MAYOR IS NON-COMMITTAL

No Politics in the Measure, Says Wagner—Low Wants Experiment Tried.

A score or more of well-known citizens argued before Mayor Gaynor at the City Hall yesterday for and against the Wagner bill providing for the establishment of a Public Welfare Board to take from the Police Department control of vice and gambling. The Mayor held a public hearing on the measure, along with about two dozen other bills, but he did not indicate whether or not he would veto it. Seldom has there been so much public interest manifested in a legislative bill at a Mayoralty hearing.

Among those who spoke against the measure were Henry H. Curran, Chairman of the Aldermanic Police Investigating Committee; Emory R. Buckner, counsel for the committee; Henry Bruere, Director of the Bureau of Municipal Research; Starr J. Murphy of the Bureau of Social Hygiene; Dr. Walter Laidlaw, representing the New York Federation of Churches, and Albert H. de Rhode of the Civil Service Reform Association. Some who spoke in its favor were Robert Binkerd, Secretary, and Allan Robinson, Chairman, of the Citizens' Committee, and State Senator Robert F. Wagner, who put the measure through the Legislature. Former Mayor Seth Low sent a letter favoring the bill.

"The Aldermanic Investigating Committee has recommended unanimously that no such morals police force be established," said Alderman Curran. "This bill would establish an irresponsible band of amateur sleuths. It is the most pernicious piece of legislation ever devised by the residents of Schoharie and Skaneateles to embarrass the administration of police affairs in New York City."

"I have studied police conditions here for several months," said Mr. Buckner, "and I am convinced that the present police force is thoroughly able, with proper checks and guidance, to administer the laws relating to gambling and vice. The more than 10,000 policemen on the force can report far more effectually what is going on than can a small force of morals police."

Dr. Laidlaw said:

"A very respectable proportion of the citizens' mass meeting, whose committee recommended this bill, is opposed to it. I have made inquiry, and have ascertained that a majority of the societies intrusted by this bill with the naming of the Public Welfare Board do not favor it."

"It is a mischievous bill, which restricts the power of the Mayor," said Mr. De Rhode. "The measure is wrong, too, in that it attempts to exempt the places under the Welfare Board from the provisions of the civil service laws."

A Step Backward, Says Bruere.

"This bill makes a step backward through the division of responsibility," said Mr. Bruere. "It would result in the greatest possible confusion of responsibility. The Mayor would not be responsible for the Welfare Commissioner, and the seven irresponsible bodies which nominate him might then turn their backs. The bill bears some marks of hysteria. It is wrong that it should make it mandatory on the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen to supply the requisitions of the Public Welfare Board, which might be raised into the millions through the force of hysteria.

"Contact between the police and the houses of vice will not be completely eliminated by this bill. Necessity will frequently compel the regular police to invade these houses. Assault, larceny, or murder occuring in a gambling or disorderly house would at once call in the regular police. Moreover, certain classes of criminals habitually frequent houses of this sort, and to these houses the police must go in search of fugitive criminals or for information regarding them.

"The bill is to be condemned because it allows appointments to be made by the Board of Public Welfare without let or hindrance from the Civil Service Commisisons. This inroad into the merit system is most unfortunate, for the impression always prevails that appointments not made under civil service rules are made for political reasons, and such an impression, whether well founded or not, seriously impairs the confidence of the public in the force. Such an impression would be especially harmful in this case, since the Inspectors should enjoy the fullest degree of public confidence."

Binkerd Favors the Bill.

Secretary Robert Binkerd led the forces in favor of the measure. He said in part:

"The object of this bill is to relieve the police force of its present responsibility of enforcing the law against gambling and vice, and to place such responsibility upon a wholly separate force, under the supervisory control of seven unpaid citizens.

"This bill grows out of a recommendation made by a Citizens' Committee, appointed at a mass meeting at Copper Union on Aug. 14, 1912. An important duty placed upon this committee was the suggestion of constructive measures for the betterment of police conditions. After many months of investigation and study, a large majority of the members of the committee became convinced that the separation embodied in this bill would accomplish two results—free the police force of contact with important sources of corruption and eventually improve police morals, and make possible more effective repressing of vice itself.

"If choice must be made between our present very unsatisfactory police conditions and the establishment of a special morals police, the latter is certainly to be preferred. It might be that such a special police force would be so constantly under the public suspicion that less blackmail could be levied by its members than by the regular police, and the establishment of such a police force would certainly relieve the regular police of some very disagreeable and dangerous duties, for the performance of which experience has shown them to be entirely unfitted."

Senator Wagner's Views.

Senator Wagner spoke briefly in favor of his measure, saying:

"In drawing up this bill there was absolutely no politics in it. I think that all the citizens would overlook the question of home rule if they thought this bill would eliminate evil. I know how high-minded many of the men and women are who have studied this matter and I am sure your Honor would appoint these people to the proposed board, and the city would get the benefit of their knowledge. Most of the policemen are honest, as your Honor has often said, and these honest policemen will welcome this means of separating the small number of dishonest ones in the department from very great temptation."

In his letter to Mayor Gaynor, Seth Low said:

"I have examined the objections to this bill issued by the Bureau of Municipal Research, and I am obliged to say that I do not think them decisive. It is essential to any hope of success, in my judgment, that, in the first instance, the Board of Public Welfare shall be able to make appointments of Inspectors, and to remove them at will. I do not say that this will always be the case. I have been a believer in the civil service system all my life.

"I had the honor to be the first Mayor of the United States to apply this system in a city, when the authority to do so was only permissive. But the civil service system is intended as an aid to good government; it is not intended to make impossible an experiment which, at the outset, it can only hamper.

"So far as the financial criticisms of the Bureau of Research are concerned, I do not read the bill as the bureau does. The bill appears to me to preserve all the existing powers of the Board of Estimate, and the Board of Aldermen, in regard to appropriations. It simply confers upon the Board of Public Welfare the authority to make appointments within the appropriations made for it, and to the grades and ranks provided in the appropriations.

"I will not say that the bill is perfect in every detail; but if the experiment itself is worth trying, the bill is not so defective as to demand its veto on questions of detail. Personally I should like to see the experiment of a Board of Welfare tried in the City of New York; and, therefore, I have no hesitation in urging you to approve this bill on behalf of the city."

One of those present in the room where the hearing was held was Mrs. Mary Goode, who testified before the Aldermanic Investigating Committee. She did not attempt to address the Mayor, although she told those near her that she was in favor of the bill.

SUBWAY JUNCTION NO NEARER FIXING

Hearing Brings Out Nothing Definite, McAneny Urging 33d Street Connection.

LEXINGTON AVENUE FIGHTS

Wants Its Line to Go to Fourteenth St. and Says It Has Spent Money in Anticipation of Extension.

To ascertain the feeling of the public on the exact place at which the new Lexington Avenue subway should make a junction with the present Interborough Park Avenue line, the Public Service Commission held a joint hearing with the transit committee of the Board of Estimate yesterday afternoon. All the Commissioners except Commissioner Cram were present, and with them sat Borough Presidents McAneny, Miller, and Cromwell.

The hearing turned out to be very one-sided. Though the Forty-second Street Subway Association was well represented in the audience, only one of its members expressed its desire for a connection either at Forty-second or at Fortieth Street. Borough President McAneny expressed his own leaning toward the connection at Thirty-third Street, and most of the speakers were there to strengthen him in his view of the situation.

Thus, Jacob A. Cantor, who represents a number of the property owners along Lexington Avenue, began the discussion by laying stress on the fact that the Public Service Commission let a contract for the construction of the Lexington Avenue line from Fortieth to Twenty-sixth Street to the Bradley Construction Company, and that relying on this, as they had every right to do, the property owners began to alter their buildings at considerable expense to meet the new conditions thus to be created.

"But there is a larger way of looking at the situation," Mr. Cantor went on. "There is the great east side above Fourteenth Street to be considered. It is in need of development, and large factories are being built daily. It is improtant that it should have rapid transit."

Mr. Cantor had the idea that if the Lexington Avenue line were continued as far south as Fourteenth Street a connection might be made with the B. R. T. line across the river at that point.

Joseph L. Buttenwieser held the same views, and insisted no matter how many lines were built they would soon become congested.

It was brought out that all that the Bradley Construction Company had done on the contract below Fortieth Street, which has given life to the plan for extending the Lexington Avenue line, amounted to $100,000. Mr. McAneny said that he looked with a good deal of favor on building to Thirty-third Street and putting a station at Lexington Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street.

He compared the estimated cost of building the three different connections. If the real estate for the diagonal station at Forty-second Street could be procured at a reasonable figure, a two-platform station could be constructed there for a little under $7,000,000. The cost of making the connection at Thirty-third or Thirty-second Street would be about $350,000 more or a little more than $7,000,000, and the connection through Fortieth Street, which is the present commission plan, would cost $5,000,000.

Then the question was raised of the continuance of the present service of the Interborough up Park Avenue, across Forty-second Street, and up Broadway, and Alfred Craven, Chief Engineer of the commission, said flatly that the company believed it would be impracticable, as it would limit the service on both the east and west side trunk lines.

Dr. John A. Wyeth appeared in support of the Thirty-third Street plan, and then the views of the Forty-second Street Subway Association were put forward. It believed in either the Forty-second or the Fortieth Street connection, and it was pointed out that the arguments based on the need of the development of Lexington Avenue were fallacious. Fourth Avenue had already been developed and was full of tall buildings below Thirty-fourth Street. That was no reason for depriving it of rapid transit, as it had been developed on the assumption that the present means of communication would continue. If it was necessary to develop the district to the east, it was argued that it could be done by the elevated railroads.

The hearing was then adjourned.

We Have Been Cleaning New York Homes for Years

THERE was a time when coal and ash carts were a familiar sight in our city's streets. They went from door to door delivering coal and collecting ashes. Hucksters of coal and kindling wood were heard calling their wares. In those days coal was carried up from the cellar and the ashes were carried down.

We changed the order of things. Homes were cleaned of coal dust, ashes and kindlings by our taking the hundreds of thousands of tons of coal down to our works, and delivering to your home or factory an ever ready supply of clean gas fuel for cooking, heating and lighting.

Let us handle all the dirt and grime incidental to coal by installing gas appliances for you. We rent GAS RANGES for Three Dollars a year and GAS COOKERS for One Dollar a year. Apply at any Gas Office in Manhattan or the Bronx.

Buying clothes is something like buying coal; you might not think so; but consider it a minute. You pay for your coal for personal use at home, say, $7.50 to $8 a ton. What do you pay for? You expect something more than 2000 pounds of coal; if that's all you buy, you can get it for $2; same kind of a ton.

But you pay three or four times the price for the thing the scales dont show. And if anybody tried to persuade you to pay $10 or $12 a ton for coal, "mined-to-order," you'd laugh at him.

It's a good deal the same with clothes. We advise you to buy ours at $25 or more. You can buy clothes for very much less; you can pay a good deal more to have them "made-to-order." But you'll get real value for your money at $25, $30, $35, $40; you're foolish to pay big prices when these clothes are ready.

We make suits to sell at $18 and $20; ready clothes are best for you.

SWARTZ LAYS BARE TAXICAB GRAFT LEVY

Company's Vice President Shows the List of Pass Holders to Grand Jury.

SENT OUT BOGUS RECEIPTS

Police Inspectors Titus and Dooley and License Chief Wallace Deny Accepting Free Rides.

Vice President and General Manager Harry P. Swartz of the Yellow Taxicab Company went to the Criminal Court Building yesterday to tell to Assistant District Attorney Du Vivier and to the Grand Jury the story of his company's long struggle to dominate the taxicab situation in New York.

In the first place the company had to check out a large portion of the money taken in from the private stand privileges to the hotel corporations and then it had to check out a great deal more in the form of ride-as-you-please passes to hotel managers, assistant managers, proprietors, and the friends of proprietors.

After taking care of all these persons then came the traffic policemen who had frequent birthdays and who could aid or damage Yellow Taxicab traffic very much. In addition to the police there were the Aldermen with friends in need of jobs and retainers in need of patronage that could not be filled in the regular municipal employment.

After all these obstructions had been met and overcome more or less there was the License Bureau with its power to be blind when too many yellow taxicabs were at a private stand and to be very alert when some other company's cabs were stopped where they ought not to be. There was the railroad business, also, which was a problem by itself, and, finally, there was the Board of Aldermen with its plans to abolish private stands altogether and legislate large slices off the profits of the taxicab business in general.

Vice President Swartz carried with him into the Criminal Court Building a list of pass holders. The list bore the remarkable title "One Hundred Per Cent. Free List." Mr. Swartz explained that it was so called because, per cent. off, there were many who rode at 50 per cent. and 25 per cent. off, making it necessary to distinguish. Mr. Swartz, upon leaving the Grand Jury room, said the free riding would amount to $30,000 a year, and that reports placing it at $200,000 were wrong.

An incident of the day's developments was that while the Yellow Taxicab Vice President was explaining how this ride-as-you-please system worked to the Grand Jury, two police Inspectors who were said to have enjoyed immunities from settling with the taxi drivers after rides, were showing receipts to Police Commissioner Waldo to prove that they had really paid for their taxicab rides.

Mr. Swartz, however, threw light on the receipts. He explained that taxicab riders, who enjoyed the privileges of the 100 per cent. free list received as a matter of course each month receipted bills for all their rides. These bills were sent, the taxicab company official said, merely as a matter of form, in order to allow the free rider to check up his rides and see if anyone was abusing his privilege.

"I would be very glad," said Mr. Du Vivier, when informed of this explanation of the policemen, "to have them come down here and tell me under oath that they have paid their bills for charges appearing against them in the loose-leaf ledger account.

The decision of Mr. Waldo to take a hand in the taxicab investigation was arrived at yesterday morning when he learned through the morning papers that the names of Inspector George F. Titus, in charge of the Traffic Squad; Inspector Robert E. Dooley, in charge of the Fifteenth Inspection District, which takes in Coney Island; Capt. Thomas H. Murphy, in command of the Coney Island Police Station, and Capt. William F. Day of the West 152d Street Police Station had figured in the Yellow Taxicab Company's ledged. The Commissioner sent out for the four policemen named.

Inspector Titus, who was the first to call on Mr. Waldo, admitted that he had a charge account with the Yellow Taxicab Company, but said his total rides for four months amounted only to $11.10. This bill he could show, he said, that he had paid. He averaged it up for the period it had been running and found that it amounted to 10 cents a day, which was something to be figured was hardly worth making anybody worry.

Inspector Titus was very positive in his statements that he had never accepted any gratuity from the Yellow Taxicab Company or any other taxicab company.

Chief Wallace of the Bureau of Licenses emphatically denied that he had ever used a taxicab "without paying for its use just like everybody else." He said it was "infamous" to couple his name with the taxicab company ledger.

The Grand Jury became so interested in the testimony given by Mr. Swartz in addition to those who rode at 100 that it had no time to hear other officers and employes of the Yellow Taxicab Company, who had been summoned. They were asked to return this morning to tell their stories.

Other witnesses will be heard this morning by Alderman Grimm's Committee on Taxicabs. They will be asked about free riders, about the employment of political retainers as chauffeurs, and about conferences alleged to have been held in an uptown restaurant. They will also be questioned about any influence hotel proprietors may have exerted to have the private stand situation remain unchanged in any new ordinance reported by the committee.

Alderman Brush of Brooklyn, a member of the minority of Alderman Grimm's Committee, was a caller on Mr. Du Vivier. He said the committee, he felt sure, was through with obstructive tactics and would recommend a taxicab ordinance for consideration at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Tuesday. He said he was confident the ordinance would be unanimously reported, and would probably pass at the meeting a week from Tuesday.

Ex-Alderman John J. Meagher, another caller, submitted a report drawn up while he was a member of the committee named to draft a taxicab ordinance. He said that if an ordinance similar to the Mayor's ordinance passed it would mean that three times as many taxicabs as were now used would be put on the streets and everybody would call taxicabs instead of waiting for street cars.

FOUR MEN BURNED IN JERSEY REFINERY

James Payton, Head of an Installation Crew, Is Expected to Die.

OTHERS INJURED SERIOUSLY

Roof Mysteriously Was Blown Off in Jersey City Castor Oil Factory—Spectators Escape.

Four men were burned severely, one with fatal results, shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the heart of the manufacturing part of Jersey City, when gasoline and naphtha fumes in the refining plant of the Baker Castor Oil Company, at the corner of Bay and Washington Streets, were ignited and caused an explosion, which was felt everywhere in a radius of half a mile. Scores of workmen and girls from nearby factories who gathered about the building narrowly escape being buried under the corrugated iron which had been the roof of the three-story concrete structure.

During the noon hour the streets near the water front are crowded, and many of the employes of the castor oil company take their dinner pails into a yard opening upon the refinery plant. Foreman James Payton, employed by E. Scott & Co., machinery manufacturers, of Fall River, Mass., was directing yesterday a group of workmen who were erecting a new tank and connecting machinery. Payton's firm had sold recently a quantity of new apparatus to the Baker Company. With Payton in the refinery were John Mahon of 402 Ocean Avenue, John Driscoll of 357 Henderson Street, and Edward Brady of 189 Railroad Avenue, all employed by the Baker Company.

At 12:37 there was a deafening roar, and the entire iron roof of the refinery was blown off. Scores of persons narrowly missed being crushed under the heavy pieces of roofing, and the crowd scattered in a panic as a shower of concrete blocks followed the metal.

Then it was seen that flames were coming from the shattered windows. When the firemen arrived the fire had died out as quickly as it had appeared. In the building Payton and his three companions were found unconscious. Payton and Brady had been thrown into the machinery by the explosion, and the flames from gases had burned all their clothing from their bodies with the exception of their heavy leather boots.

As the ambulance from St. Francis's Hospital was on its way to the scene of the accident, the Rev. Father Edward Glennon of Pittsburgh, Penn., was walking along Morgan Street on his way to visit his parents, who reside in Bright Street. The young priest, who had just arrived in town, saw a crowd of excited men and women rushing after the ambulance and learned that there had been an explosion.

Thrusting his suitcase into the hands of a policeman, the athletic young clergyman gave chase to the ambulance and succeeded in overtaking it and clambering on board the rear step. As soon as the physicians had dressed the injuries of the four victims, Father Glennon knelt on the sidewalk and administered the last rites of the Church to Payton and Brady. Father Glennon then boarded the ambulance in which Driscoll was taken away, and assisted the surgeon until they got to the hospital. There the priest heard the bedside confessions of Driscoll and Mahon and administered absolution.

At St. Francis's Hospital Brady died shortly before 7 o'clock last night. It was said later that Payton had recovered consciousness, and that his condition showed a slight improvement. Both Brady and Payton in addition to their severe burns had sustained serious lacerations of the arms, legs, and body.

LOEB FAILS OF ELECTION.

Century Association Committee Says It Was Because of His Views.

It was learned yesterday that Dr. Jacques Loeb of the Rockefeller Institute, one of the leading investigators in biological research in the country, had been proposed for membership in the Century Association and that his name had not been acted upon affirmatively. In a letter addressed to the Committee on Admissions of the Century Association and sent to each of the 1,100 resident and non-resident members by Dr. J. McKeen Cattell of Columbia University, who proposed the name of Dr. Loeb for membership, Dr. Cattell makes the charge that the opposition to the election of Dr. Loeb was due to the fact that the candidate was a Jew.

In the letter Dr. Cattell says that Dr. Loeb himself, as soon as he learned that two members of the association were opposed to his election, had written asking his sponsor to withdraw his name. The Committee on Admissions, which, under the by-laws of the organization, is obliged to consider two negative votes a rejection in the case of any candidate, also suggested to Dr. Cattell to withdraw Dr. Loeb's name, he says, but this he declined to do. The nomination of Dr. Loeb by Dr. Cattell had been seconded by Dr. Simon Flexner and indorsed, among others, by Edmund B. Wilson, T. H. Morgan, Graham Lusk, W. G. MacCullum, Bashford Dean, C. G. Kidder, R. M. Pierce, Philip Sawyer, Charles Baskerville, and Charles H. Strong.

On behalf of the Committee on Admissions it was denied that Dr. Loeb's race or religious faith had any bearing on the opposition to his election to the Century Association. To emphasize this it was pointed out that many of the Century's members were Jews, and that it included such men as Dr. Simon Flexner, Dr. Abraham Jacobi, Dr. Felix Adler, and others less well known. The opposition to Dr. Loeb, it was said, had been based on personal reasons in no way reflecting upon his character but such as seemed to conflict with the requirements of membership in the Century Association. Among these were instanced certain strong predilections for Socialism.

Dr. Loeb, among other important biological discoveries, became famous several years ago by achieving the artificial fertilization of the eggs of a sea-urchin. Since then he has been working on the theory that the artificial creation of protoplasmic life is possible. In his work at the Rockefeller Institute he has been closely associated with Dr. Simon Flexner and Dr. Alexis Carrel.

A Tonic For Your Business—Alco Trucks

Old John Smith has a business his father handed down to him. John is running the business the way the old man did. He has his clerks behind the dusty screen cage in the time-honored but antique office.

His books are kept the way the old man kept them. His salesmen breathe to the customers the old fashioned atmosphere of an old fashioned business. The letterheads are almost a curiosity: they are the vintage of 1880.

Out in the shipping room John's men move about with the lassitude of self-satisfied old gentlemen on a hot summer's afternoon. The men who drive John's horses consume lots of time loading and unloading the wagons. But John says he is satisfied. "Father ran the business this way" he says, "and father was successful."

Since the old man died and the day John took hold, the town has increased in size about 60 per cent. John's business has decreased about 10 per cent. John thinks his horses are all right.

* * *

Across the street is the business house of Henry Cook. Henry and John used to be competitors in business.

There isn't much competition now. Henry is up-to-date—very modern. His office, his salesmen, his books, his goods, all show the mark of progress. He has adding machines, cash registers, corner cutting systems.

Men going back and forth through the offices move with celerity. Out in the shipping room there is hustle.

Backed up to the shipping platform is a row of Alco motor trucks. Each has a quickly removable body. There is an extra body for every truck and while the truck is out making deliveries, the extra body is loaded; and when the truck comes in, the empty body is taken off and the loaded body placed on the truck in less than five minutes. The truck is then off again with scarcely a moment's loss of time. Henry thus eliminates a waste common to many businesses, one which for instance runs up John's cost a great deal. But, of course, John does not know of this, as he has no cost system to inform him.

Henry is doing a nice business now. He has grown with the town. He does about four times the business John does. He covers about four times the business territory John does, because his Alco trucks lead him into new fields which John could not reach by horses. People like to do business with Henry. He is responsive, alert and keeps his delivery promises.

* * *

John Smith and Henry Cook are common almost to every city. John needs a tonic for his business. He could tone up his business immensely if he would purchase Alco trucks and go out and get some of this trade that Henry has so steadily attracted away from him.

Alco trucks are often a remedy. They liven up things. The boys that drive them are smarter, faster workers and they in turn speed up the shipping department.

The shipping boys speed up the office and the office speeds up the salesmen and everybody gets more business. Speed, more speed, is what all the John Smiths need today. They need Alco trucks—a tonic for your business. Let us show you.

Franklin Facts That can't be explained away

WHEN we say baldly that Franklin Balanced Construction saves 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. weight without losing a fraction of safety or reliability, and actually gains in durability—does that interest you?

When we say that Franklin decreased weight (a net saving of 1000 to 1200 lbs. compared with all other cars of equal power and size) has proven in actual contests to add 100 per cent. to tire life and mileage—does that interest you?

When we say Franklin Minimized Weight increases gasoline mileage at least 100 per cent.—does that interest you?

Franklin Bix Six "38," a commodious, luxurious 5-passenger car $3600

The Franklin is a Fact-Backed Car

Franklin designers have produced the most economical car of its class in the world.

Franklin engineers have secured in "Balanced Construction" the needed medicine to reduce up-keep cost. The Franklin motor was reduced in weight. This permitted a lighter frame. They designed and perfected a resilient wood frame of laminated second-growth ash. This absorbs vibrations, and "takes up" the jars and shocks.

If a ball player knocked a home run with a steel bat, he'd wear his arm in a sling in penalty. Therefore the Franklin wood frame, which is lighter but much costlier than steel.

Balanced Construction has insisted on the inclusion of every worth-proven accessory. All six-cylinder Franklins are equipped with the simple, direct and positive Entz Electric Self-starter. Throw a switch and the starter picks up the load directly. A little movement of the gas throttle and the engine cuts in. You cannot stall unless you cut off both gas and starter.

When we say the Franklin is the most responsive, most economical, most luxurious car of its class—what are you going to do about it?

The Fact-Backed Franklin is made as follows:

Franklin Six "38"	$3600
Franklin Little Six "30"	2900
Franklin Four "25"	2000
Franklin "18" Runabout	1650

Time of game—Two hours and one minute.

Johnny Evers began three-days' suspension yesterday for an argument with Umpire Orth on Monday and the Cubs took on a lifeless aspect. They went through the nine innings, as required in the baseball regulations, against the Giants at the Polo Grounds, but from the fourth inning when the Giants went to the front, the old-time fighting spirit of the Cubs was an absent quantity. The Giants, stil thirsting for base hits and runs after an extended fast from both, kept pounding out the bingles and adding runs. The final score was 8 to 2.

Jeff Tesreau's speed must be considered along with the absence of the scrappy Trojan in making the Cubs so tame. The cloudy day was just to the big fellow's liking, and the visitors took no liberties with his service at any part of the engagement. Jeff was guilty of enough wild breaks to cause trouble in a close game, but he was strong in keeping down the hits, so his wildness did not prove costly. Tesreau handed out five passes, and hit one batsman, four of these six lapses coming in the first and ninth innings. Both of the Chicago runs were started with passes. He chased seven of the visitors back to the bench on strikes.

The Giants had another prosperous afternoon in boosting their batting averages, getting a dozen safeties for a total of nineteen bases. They warmed up slowly to Toney's pitching, and then went at the Chicago boxman as they attacked Lew Richie on Monday afternoon. Toney lasted six innings, and then gave way to Ed Reulbach, who teamed up with Roger Bresnahan as his battery mate. Reulbach was an easier proposition than his predecessor, and the Giants picked as many runs and almost as many hits in the last two innings as the first six chapters while Toney occupied the mound.

Tesreau made a poor start when he passed Phelan and Mitchell in the opening frame after fanning Miller, but no damage resulted as Zimmerman fanned and Phelan was thrown out trying to steal third. In the second inning Goode was hit and Bridwell singled with one out, but Archer and Toney were easy outs. With two out in the third Mitchell singled to right, stole second, and got an extra base on Meyers's poor throw, but again Heinie Zimmerman failed to come through with the needed hit.

The Giants had two runners on bases in the first inning, but could not register. In the second they went out quickly, and in the third they began to get after Toney. With one out Shafer singled past first base, reached second on Fletcher's out, and scored on Doyle's smash over Phelan's head.

The Cubs tied up the game in their half of the fourth, but the Giants quickly jumped to the front again, and from that time on the Cubs never threatened. Saier drew a pass, Goode fanned, and Bridwell chased Saier home with a double to left. In the Giants' half Merkle, Herzog, and Meyers singled in succession, filling the bases. Tesreau lined to Phelan and Burns hit a long fly to Miller, scoring Merkle. A pass to Shafer again filled the corners and Fletcher flied to Miller.

Doyle walked in the fifth inning, but was forced by Murray at second. Merkle's long drive to deep right field for three bases scored Murray, but Merkle was out at the plate when Herzog hit to Phelan. Herzog stole second and counted on Meyers's single to left.

The slugfest was continued in the seventh inning when Reulbach succeeded Toney. Bresnahan took Archer's place, and the Giants began to test Roger's wing as soon as they got on base. Doyle singled to right, stole second, and scored on Murray's hit to left, Red taking second on the throw-in. Merkle flied to Miller. Murray stole third, and continued to the plate when Zimmerman failed to cover third base for Reulbach's throw. Herzog walked and stole second, scoring a minute later on Meyers's double to left. Thorpe went in to run for Meyers, and after Jim got to third on a low throw by Zimmerman on Tesreau's grounder, Jeff surprised everybody by stealing second. But there was no more scoring in this inning. In the eighth Fletcher got a triple to right, and scored on Murray's sacrifice fly to left. Merkle followed with another triple, but Herzog ran into his own batted ball for the third out.

The Cubs saw second base but once from the fourth to the ninth inning. Passes to Goode and Bridwell, a fielder's choice, and a single by Miller accounted for the Chicago run which arrived in the last inning.

Fordham Noses Out Wesleyan.

Fordham nosed out Wesleyan in a close game yesterday at Fordham Field by the score of 3 to 2. Two home runs and fast fielding by both teams featured the game. Wesleyan led off in scoring when Davidson's single to left tallied Markthaler in the second inning. The lead was quickly taken from the visitors in the next inning on "Joe" Sharkey's home run drive to deep centre, scoring McErlearn ahead of him. The Maroons' other tally was made by Elliffe in the same inning on a pass from Winchester, a steal of second base, and coming home on Durling's fizzle of McErlearn's hot grounder. Wesleyan scored again in the eighth and threatened to tie up the game in the ninth, when Davidson got to first on an error and was sacrificed to third. Stanley went to bat for Wincnester, but Al. Williams proved equal to the emergency. Summoning all his reserve power, the big Fordham spitballer fanned pinch hitter Stanley and retired Capt. Wright on an easy grounder, finishing the game. The score:

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 13.—Jumping on to the crippled Cleveland team the Yankees took the third game of the series with the Naps by the score of 8 to 5, though the Naps got as many hits as their opponents. It was a sad blow to the local fans, who thought the game was already chalked up on the side of their favorites. The Naps had four runs before the Yanks got a man around, and though the New Yorks managed to make it 3 to 5 at the end of the fifth inning no one thought they could win except Chance and his men, who have seemingly taken on a new lease of life since coming West. But the sudden wild streak developed by Blanding, accompanied with some glaring errors of the Naps, turned the tide, and the seventh inning saw the Yankees come up with a rush that took the Cleveland men off their feet.

With Manager Birmingham on the bench, his right leg in splints, Lajoie idle with a broken hand, and Catcher Land with another injured hand, the Cleveland bench looked like a hospital ward, but Ryan, who played centre, and Turner, who filled Larry's shoes, did excellent work, so there seemed no excuse for a defeat.

The Naps got their first runs in the second inning when, with two out, Olson doubled and scored when Hartzell, retrieving Turner's grounder, threw wild to Chase. Then Jackson tripled, scoring Turner. Two more runs came in the fourth when only fast fielding kept the runs down to two, for Ford did not seem to have anything. Chapman singled and stole. Olson got a single because Stump was too slow. Turner singled, scoring Chapman, but Olsen "died" trying to reach third, Cree's throw being perfect. Jackson singled, scoring Turner. Joe stole, and when Ryan scratched a single Jackson rounded third and was out before he could get back.

The Naps' final run came in the fifth inning after Wolter had kicked himself out of the game and Lelivelt took his place. With two gone Jackson doubled and Ryan singled, netting one run. This ended the Naps' tallies, for after his team had forged ahead Ford was invincible when men were on bases.

The Yanks did not score until the fourth, when Blanding became wild and walked the first two men up. Cree forced Hartzell, but Chase sent Wolter home with a double. Sweeney flied to Ryan, who doubled up Chase at first base.

In the fifth inning, after two men were out, Ford started the fireworks with a double and scored on a double by Daniels. Wolter, with his long single, sent Daniels home, but was thrown out trying to steal.

A double play started by Turner saved Blanding in the sixth inning, but in the seventh came the Naps' Waterloo. To start it off Chapman's low throw saved Sweeney. Midkiff singled to right and Stump's infield hit filled the bases. Blanding expected Olson to stay at third to take the throw for a force out, but found the base unguarded as he started to throw, as Olson had also run in for the tap. Ford walked, forcing in Sweeney. Birmingham signaled Blanding to the bench and Mitchell went in to pitch. Daniels walked, forcing in Midkiff. After a strike had been called on Lelivelt Chance sent Sterrett, a right-handed hitter, to bat for him. Sterrett fanned. Carisch then made a wild throw to catch Daniels off first, and Stump and Ford scored, Daniels taking second. Hartzell fouled to Olsen. Turner threw out Cree and the Yanks had won.

Not satisfied, however, the Yankees took one more run in the eighth, when Chase tripled and Sweeney singled before a man was out.

WOMEN WIELD GOLF CLUBS.

Team A Defeats Team B in Match on Montclair Links.

Women golfers affiliated with clubs in the metropolitan district competed in a team match on the links of the Montclair Golf Club yesterday. The original programme called for another tournament between New Jersey and New York teams, but after the disastrous showing of the New Jersey forces at Oakland last week a new order of things was decided upon, so instead of New York and New Jersey competing the sides were known as A and B. They were chosen with an idea of having the teams well matched, wherever possible, players of like handicaps being pitted against each other. There were seventeen players on a side, and the A team won 21 points to 17, Nassau system.

The only prizes won were first and second awards in a putting competition subsequent to the team match. Mrs. C. W. Rendigs of Deal won with a score of 35 for 18 holes, a stroke better than the total returned by Mrs. F. E. Donohoe, a Montclair woman. The summary:

Boston Nationals Bar Gamblers.

BOSTON, Mass., May 13.—A further step in the campaign to rid baseball of the gambling element among the spectators was taken to-day when admission to the National League grounds was refused all persons whom the management claimed to recognize as gamblers. Managers of the visiting National League teams have declared that there was more open betting at the local diamond than on any other grounds in the league.

Princeton Welcomes Victorious Crew

PRINCETON, N. J., May 13.—A thousand Princeton undergraduates were at the local railroad station early to-day to meet the first train from New York which brought home from Boston the members of the Tigers crew which yesterday defeated Harvard and Pennsylvania on the Charles River. Each oarsman was cheered as he appeared on the station platform. By order of President Hibben, the college bell on Nassau Hall was rung for more than ten minutes after the arrival of the squad. This is the first time the bell has been tolled in honor of a victory since last June, when the Princeton men won the deciding game of their baseball series with Yale.

Yale's English Boat Arrives.

Yale University oarsmen will soon be in possession of a new shell, which arrived yesterday on the Minneapolis, having been shipped to the New Haven University Rowing Association by F. Rough & Sons of Oxford, England, to whom the order for the new craft was given some time ago. The boat was immediately shipped to New Haven, and will be rigged according to the ideas of A. G. Kirby, the Oxford crew coach, who is to act in an advisory capacity for Yale.

It is expected that the new "eight" shell and the introduction of the English stroke as it will be taught by Kirby, will work wonders with the Eli oarsmen.

Harvard Sophomore Crew Wins.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 13.—The Sophomore crew won the annual Harvard class race on the Charles River Basin to-day, thereby earning the right to represent Harvard in the match with the best Yale class crew here next Saturday. The Juniors were second, half a length behind the winners, and the Senior class eight was third, six lengths astern. The time was not announced.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 13.—Lieut. J. H. Ingram, U. S. N., will act as referee of the Cornell-Harvard boat race on Cayuga Lake on May 24, according to announcement to-day of the Cornell University Athletic Association. It was also announced that an observation train consisting of thirty steel cars, with a capacity of 100 each, will follow the races.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 13.—Announcement was made to-night that the Yale crews will leave here for Gales Ferry on May 28 to commence final training for the annual regatta with Harvard on the Thames on June 20. This is a week earlier than the crews left last year.

Columbia vs. Wesleyan To-day.

Columbia's baseball nine enter upon their final home series this afternoon when they play the Wesleyan team on South Field. This game and the contest on Friday afternoon with the New York University nine are the last two games that the Blue and White will play before the two weeks of examination. Two final games will then be played at home. Following their overwhelming victory against the Cornell nine last week, the Columbia team is confident of victory this afternoon, but the game will in all probability be a close one. Smith, the Columbia first-string pitcher, will be sent in to twirl for the home team. The game will be called at 3:30 P. M.

Windward to Sail in West.

The Larchmont Yacht Club has sent a challenge for the Manhasset Bay Cup, now held by the Chicago Yacht Club, in the races on Lake Michigan. Commodore Smithers's club has nominated Windward, the property of R. Monks, and the new P boat that is being built for the Hanan brothers. The yachts will go West in August, shortly after the cruise of the New York Yacht Club. In addition to the Larchmont craft Eastern yachtsmen will be represented by Joyant, the property of W. H. Childs, Indian Habor Yacht Club.

Turf Record for Froglegs.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—Froglegs, a four-year-old colt, broke a world's record for running horses when he ran a mile and twenty yards at Churchill Downs in the third race to-day in 1 minute and 39 seconds. The weight was 107 pounds, and Jockey Peak was in the saddle. The former record was 1:39 3-5, made by Col. Ashmeade, carrying 108 pounds at Chuchill Downs, Oct. 5, 1911. Froglegs is owned by J. W. Schorn and is a son of Masetto out of Frogmore.

REDS AGAIN FALL BEFORE BROOKLYN

Dahlen's Men Enjoy Batting Matinee and Trounce Cincinnati, 9 to 3.

Brooklyn had another batting matinée yesterday at the expense of Cincinnati, and when the smoke of the battle had cleared away the locals had placed another game in the winning column of the National League standing by the score of 9 to 3. Only one inning was required to accomplish the trick. This was the second, when Dahlen's sluggers made seven safe hits and six men trotted over the plate, giving the team sufficient leeway to take matters easy for the remaining innings. But this display did not entirely satisfy the Brooklyn stickmen, and they threw in three more runs in subsequent innings by way of good measure.

Fromme was the object of the Brooklyn's attack, and during his occupancy of the box, which was not quite five innings, he was touched up for eleven hits. His curves were just to the liking of the locals, and he was hit in almost every section of Ebbets Field. With the game past all reasonable hope of recovery, Manager Joe Tinker selected as Fromme's successor a Cincinnati typewriter salesman named Betts, who held the opposing batsmen to one hit and one run during the remainder of the game.

Cincinnati made a sufficient number of hits to win against almost any team except Brooklyn, which is traveling at present at a gait that is surprising their most ardent supporters. The visitors got away to a two run lead, and added a third tally in the second inning. This was as far as they got in the run scoring line, although they continued to make base hits consistently. These, however, came at the wrong time to enable them to add to their score. Allen was in the box for Brooklyn at the start of the game, but when Manager Dahlen sent Erwin in to bat for Allen in the second inning Curtis was substituted. He held the Reds runless during his term of office.

The game marked Johnny Kling's return to the playing ranks as a regular. He had previously acted as sub for Cincinnati catchers, but Tinker thought the former Chicago star ripe for an entire session. In this he made no mistake, as Kling made three hits, one of which was a double, and showed his throwing arm was in shape by nailing three Brooklyn runners trying to pilfer second base. Kling will in future take his regular turn wearing the mask and pad. Manager Tinker also distinguished himself by making his first hit of the series.

The heavy heitting began in the second inning, after Daubert had been retired at first. Smith placed a single in the left pasture. Fisher duplicated the hit. Fromme showed the effects of this treatment by tossing four wild balls to Miller, filling the bases. With a three-run lead facing Brooklyn, Manager Dahlen brought out Erwin to reinforce the batting, which meant the relegation of Allen to the bench. Erwin fell down completely, being called out on strikes. With two out, the prospect was not encouraging. Moran lifted the ball to short left field, which Becker was unable to reach, and Smith and Fisher romped over the plate. Cutshaw was equal to the emergency, and drove a grass cutter in the same direction, sending in Miller.

When Fromme made a wild pitch the runners each moved up a base, and Manager Tinker sent Suggs to warm up. Stengel made a dinky infield hit, but as no one covered first he was safe, and Moran tallied the fourth run. Wheat hit to Berghamer, but the ball made a bad bound and Cutshaw landed home. The Reds' second baseman in his excitement threw wide to the plate, and Stengel was safe at the plate. Daubert made the seventh safe hit, but Wheat overran third and was nailed.

Brooklyn added two runs in the fifth, when Wheat singled, stole second, and scored on Tinker's wild heave to first to nail Smith. The latter finished the circuit on Fisher's triple. The ninth run came in the eighth inning, in which Fisher again hit for three bags and dashed home on Miller's sacrifice fly.

Singles by Bates and Marsans and a triple by Becker were responsible for two runs for Cincinnati in the first inning, and a single by Kling, followed by a two-base hit by Fromme, gave the Reds the third tally in the second inning. The score:

DOUBLES AT WEST SIDE.

Niles Shows Good Form in Match with Little and Hackett.

The first of a series of matches at the West Side Tennis Club grounds to select the doubles team to represent the United States in the Davis Cup match with Australia was played yesterday, but the result did not help the International Committee in reaching a decision. Five sets were played, in which Nathaniel Niles, Gustave F. Touchard, Theodore R. Pell, H. H. Hackett, and R. D. Little took part, with Haggett, the English professional at the club, as a partner of Niles.

Robert L. Wrenn, H. L. Slocum, and George Adee, representing the United States Lawn Tennis Association and the International Committee, were on hand to watch the play. The first match in doubles was between Pell and Touchard and Niles and Haggett. After playing six games of the opening set rain drove the players to cover. The sun followed the rain and the match was resumed, but the courts were heavy and necessitated many new balls to keep the play lively.

Pell and Touchard won the first set from Niles and the professional, 6—3. The latter then struck his gait, and reversed the order and score. The third set was the hardest of the match, but Niles and Haggett always held the upper hand and won, 6—4.

The second match found Little and Hackett partners against Niles and Haggett. The latter were tired from the previous hard contest, but carried the first set to deuce before Little and Hackett won, 7—5. The professional gave a splendid exhibition in the second set and was ably supported by Niles. In spite of the four gruelling sets Niles and Haggett outplayed their opponents and won, 6—4. With the failing light it was decided to end the match with the two sets played.

Of the five amateurs Niles showed the best form, and proved to be further along in the game than the other players, while his condition was excellent. He was almost as strong at the end of his fifth set as he was at the start. There was little to choose between Little and Hackett and Pell and Touchard, the former appearing to tire quickly, while Pell and Touchard showed superior speed and punch.

The teaming of Niles with Walter Merrill Hall is thought to be a strong combination, as they play together and understand each other's movements in the court. Hall has been practicing with Haggett, and has improved his playing appreciably.

The final selection of the American team must be made this week and cabled to England. It is expected that the matches to-day and to-morrow will determine the makeup of the team.

Tennis at Morristown.

The tennis tourney at the Morristown Field Club, Morristown, N. J., yesterday furnished several excellent matches, and more than one surprise enlivened the competition. The easy victory of Miss Dorothy Greene, the Philadelphia player, over Miss Enid Alden in love sets was hardly expected, although Miss Greene had shown excellent form in her previous match. The defeat of Miss Greene and Mrs. R. A. Pope by Miss Edith Handy and Mrs. W. H. Pouch was the surprise of the day. The former pair secured but one game in the two sets, and were outplayed by their opponents. The summary:

Women's Cup Singles.—Miss Gertrude Delatour defeated Miss Margaret Metcalfe by default; Miss Edith Handy defeated Miss Laura Livingston, 6—2, 6—8, 7—5; Miss Clare Cassell defeated Miss Madeline Ashwell, 6—4, 6—2; Miss Ruth Taylor defeated Miss Edith Fanshawe, 6—3, 6—2; Miss Enid Alden defeated Miss Adele Cragin, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3.

Semi-Final Round.—Mrs. Marshall McLain defeated Miss Clare Cassell, 6—0, 8—6; Mrs. R. A. Pope defeated Miss Ruth Taylor, 6—0, 6—1; Miss Dorothy Greene defeated Miss Enid Alden, 6—0, 6—0.

Women's Doubles—First Round.—Miss Jane Rowson and Miss Polly Sheldon defeated Miss Madeline Ashwell and Miss Haslem, 6—1, 6—0; Miss Clare Cassell and Mrs. C. N. Beard defeated Mrs. J. McLain and Miss Ford, 6—2, 6—3; Miss Edna Wildey and Mrs. Miles defeated Miss Majorie Pierson and Miss Adele Cragin, 6—1, 6—0; Miss Gertrude Delatour and Miss A. G. Manvil defeated Miss Edith Fanshawe and partner by default; Miss Laura Livingston and Miss Leslie Hill defeated Miss Madeline Randall and Miss Edith Fanshawe, 6—3, 6—8; Miss Enid Alden and Miss M. C. Beste defeated Mrs. E. C. Smith and Miss Kilpatrick, 6—0, 6—2; Miss Edith Handy and Mrs. W. H. Pouch defeated Miss Dorothy Greene and Mrs. R. A. Pope, 6—0, 6—1; Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Marshall McLain a bye.

Australians Show Speed at Nets.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—The Australian tennis team, which is preparing for the preliminary matches in the Davis Cup series with the American team in New York next month, spent several hours in practice on the Huntingdon Valley Country Club's courts this afternoon. Capt. Doust was paired with Manager Hicks against Rice and Jones, in the first doubles sets, while Hicks and Doust later played Dr. E. B. Dewhurst and Alexander Thayer of Philadelphia. After the doubles practice Rice and Jones played several sets of singles. In none of the matches was anything but the most common shots attempted, and no scores were kept. The Australians, however, showed great speed and have a graceful, easy stroke, with much power behind it.

Amherst and Dartmouth Tennis Tie.

AMHERST, Mass., May 13.—Amherst and Dartmouth tennis teams played to a tie to-day, the result being 3 to 3. Interest centered in the match between Johnston of Amherst and Nelson of Dartmouth, the former winning. Each college won one of the double matches and two of the singles.

COLUMBIA FRESHMEN WIN.

Vanquish De Witt Clinton High School Boys 70 to 29.

De Witt Clinton High School's track team proved to be no match for the Columbia freshmen in the dual meet on South Field yesterday afternoon. The collegians defeated the school boys by a score of 70 to 29, taking first place in every event except the furlong race. The latter proved one of the most exciting contests of the meet. H. Turchin, who was a factor in the schoolboy meet held on the same track last Saturday, carrying off the honors. He led all the way, but E. T. Appleby of the freshmen class ran him a close race and in a final spurt just barely missed nosing out the school boy.

The visitors were weakened by the absence of their star, "Billy" Moore, who won both of the dashes in the Columbia school boys' games last week. M. Gertz shone for the collegians by winning both the mile and the half-mile event in creditable time. B. Randall was responsible for twenty-two of the freshmen's points, winning the two hurdle races and the high jump, getting a tie for first in the pole vault and taking second in the broad jump.

Von Boeckman Wins at Traps.

P. Von Boeckman, one of the best amateur gunners in the country, won the J. F. James medal over the traps of the Bergen Beach Gun Club yesterday. There have been three shoots for the medal, and the best two out of three scores counted for the prize. Von Boeckman finished with a 98 out of a possible 100 targets in yesterday's shoot. It gave him a total of 189 out of 200 targets. The second prize, a medal offered by the club, was captured by Dr. Sauer, who had a grand total of 188 targets. The doctor was the donor of the third prize, which ended in a tie between C. S. Medler and G. S. K. Remsen. The two gunners shot off, and the trophy was captured by Medler.

ENGLISH PONIES AT PIPING ROCK CLUB

Forty-two Mounts for International Polo Unloaded in Good Condition.

The English polo ponies which arrived on the steamship Minneapolis Monday night were unloaded yesterday and conveyed to the Piping Rock Club stables at Locust Valley. These forty-two mounts will represent the equine strength of the English challenging team in the international matches to be played against the American team at Westbury, L. I., on June 10 and 14 for the Westchester Polo Club Cup, which has been held by the United States since 1909, after it had graced the trophy room of the Hurlingham Club since 1886, when it was won at Newport by John Watson's team. Twenty-four of the mounts are owned by the Duke of Westminster, who is financing the British invasion this year. Others in the consignment are owned by Capt. F. M. Freake, Capt. Leslie St. C. Cheape, Capt. R. G. Ritson, who is one of the challenging team; Lord Ashby St. Ledgers, Mr. Shipman, Rivy Grenfell, Capt. Wills, and Major Edgar H. Brassey.

The ponies were in charge of G. W. Naylor, for more than a score of years stud groom for the Duke of Westminster, and who is said to be a past master in the art of conditioning polo ponies. Naylor stated that, although it had been a bit rough on the way across, the horses all arrived in excellent condition. Being unable to give them any exercise he said that his charges would be slightly overweight, but that the surplus flesh would soon be worked off.

After they had passed the Government veterinarian they were loaded on a lighter early in the afternoon and conveyed to Sea Cliff, L. I., from which point they were walked to the Piping Rock Club grounds, which will be the scene of the preliminary practice of the challenging team until just before the championship battles.

Valued at $100,000, the ponies are bonded for $50,000. There was a little delay in their landing, caused by the Custom House rules. Capt. E. D. Miller, D. S. O., who will have absolute charge of the ponies from now until their return to England, was finally enabled to complete all details in connection with their further shipment, with the result that they were on their way to their temporary Long Island home midway during the afternoon, reaching there at 7 o'clock last night.

In order to make certain that the valuable animals would not experience any decided change in the matter of fodder, enough heavy English feed oats, weighing forty-five pounds to the bushel, were brought along to last throughout the homeward journey. Capt. Miller stated yesterday that he did not believe that the ponies would be enervated by the change in climate, and that when they left London nine days ago each was very nearly at the top of his form.

Several of the ponies were making their second trip to this country, among these being Machine, Nutmeg, Tiger, Energy and $4,000 for Pretty Boy a thousand dollars had been refused for Energy and $4,0000 for Pretty Boy a short while after they came into the Duke of Westminster's barn.

The members of the English team are expected to arrive on the Oceanic, which is due this afternoon. They will immediately start for Piping Rock, where they will live at the clubhouse adjacent to the polo grounds.

CROSS WINS BOUT EASILY.

Johnny Dohan Outpointed Throughout Bout at Atlantic Garden.

Leach Cross, the east side boxer, permitted Johnny Dohan of Brooklyn to go the end last night in their ten-round contest, which featured the card of three ten-round bouts at the Atlantic Garden A. C., gaining the honors by the largest possible margin aside from a knockout. In the second ten-rounder Tommy Maloney of the west side was on the losing end of his bout with Dave Kurtz of New Jersey, and in the opening bout Patsy Kline, another Skeeter, made short work of Kid Black a local boy, landing the knockout punch on his jaw early in the third round.

The dentist-pugilist went through the ten rounds with the Brooklynite with little more effort than if he had been training for a stellar contest, and although he worked everything in his boxing reportoire, including his stalling tactics, he never was extended to the limit and practically made his own pace. Cross several times staggered Dohan, who, although completely outgeneraled and outboxed, never flinched and tried to overcome an almost hopeless task.

The Maloney-Kurtz affair was a slugfest from the start. Both boys relied chiefly on terrific swings, some of which met their marks, while a larger number went wild. Maloney made a grandstand finish in the final round, but could not overcome the earlier advantage gained by the Jerseyite.

Polo Match at Westbury a Tie.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., May 13.—The Whites played the Blues at Meadow Brook this afternoon in eight periods of polo, which ended with a score of 8 to 8. Following this three additional periods were played in which Tilney, Webb, and Howard Phipps played in. The game was fast and close from the time the ball was thrown in by Referee H. H. Holmes. W. A. Hazard, who belongs to "the old guard," as well as Robert Bacon and John Cowdin were on opposite sides. Bacon was substituted for Malcolm Stevenson and captured three points for the Whites, the largest number scored by an individual on that side. The line-up and goals scored:

T. Le Boutellier	1	W. R. Grace	2

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1913.

THE MANLY WAY.

Each day brings a fresh and worse justification of the President's declared intention to sign a bill conferring a privilege against prosecution for crime. A trust may be good or bad according to its conduct, but there can be no distinction between good and bad crimes, so that some men may commit some crimes with immunity from prosecution. Prohibition of crime must be universal, or the law must fall into contempt and disuse. There can be no such thing as unimportance in a law regulating conduct, and yet that is the plea published yesterday in depreciation of criticism of the President's signature. It is such a little thing that "labor" asks—a mere exemption from prosecution for a year—and besides there are other ways to prosecute its crimes. So the President will denounce the bill and sign it. That is one way to treat bills of perfidy and dishonor, but there are precedents for saying that signatures of bills of that character are always regrettable and regretted. The first bill of that sort is the beginning rather than the end of the series, which can be killed easily at the beginning, and must be fought harder with each concession.

This bill is not so unimportant as is suggested. It means more than its language, and its language means enough. The bill is a symbol of conflict between those who "place the man above the dollar" and those who place character and conduct above either profit or wages. The quality of the forces arrayed against each other indicates whether or not the bill is important, and whether or not the signature will be forgotten on the ninth day after it is written. On the one side are the unions, perhaps one-tenth of the wage earners, whose moderation and law-abiding character are demonstrated afresh with each strike, and each day now brings another. None of these conspiracies by these organizations not for profit can be prosecuted except by bad faith after the bill is signed. On the other side are the 90 per cent. of wage earners not in the unions, and such representatives of capital as

The Merchants' Association of New York.
The National Association of Manufacturers, representing 200 members.
The Chamber of Commerce of the United States.
The Philadelphia Board of Trade.
The New York Board of Trade and Transportation.
The National Council for Industrial Defense, representing 250 State and local associations and 200,000 members.

Each of these two classes of opponents is known by its works. The latter class has been prosecuted because of its wealth rather than because of its misdeeds. The former class has been exempted because of poverty, and its misconduct has been condoned until it demands that the privilege shall be matter of law instead of personal discretion and favor.

The only possible position to be taken without insult to the law is that both classes shall be prosecuted or neither. It is impossible in a government of law that there shall be two classes of undesirable citizens, one subject to prosecution and the other immune in crime. The man should not be put above the dollar, nor should the dollar be put above the man, but both men and dollars should understand that the law is above both. Labor should have all its rights, and all the sympathy it is entitled to, but it should not have the right to break the law. It has sought this right unceasingly for a generation, and has been defeated invariably. The persistence in the struggle is admission by the unions both that the law applies to them and that they wish to break the law.

That this should be done by virtue of the signature of the President is incredible until it shall happen. It will be a prostitution of the Presidential office, a degradation of the law, and an invitation to dare other encroachments in this manner of a rider which is an offense in itself, regardless of the demerits of the enactment which otherwise would be impossible. The President ought not to sign even a good law in this manner, because it opens the door for the progress of bad measures to the statute book. When a bad proposal comes in a bad manner an instant's hesitation is dangerous, as the President already has learned, and compliance is fatal to future resistance. How much more respected would the President be, how much stronger with the country, if he should veto the bill like a man, as Mr. Taft did.

THE POLICE AND THE BARBERS.

Small and comparatively unimportant as the barbers' strike has been thus far, it has resulted in mob violence. There is rarely any other kind of violence in strikes. When a stone is thrown through a window it comes from a group of men assembled in defiance of law. No one man will ever smash a window or assault a workman who refuses to join a strike. It is against the law for mobs to form in the street, and parades without license are illegal. The police have neglected an easily performed duty in regard to the striking barbers, and they are likely to have a great deal of much harder work on their hands in consequence.

It is easier for the police to prevent the gathering of mobs than to disperse them after they have gathered, and discover who in the crowd threw the bricks. Whenever there is a strike accompanied by threats of violence groups of idle men should be compelled to "move on." One man, or two or three together, will do no harm. The coward in the middle of the crowd, who feels safe from detection, throws the missile that breaks the window. He frequently escapes arrest, too. When a strike has reached the mob-forming stage it is dangerous, and if the assembling of mobs is to be permitted, through mistaken leniency, there is no guessing what may not happen.

THE RIGHT TO DISPOSE OF PROPERTY BY WILL.

When Vice President Marshall in his recent allocution to "backward-looking men" warned the rich and the heedless that "the right to inherit and "the right to devise are neither inherent nor Constitutional, but, upon the "contrary, they are simply privileges "given by the State to its citizens," he could hardly have supposed that his words would win the high compliment of an examination by a jurist so serious, so learned, and so accomplished as Surrogate Fowler of this county. If Mr. Marshall had had the least idea that he was talking to men who know more about his subject than he knows about it, he would, we are sure, have been more careful.

In an opinion handed down by Surrogate Fowler on Monday—he made no reference to the Vice President, he was simply deciding a will case—he compressed into a brief paragraph a great deal of information about the testamentary right, which, although it was printed in The Times of yesterday, we here reproduce for the benefit of Mr. Marshall and of others wandering in darkness:

> The question, Whether inheritance is an inherent right or a grant from public society, has been already considered by such great jurists as Theophilus, Cicero, Grotius, Vinnius, Cojas, Puffendorf, Bynkerschoek, Leibnitz, Doneau, Lord Mansfield, Montesquieu, Merlin, Toullier, Proudhon, and other equally great jurists and philosophers of all times and places, and the best thought of the world at the present time is generally conceded to be expressed by the conclusion that the right to dispose of property after death is a natural and inherent right of mankind which cannot be taken away by the State. It is said by one of the greatest of the world's jurists, Troplong, that no country is entitled to be regarded as free where a right to dispose of property by will does not exist. In France, the very question was a hundred years since a pressing political question, and the literature of the discussion is exhaustive, engrossing, and competent. It was solemnly determined in France in favor of the natural right of an owner to dispose of property by will. It was in point of fact held to be independent of the State. By the Italian jurists property is held to be freedom itself, and the German jurist Gareis states that the modern effort to restrict inheritance by will endangers property and the very civilization attained by means of the law of inheritance.

Directly and unequivocally this controverts the Vice President's strange assertion that the right to inherit and the right to devise are "simply privileges given by the State." If authority counts for anything in such matters, Mr. Marshall is wrong, he is very wrong. Indeed, the impact of the Vice President upon the group of great authorities cited by Judge Fowler has consequences most damaging to his reputation as a lawyer. Still, while it cannot for a moment be doubted that the Surrogate is right in the view he expresses, there is some reason to fear that the Vice President may be not far wrong, not at all as to the origin of the right to make a will, but as to the possibility that if he and others go on talking in this wild way, the consequences he predicts may ensue. That is, if demagogic teaching and preaching are kept up long enough, the people may be moved to take away not merely statutory rights, but natural rights as well, and for no cause save their desire to pull down and "equalize." The platforms of the Socialists and of the Progressives come very near to the assertion and intended application of policies that would accomplish the results indicated by Mr. Marshall. With Anglo-Saxon peoples respect for law is inbred. The teachers of this new doctrine seek to inculcate disrespect for law. The law is no longer to be of equal application, but exceptions are to be made for the benefit of the favored, of those who are clamorous and have votes.

Out of the remote past there comes with fine timeliness a possible explanation. In the Freer manuscript of the Gospels, of which an account is given in our Marconi dispatches from London yesterday, there is found a passage belonging to the Gospel of St. Mark, which, although it was known to St. Jerome, has been missing since the days of the early Church. We quote from the text:

> And they excused themselves, saying that this age of lawlessness and unbelief is under Satan, who through the agency of unclean spirits suffers not the true power of God to be apprehended.

THE ALASKA RAILWAY.

The opportunity has been taken while the Alaska investigation is proceeding to introduce in Congress a bill appropriating $35,000,000 for a Government railway. The witnesses connected with the private railways, or rather beginnings of railways, declare their readiness to extend them if only they are allowed to proceed under conditions compatible with solvency, but they testify in vain. If they are allowed to extend their roads there would be no such double benefit as the expenditure of the $35,000,000 and the ruin of the private enterprises. One witness had the assurance to testify yesterday that his road would be extended to the coal fields if only the Navy Department would develop them. To use coal fields as a lure to railway builders is a sheer waste of good political ammunition.

The real object of the current investigation is not so well known as it ought to be. By slow degrees it is leading up to the disclosure of the real mystery of the panic of 1907. The real reason for the construction of the Copper River Railway was not railroading. It was intended to bring the glaciers within reach of the New York market, and so break Morse's ice trust in order that the United States Steel Corporation might acquire the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

In the rear subcellar there is another even more damning mystery awaiting disclosure of what is well known to an even smaller number of malefactors. After the Alaskan glaciers had smashed the ice trust the intention was to stop the Alaskan supply and raise the price so that the steel trust could run its blast furnaces with the ill-gotten profits and put the American Federation of Labor out of business by raising wages above any dream of Gompers. These disclosures may come any day, and the Alaskan investigation which is now running under single-line heads on the inside pages will then fill the first pages under double-column scare heads. There has been nothing like it since the escape of the animals at Central Park, or the moon hoax.

ETHICS AND ECONOMICS.

Dr. Adler, in his address upon the thirty-sixth anniversary of the Society for Ethical Culture, drew a sharp line in the right place between morality for the sake of morals and morality for the sake of material advantage. There is a strong ethical movement in our times, and it is wholly and only admirable when it confines itself to its suitable subjects, such as the readjustment of the relations of the sexes, international justice as the basis of universal peace, the attainment of the ends of democracy, and other perennial and eternal problems. But it is otherwise with politics for profit:

> When the increase of material abundance for all is the prominent object, eclipsing for the time being the ulterior objects, the result will be the encouragement among the multitude of a crass materialism, which will not be the less unwholesome in its effects because it is destined not to be satisfied.

Dr. Adler specified only the propaganda of the Industrial Workers of the World as illustrating that the tendency of a material basis of an alleged moral movement is toward degeneration into violence and immorality. The I. W. W. uses many catchwords adapted to entice and deceive the unwary, upon whom the shocking cry "No God, no master," falls like a cold douche. "The Church is against us," cries Haywood:

> In Paterson a minister is at the head of a vigilance committee opposed to us. He has a revolver in one hand and a Bible in the other. Two ministers in Lawrence, Mass., did the same thing. That's why I say that we want no "God and no master."

The reason is that given by Dr. Adler. When morals and economics are mixed each loses something, and the mixture is true to neither brand. A command that somebody else shall raise wages to prevent immorality and distress is not entitled to respect as sound morals or economics. The present point is that the morals are as bad as the economics. A movement which is sordid and selfish cannot be ethical or moral, and if it were moral it could not succeed because of its faulty economics. The economic remedy for immorality is to make the worker worth a wage which will sustain a moral life. The moral remedy for an uneconomic wage is an elevation of the standard of the employer to decline the profit from grinding the poor. The maudlin sympathy which covers false reasoning as well as false morality should be treated more generally in Dr. Adler's manner.

THE TAXICAB SITUATION.

Out of the confusion of investigations, charges, and counter-charges the citizens of New York may at length secure an efficient and inexpensive taxicab service. Whether the uncollected fares of the taxicab companies' deadheads in official life amount to $200,000 or only $30,000 yearly, the evidence is sufficient to indicate that the public could have a cheaper and better cab service with no loss to the companies if there were no deadheads. And we may be reasonably sure that there will be no free rides in the future.

The Aldermanic committee proposes a rate of 50 cents for the first mile and 40 cents for each succeding mile for one or two persons. This is all that could be asked for in the way of moderating taxicab charges on Manhattan Island. Within its narrow compass, with the long stretches northward and southward, we cannot expect London or Paris cab fares. There are a very few taxicabs now that charge no more than the proposed rate, but there are too many for which much higher rates are charged, and the hire of which can never be accurately estimated beforehand, or squared with the passenger's sure knowledge of the distance he has traveled. Relieved of pecuniary burdens they ought never to have taken up, the taxicab owners ought to find good profits in the proposed new rates; and when the rates are adopted they should be compelled to stick to them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Hardly Was a Case of Failure.

In the making of headlines, for reasons not very easily appreciable outside of newspaper offices, words are sometimes used for other reasons than because they best express the intended meaning. Among these reasons is that, when pressed for time, as he often is, the headline maker cannot think of a word exactly right; another that the word he can think of and wants to use is too long for the allotted space; a third, closely related to the second, that no one word will precisely express the purposed meaning and for the needed phrase there isn't room.

All of these reasons, it will be observed, are explanations rather than excuses for inaccuracy, and whoever will can construe their presentation as a proffer of regret for having announced the "failure" of co-education in the Horace Mann School.

As a matter of fact co-education has not "failed" there, for under it the school has been and is one of the most successful teaching institutions in the world and a recognized glory of the city.

What happened was that those responsible for the school's welfare decided after careful consideration that, owing in large part to the special needs and conveniences of these particular boys and girls, their separation, though in some ways regrettable, would in others, on the whole preponderating, be desirable and in their opinion make probable the attainment of a still greater success. That, it will be observed, is not a failure of co-education as a general principle or policy, but an assertion of the belief, by men with every competency to speak, that for the Horace Mann School segregation of the sexes was better than their aggregation.

It is very far from being a denial that co-education is always disadvantageous. That is, indeed, a common opinion among educators—probably is held by a majority of them—but many others, not without authority or the support of experience, hold, not, of course, that co-education is always to be commended, but that in casting up the account the credit balance is usually in favor of harmonizing school with life instead of making the two utterly different. When a large number of women are to share the work of men, it does seem that they would profit from sharing, as girls, the training of the boys who are to enter the same occupations, industrial or professional.

Disclosed Nothing Scandalous.

Other investigations than of official grafting are going on in the world, these days, and though less sensational are perhaps not less important. They even have a certain interest. That is possessed, for instance, by a careful and intimate investigation which certain scientists have recently been making into the character, as distinguished from the reputation, of that highly popular and much respected vegetable, asparagus.

The verdict is that this relative of the garlic, leek, and onion—all of which, like itself, are lilies—is an innocent and amiable herb. As nutriment, however, it is about as near to nothing at all as anything edible can be. The raw stalks are, indeed, composed to about the extent of a tenth of solid matter, including sugars, gums, proteins, and assorted phosphatic salts, but 70 per cent. of this tenth is soluble in hot water, and in the ordinary process of cooking most of it is lost. Anybody who tried to live on asparagus exclusively would starve to death about as soon as if deprived of everything except water.

That is by no means proof that the vegetable is not worth eating, even at its usually rather high price. It adds a welcome, and therefore beneficial, variety to diet, and as an adjunct or condiment for meals is, like many other comestible favorites equally innutritious, of unquestionable assistance to the digestion of more sustaining viands.

In common with its relatives, asparagus contains a trace of sulphur combined in the form of an oil, and it appears that when stalks of it are left in cold water for a few days they develop, not the peculiar asparagus odor, but the more vigorous emanation of the vulgar though virtuous onion. Of the two varieties of asparagus, these authorities declare the green to be by far the richer in soluble content than the white, and to have less of indigestible fibre. The latter quality is not necessarily a fault. Among the special constituents of asparagus are asparagin, which has diuretic properties, and a more mysterious basic substance, vitamine.

The scientists, obviously, have come to about the same conclusions, differently expressed, as we common folk have, with regard to this vegetable—it's an agreeable side dish, an addition to food rather than food. There is no reason why it should be expensive, except that its culture is a little different from that of other garden truck. A bed, once started, with proper care remains productive for many years.

Going to the Root of an Evil.

Two bills relative to weights and measures that are now in the Governor's hands seem to be worthy of his approval and signature. One of them provides for the regular testing and marking of the track scales used by railways in estimating freight charges on carload lots of merchandise, and provides the State Superintendent with test cars with which to do this work. The other, of more general interest because coming closer home to all of us, will do away, if it becomes a law, with the obvious absurdity of punishing a few dealers caught cheating by the use of false weights and measures, but making no effort to penalize the manufacture and sale of devices by means of which this most despicable form of swindling is carried out.

In other words, the evil is attacked in the bud, instead of in the blossom.

There are scales, for instance, that are almost openly offered as implements with which a secret and dishonest profit can be made. This assisting and promoting of fraud it is proposed to stop by denying access to the market of weighing and measuring devices that have not first received official approval and been marked as at least potentially honest.

Of course this would not stop all cheating—nothing except the arrival of the millennium will do that—but it will give no little protection to the public and be of assistance to honest manufacturers and tradesmen by relieving them of some dishonest competition.

CENSORSHIP OF PICTURES.

Publishers of "September Morning" Criticise Mr. Comstock.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The people at large as well as the critics and patrons of art are naturally interested in the recent action of Mr. Anthony Comstock in ordering removed from a New York dealer's window a copy of Paul Chabas's beautiful picture, "September Morning."

The same thing recently occurred in Chicago, where the Police Censor ordered Jackson & Semmelmeyer to remove one of the reproductions of this picture from their window. The firm refused to obey and a lawsuit followed, in which, by a unanimous vote, the jury declared the picture not only artistic in the highest sense of that term, but also perfectly proper for public display.

No sensible person objects to a proper censorship of pictures, but both the publishers and the public would like to know just where Mr. Comstock's authority begins and ceases. Our customers have often complained that he has insisted upon the removal from view of copies of pictures, the originals of which hang to-day in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the present subject of discussion is the picture which received the gold medal, the highest possible award, at the Paris Salon, in 1912. There must be some point where Mr. Comstock's personal opinion would touch the region of absurdity, and it looks as if this had been reached in the present case of Paul Chabas's beautiful creation.

As publishers of this picture, and with a reputation to sustain before the public, we hope to see a legal test made now of Mr. Comstock's omniscience in these matters.

Many pictures, generally considered harmless, illustrate and convey a meaning that is absolutely immoral, while certain half-veiled figures may do a thousandfold more moral damage than the full exposure of God-given beauty modestly posed. The lack of mystery disarms the devil, and the wisest conservator of public morals is he who fully understands these things and has intelligent convictions regarding them.

COL ROOSEVELT CORRECTED.

Republicans Did Not Bind Minority on Direct Primaries by Caucus.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the course of his letter to Dean Kirchwey as Chairman of the Progressive Dinner Committee, Mr. Roosevelt says: "Each of the old parties has caucused in the Legislature to defeat the solemn pledge of its pre-election platform." The Republican platform adopted at Saratoga in 1912 says:

> We favor the short ballot, surrounding the primary elections with the same safeguards as regular elections, the direct election of party committees, the direct nomination of party candidates in Congressional, Senatorial, Assembly, County, and municipal sub-divisions, and the direct election of delegates to State Conventions, with the right of party electors to directly express their preference for nominations for State offices, if they so desire.

Mr. Roosevelt was doubtless misled by the several times repeated statement of Gov. Sulzer that the Republicans in the Legislature caucused against his bill. No caucus was held by the Republicans, but as a matter of fact they held a conference and issued a statement of the sentiment of the majority. The minority were not bound by it, and Assemblyman Vert of Clinton County, who voted for the Governor's bill, called attention to this in explaining his vote on the floor of the Assembly.

This does not, however, excuse the statement of Mr. Roosevelt that the Republicans have been false to their platform. It is possible that Mr. Roosevelt did not read the Republican platform, and therefore did not make a mis-statement that was deliberate.

Alien Land Law Justified?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When Mr. Andrew Carnegie bought a large plot of ground on upper Fifth Avenue, and erected his homestead on a portion of it, he declined to sell any part of the rest of his land, except to people he desired as neighbors.

The right of the iron master so to act has never been questioned; no treaties compelled him to dispose of his land to the men of wealth who coveted the whole or any part.

Why should the people of California, who object to Asiatic races, not enjoy a similar privilege?

A Lawless Law.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I believe that the President in taking office solemnly pledges himself to enforce the law. What, then, shall be said of an appropriation bill which, in effect, directs the President to violate this pledge?

THE MILITANT "ANTIS."

Rheta Childe Dorr Warns Country to Beware of Their Violence.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When I was a child I was taught that it was very naughty to laugh in church, but I am afraid that I should have laughed had I attended services in Trinity Church last Sunday. The Daughters of the American Revolution, 200 strong, were present as special guests, and a sermon for their benefit was preached by one of the clergymen of the parish. In his sermon the clergyman most earnestly warned his lady guests against aggressive behavior, begged them never to allow their actions to be guided by "hysteria, or what has come to be known as militancy."

The good man may have been moved by a shuddering reminiscence of the last D. A. R. election, but, although most of the D. A. R.'s are said to be antis, The Times reporter seemed to think they were being warned against militant suffragism. There was nothing laughable about the sermon, but after it was preached and apparently approved, all hands adjourned to the churchyard and reverently decorated the graves of some of the best militants the country ever produced, Revolutionary soldiers. They piled flowers on the tomb of Alexander Hamilton, a detestable person, in some ways, but a man who not only was a good revolutionist, but who fought duels and died in his last one. The largest wreath of all was placed on the monument to the men who died in an involuntary hunger strike while prisoners for the cause.

Now, Mr. Editor, as Mrs. Arthur Dodge says, the suffrage, or, anyhow, militancy, has ceased to be a joke; it has reached the stage of a menace. The only question is, Who is doing the menacing? I am frank to claim that it is the antis themselves. They may pretend to believe that the only good militant is a dead militant. But who was it, after the Washington incident, braved public opinion, standing alone to defend the hooligans who struck and spat on women marchers? The anti. Who is it now being publicly quoted in praise of prurient men who tried desperately to see something improper in the parade of May 3? Again the anti.

None of my names is Cassandra, but I advise the men of this country to keep their eyes on the antis. They only talk militancy now, and demonstrate their faith by decorating the tombs of men fighters. But when the referendum of 1915 goes to the voters of New York, look out. The antis know that New York's example will be followed by many States, and do you think they are going to let the amendment pass without a struggle? Not much. The antis so far have only defended militancy, but I am appalled at the prospect ahead of us, when, peaceful methods having failed, the determined women in Thirty-ninth Street bring their hammers into the open.

AMERICANS BY PREFERENCE.

Citizens of German Parentage Have Adopted Our Ideals.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Writing as an American of German parentage (I repudiate the designation German-American) I am certain that The Times is correct in its inference that those of such birth do not look askance at the motives of the celebration of the century of peace between the United States and Great Britain. It is a demonstration solely between two nations of common speech and customs, and no feeling is entertained or can be kindled against Germany by the ceremonies. A canvass of such descendants I am confident would reveal us as intensely American, grateful for the birthright, caring little for the German Government, but much, as all must, for its people, but perhaps not in parity with those of Great Britain, and for the following reasons:

We recognize that what is now Germany for centuries of time comprised a miscellaneous and jealous lot of autocratic kingdoms and petty dukedoms, long after the English people by dogged persistence in struggle achieved civil and religious freedom strengthened by a liberal constitution.

Most of us are progeny of poor emigrants who were restricted in educational advantages through the necessity of early labor and the inadequacy of opportunity by reason of the poverty of the Governments or well formulated measures.

We acquired from our parents a so-called German speech, largely dialectal, contracted in vocabulary to almost mere physical wants, and varying much in pronunciation among those from different sections of Prussia and Germany. This we discovered in our middle 'teens from textbooks and intercourse with educated Germans. German history was not interesting because it recorded little cohesion in action of the people until the foundation of the present empire. English became preferably our language for practical use, and many of us paused at the attempt to acquire enlarged knowledge of German from rudimentary principles. We know that Germany has furnished many men distinguished in various fields of intellectual effort, but they are not as facile in comprehension to us as those equally great of British birth, whose language is fully ours, or readily made so by recourse to the authorities at our elbows. Hence we claim as ours Shakespeare, Milton, and other illustrious producers in our own vernacular rather than the originals or translations of Schiller, Goethe, and other German writers.

Our sires slavishly fought for centuries for causes which they did not comprehend and for which they could have no interest, and hence those of German descent in this country have adopted as forefathers those who signed and fought for the Declaration principles, and who framed the Constitution for our liberties. We are proud to be of the same birth as Washington, Lincoln, and a long list on the scroll of notable Americans. These were mainly those of descent from the British Isles, and toward which I am confident the majority of the Americans born of German parentage entertain more interest than for Germany as a Government of a great people.

The Hair Goods Business.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an article in The Sunday Times, headed "When the Country Cousin Sent Her Hair to New York," there are two points which, in my opinion, are not correct.

The impression is given that Fifth Avenue establishments which are engaged in the hair business are more expensive than other places. This holds no more true than the presumption that The Times, which is now occupying one of the most expensive locations in the city for the publishing of its newspaper, will necessarily charge more for the newspaper than others less advantageously situated. Yet The Times gives more for one cent than any other paper in the city. The same thing regarding the business in hair goods, or, in fact, any other business. Location at any price is cheap provided it is one where sufficient patronage can be obtained.

The next point is that "combings," which this article refers to as the most desirable of all hair, has neither that grand, glorious sheen which the writer of the article harps upon, nor any other attraction. It is very inferior hair; in fact, it is dead hair that is combed out of the head, otherwise it would not be "combings," and I wish to assure you that no hair-dressing establishment, no matter how small, would desire to take anybody's "combings."

INCOME TAX BILL'S SHORTCOMINGS.

Framer of the Bill Replies to Victor Morawetz—More Complicated Measure, He Says, Works Well in England.

By CORDELL HULL,
Representative from Tennessee and Author of the Income Tax Bill.

I have read the statement of Mr. Victor Morawetz in The New York Times of May 8, in which this very able lawyer undertakes to allege and point out certain serious defects in the pending income tax measure. I have great respect for his legal ability, and, but for the fact that the serious errors into which he himself falls in his effort to expose errors in the bill are patent, I should hesitate to take issue with him upon any question of law.

The first serious defect he alleges is the difficulty of "taxing individuals at the source of the income and at the same time exempting $4,000 of the income of each individual and allowing certain deductions, to ascertain what constitutes taxable net income." The plain answer to this is that a lower exemption than $4,000 would embrace more taxpayers and hence more complications, and yet England, with only $800 exemption, collects at the source satisfactorily in the same manner this bill proposes.

Again, the more numerous the deductions the more complicated the administration of the law; yet England allows more deductions than this bill and, while collecting at the source, administers the law satisfactorily. In addition to all the exemptions and deductions which this measure allows, England allows exemptions and deductions to individual stockholders in corporations with respect to their dividends (which this bill does not,) and also allows abatements to all taxpayers whose income is over $800 and under $3,500 (which this bill does not.) Under this latter provision alone more than 700,000 people annually file claims for abatements and exemptions by reason of the amount of the income, and the Government refunds more than $8,000,000 taxes under such claims.

Every argument Mr. Morawetz offers applies with far stronger force against the administration of the law in England; yet, despite such arguments, often made over there, the law has been successfully administered and developed until to-day it raises $200,000,000 revenue and was recently pronounced by an able Parliamentary Commission to be as satisfactory in its operation and effect as any other tax law.

His objection numbered (a) is not well founded. He expresses the belief that small holders of corporate bonds may not be able to secure the benefit of their exemption and deductions; in the first place, they would constitute a very minor portion of those affected by the tax and an inconsequential portion of the sources of the tax. These small holders, in fact, may have either of three express remedies by which to secure both their exemption of $4,000 and their deductions allowed in computing income, viz.: First, if such taxpayer has taxable income from other sources which exceeds the amount of his exemption and deductions, these would come off that part of his income in connection with a personal return; second, he is given the fullest right to file claim for all deductions with the collector where his chief income is returned for him, or, third, if he should desire, he may file such claim with the person who is to make return for him, but the latter is purely optional.

As to the exemption of $4,000 in the last two cases, the taxpayer may file verified claim with the person who withholds his tax and makes return for him, to the end that when he has more than one source of taxable income only one person withholding his tax could allow for this exemption; or, if the taxpayer fails, or prefers not, to do this, he may later fill out a blank application for refund of this $40 tax, just as 700,000 Englishmen do with respect to their abatements alone. Finally the taxpayer, in all cases, is given the remedies of our entire internal revenue laws for abatement of assessments or refund of taxes. These remedies are more numerous and better workable than those in England. Notwithstanding this fact and the further fact that we have about $28,000,000,000 of corporate bonds this critic would in the name of the small holder abandon all effort to tax the interest except by a more complicated and unfair method.

Objection (b) relates to coupon bonds. The bill, like the law of England, contains the only direct, effective, and sure method of securing the tax to the Government in such cases, and that is payment by the debtor corporation. The taxpayer may have the three express remedies and the general remedy above mentioned. But the critic fears that an individual may not have the time to file these single claims by Jan. 29, and yet some of the greatest corporations send to hundreds of their agencies throughout the world and assemble all the facts as to their total profits, deductions, &c., and make complete return by March 1. This is not an objection to withholding the tax at the source, but against the time limit.

Objection (c) supposes that 500,000 individuals hold bonds of two different corporations, and that a million returns might have to be made to get the exemptions and deductions. This is entirely a groundless view. The taxpayer would invoke whichever of these remedies heretofore pointed out that he might find most convenient and desirable. The critic seemingly tried to ignore the patent provision of the bill which allows application for all deductions to be made to the district collector where his tax is withheld at the source. This privilege is allowed to every individual taxpayer in every single case, and any suggestion that such taxpayer is required in any instance to disclose his affairs to any person other than a Government tax official, except at his option, is not supported by a vestige of fact.

Objection (d) is of no practical weight. Corporations owning and holding bonds of other corporations would, as is done in England both by individuals and corporations where deductions or exemptions are allowed, present their coupons to the debtor corporations with a verified statement that the coupons relate to bonds which are the property and are in the possession of such corporation, and it would thereupon receive interest payments in full.

Objection (e) is really no objection at all. The bill imposes the tax upon the individual holders of corporate bonds and merely requires the debtor corporation to withhold and turn over to the Government for such individual holder the amount of tax due on the interest payable to him. If the corporation enters into a private agreement with the individual holder to pay his tax gratis, this is of no concern to the Government. They can settle that among themselves. I repeat, the Government imposes this tax alone upon the individual bondholder. For the Government to allow a taxpayer to pay another's taxes and then to deduct the same before paying its own would simply be exempting a large amount of income (interest on bonds in this case) from taxation.

Objection (f) is of no serious consequence. It relates to a provision of the English law inserted in this bill for the sole purpose of reaching income of a taxable person in this country which is derived from interest upon bonds or dividends of foreign corporations doing business abroad and payable abroad. This provision at once reached about $8,000,000 of taxable income in England that had hitherto escaped. Since it operates successfully there, why will it not do so here?

The proposed remedies or plan of Mr. Morawetz offer far more "ambiguities, complexities, omissions, and inaccuracies" than the pending measure, with two very striking exceptions, viz.: He makes two purposes clear. The first discloses a veiled plan to get holding corporations from under the tax this bill imposes in lieu of their exemption in effect under existing law. His second purpose would appear to be to, if possible, free all corporations having in their bonds guarantees to the holders against taxation from the effects of such contracts. Without intending to do him injustice, I conceive these two purposes to have been the moving cause of his entire criticism of the bill. And to do so he would deprive individual taxpayers holding bonds of both their exemption and deductions.

Some of the inconsistencies of his criticism and substitute plan are that he would collect at the source, although he strongly condemns the idea of doing so under the bill with a $4,000 exemption. Again, he states that the expense to individuals in securing deductions in certain cases would make their efforts prohibitive, and yet further on he states that corporations seeking their benefit would induce individuals to prosecute such claims. It is plain that corporations could procure no such substitute benefits as he refers to under the bill.

Even if they could do so, why would an individual prosecute a claim for deduction for a corporation more quickly than for himself? Mr. Morawetz suggests, "it [under the pending bill] would be to the interest of the debtor corporation to cause their coupons representing interest due on its bonds to be presented for payment by corporations rather than by individuals, because in every such case the debtor corporation would be relieved from the payment of the tax, &c."

The fallacy of this is that if another corporation should present such coupons to the debtor corporation and receive the interest, it would be required, as it now is, to pay tax on its income so received, and I fancy one corporation would not thus seek to relieve a debtor corporation from the tax only to pay the tax itself. The tax, under the bill, must be withheld by the debtor corporation even though the coupons are presented by another corporation, unless the latter owns the bonds in question.

Other statements are equally irreconcilable.

The corporations have been for five years subject to a law that taxes their net profits 1 per cent. per annum. This law is now to be extended in effect to the net profits of individuals derived from all other sources. Knowing these conditions, it is left to taxpayers to conduct their affairs as they may see fit. If a corporation desires to agree to pay the taxes of certain individuals, that is its own affair; or if it desires to so organize its business and constitute its property ownership with respect to common and preferred stock as to give some individual owners and taxpayers some advantage over others of its owners, as to the normal tax, that likewise is its own affair.

The suggestion that all individuals whose incomes exceed $20,000, including that portion derived from the dividends of corporations, are not subject to the additional tax of 1 per cent., 2 per cent., and 3 per cent. is erroneous in toto, and affords but another ground for the conclusion that Mr. Morawetz must have made a hurried examination of this bill. The pending measure has been submitted to some of the best expert accountants in the country and to Treasury officials—both of whom are well versed in the operation of the present corporation tax law and former income tax laws—and each has pronounced the measure entirely practical and workable. I have no doubt as to its successful administration.

Elevated Road Noise.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The noise of the elevated road trains on Sixth Avenue has become unbearable, now that doors and windows must be kept open with warmer weather. It is hard to hear one's own voice as a train goes by. Tradesmen must suspend conversations with customers until the train has passed. Time and money are thus lost.

What can be done to get relief from this noise? Is it too much to hope that the Manhattan Elevated Company will itself give us a practically noiseless road, or must the people make the matter a political issue and force the company to act against its own will?

The Barber's Long Hours.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

All barbers have to work from thirteen to fifteen hours a day, including nearly all holidays, and Sunday mornings until 1 o'clock. We would be very thankful if a bill were passed making ten hours a full day's work, so that we could be home with our families.

Any fair-minded person will agree with me that if shops were open from 8 A. M. until 7 P. M. every one could be waited on in that time. The few that come later than that simply want to kill time.

MUTUAL SATISFACTION.

At last our wee cottage is taken;
Yes, rented, though for a mere song.
We're pleased with the looks of our tenants,
And hope they'll remain with us long.

The father's industrious, quiet,
The mother is dainty and trim.
We guess she's no suffragist lady—
She's ever deferring to him!

And yet she it was who decided
Our cute little dwelling to take;
Since then she's content with her duties,
In seeking a home-nest to make.

We feel they'll prove neat, thrifty, peaceful,
Our property treat as their own—
Not cheating us out of our rent dues,
Like some canny tenants we've known.

Perchance they'll take toll from our garden,
When cherries and berries mature,
The Wrens, domiciled in our bird-house—
Well, we'll not object, that is sure.

CONTEST THE FIELD IN FRENCH PLAYS

Alliance Francaise Not in Accord with Plan to Build a New Theatre.

ADDS TO ITS OWN FORCES

President Bonheur Says Experience Shows That the Venture Is Not Apt to Succeed.

New York's needs in the way of the performance of French plays by French players are destined to be well looked after next season, for, following the announcement of a new organization which will build a theatre for that purpose, it was learned yesterday that the Cercle Dramatique of the Alliance Française had planned a large increase of its activities for next season, to establish the fact that the capital for French drama in the United States is still the Aerial Theatre atop the New Amsterdam, where it gives its performances.

It was carefully explained by Lucien L. Bonheur, President of the older organization, yesterday that the new plans of the Alliance Française were not in opposition to anybody or anything, but from remarks let drop by members of both organizations it is gathered that they are not working in harmony despite thefact that in a few instances the same names appear on the patrons' list of both.

"We do not have to 'found' anything," said Mr. Bonheur yesterday, "for we have been giving performances in French for the past seven years with the Cercle Dramatique of the Alliance Française. We are glad to see the new movement and trust it will succeed. But our experience with the Alliance Française does not lead us to think that a season of fifteen or sixteen weeks with almost daily performances of French plays can be successful. We have been presenting the best plays with the best artists, and it has only been by the strongest kind of effort that we have been able to bring it to a successful conclusion."

During the past season the Alliance Française has given three performances a month of French plays at the Aerial Theatre. Next season that number will be increased to four. There will be in addition a special matinée every month for students in schools and universities. Then there will be a special performance for a French charity. In addition to this the company will be used for a series of matinées to be given at the Plaza Hotel, morning from 11 to 1 o'clock.

The additional performances have been arranged in order to provide more appearances for the new company which will be engaged. Mme. Yorska, a former member of the company at the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre in Paris, who has been in New York this Winter, will head the new organization. The director of the theatre, Claude Benedict, of the Vaudeville Theatre, Paris, is now abroad for the purpose of selecting a few more actors for the company.

He is also looking over the plays being performed in Paris, and Mr. Bonheur says it is the purpose of the organization to obtain three or four of the most successful of these for performance here. The French Theatre has announced a similar purpose.

Among the next season's patrons of the Cercle Dramatique of the Alliance Française are Ambassador Jules Jusserand, Consul Etienne Lanel, Henri Goiran, Cont de Jean, Lucien Jouvaud, Auguste George, Prof. Adolphe Cohn, J. P. Morgan, W. Bourke Cockran, J. P. Sloane, C. L. Butler, Frederic R. Coudert, Paul Fuller, Robert Bacon, Gen. Horace Porter, E. L. Stoddard, J. Leroy White, T. Titelson Wells, Alexander T. Mason, Mrs. F. C. Whitney, Elisabeth Marbury, Theodore Roosevelt, C. A. Downer, Judge H. G. Ward, Justice Charles L. Guy, William H. Taylor, George F. Ide, Frank D. Pavey, Mrs. F. K. Pendleton, Jean de Pulligny, Mrs. Charles F. Rand, Mrs. William G. Rockefeller, Mrs. J. West Roosevelt, and Miss Anna Perkins.

PITTSBURGH, May 13.—The engagement of Miss Frances Dixon, daughter of the late Isaac H. Last Winter Miss Helen Clay Frick visited Miss Dixon and was extensively entertained. Both of Miss Dixon's sisters, Miss Mary Allen and Miss Elizabeth White Dixon, were débutantes of last Winter in Baltimore. Miss Dixon visited the Fricks at Clayton, their residence at Penn and Homewood Avenues, the first week of January.

AN ACTORS' FUND DAY.

Erlanger Suggests a Country-Wide Benefit Once a Year.

The annual meeting of the Actors' Fund of America was held yesterday afternoon at the Hudson Theatre. Officers for the ensuing year were elected. There was only one ticket in the field this year, which was elected unanimously, and the same spirit of unanimity prevailed over the rest of the business of the meeting. A report of the year's proceedings was read by E. D. Miner, the Secretary, and it was shown that the expenses for the year had been $66,373.04, while the receipts from benefits and other sources were $62,572.32.

The principal feature of the meeting was the proposal by A. L. Erlanger that hereafter the fund should be freed from the necessity of holding benefits, fairs, &c., by arranging that one day in each year should be set aside at every theatre in the country as Actors' Fund Day, when a special matinée of the current attraction should be given, the receipts to go to the fund. The plan is for the actors to donate their services, the managers to give their share of the expenses, and all other expenses involved to be donated also. Mr. Erlanger also offered to direct and manage the project. The proposition was adopted at a Trustees' meeting held afterward and a vote of thanks given the proposer. As the new scheme is understood, it does away with the annual Actors' Fund benefit and the Actors' Fund fair.

The following officers were elected by acclamation: Daniel Frohman, President; Joseph R. Grismer, Vice President; F. F. Mackay, Second Vice President; William Harris, Treasurer; Edwin D. Miner, Secretary, and J. J. Armstrong, Francis Wilson, Walter Vincent, David Warfield, Milton Aborn, and Sam A. Scribner, Trustees for three years.

Italian Orchestra Make-Up.

When the Italian Orchestral Society gives its Italian symphonic concert on May 22 in Carnegie Hall two-thirds of the orchestra of 100 men will be Italians. According to Cesare Sodero, the idea is to give Italian symphonic works in the best possible form from an artistic standpoint, and in order to carry out this idea it has been found necessary to engage the musicians regardless of nationality. Now that the full orchestra is made up, it is found to contain a largely Italian membership.

In the evening there will be an electrical illumination.

SPANISH ART EXHIBIT.

Chicago to Have Work of Most Noted Modern Painters.

Chicago is to have an exhibition of contemporary Spanish art in the galleries of its Art Institute from May 15 to June 11. The collection includes pictures by Sorolla, Zuloago, Villegas, Carnelo Munoz Degrain, Chocharro, and the brothers Zubicurre, and the art of these men is said to appear extremely conservative in contrast with the extreme modernist movement.

Miss Ethel Goe has assembled the pictures, about sixty in number, and has had the assistance of Sorolla, upon whose invitation she visited Madrid, and also of Cossio, the author of "El Greco," and of Señor Rivas, who is connected with public instruction in the fine arts. The exhibition will be the most important in the field of modern Spanish art ever shown in the United States.

B'rith Abraham Convention Closing.

Goldfogle of New York, William Sulzer, now Governor, but then a Congressman; Judge Mayer Sulzberger of Philadelphia, Louis Marshall of New York, and ex-President Taft for their work in bringing about the abrogation of the Russian treaty because Russia refused to recognize the passports of Jewish Americans.

PROPOSES RETURN OF UNSOLD BOOKS

Paper Read at Booksellers' Convention Meets Opposition from Publishers.

OVERPRODUCTION A MENACE

Only 4,559 Works Were Published in 1890, but by 1910 the Number Had Jumped to 13,470.

More than 300 booksellers from all parts of the country were present yesterday morning at the opening of the thirteenth annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association in the Hotel Astor. Some of the delegates came all the way from the Pacific Coast to talk shop with their brothers from Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, New York City, and elsewhere, but no matter where they come from, all the delegates were filled with the same spirit, with "Sell your hammer and buy a horn" for their motto and the injunction of "Boost" added. A number of women booksellers were present.

The convention was formally opened with an address of welcome by President Walter L. Butler. A brief business session followed, devoted to the reading of committee reports, after which papers were read by Miss Virginia S. Cowper of Wanamaker's, New York, on "The Booksellers' Responsibility"; by Louis A. Keating of the American Baptist Publication Society, Philadelphia, on "Agencies for Developing Reading," and by Alfred Harcourt of Henry Holt & Co., New York, on "Books and Their Competitors." After the reading of each paper there was a general discussion.

At 2 o'clock, after luncheon, there was another session of paper reading and discussion. John Sterling of Watertown, N. Y., discussed "The Problem of Bookselling in the Smaller Cities"; William H. Arnold of the Syndicate Trading Company and the H. B. Claflin Company, New York, read a paper bristling with new suggestions entitled "More Steps Forward"; Vernon M. Schenck of Johnson's Bookstore, Springfield, Mass., spoke on "Overproduction: A Menace to the Book Trade," and Will D. Wilson of the Lowman & Hanford Company, Seattle, Wash., outlined "Book Conditions in the Northwest," bringing the afternoon's programme to a close.

In his paper Mr. Arnold put forward a suggestion that must have seemed revolutionary in the trade, and spirited discussion ensued. The suggestion was that booksellers should have the privilege of returning to the publisher or jobber any copies of a book on hand after one year, receiving a credit check for 90 per cent. of the purchase price.

Mr. Arnold prefaced his suggestion by referring to the great loss caused to booksellers by reason of large accumulated dead stocks of unsalable books, and pointed out the difficulty of judging the value of books, which, he said, are not like teas or woollens or any other form of merchandise whose quality can be determined accurately by the prospective buyer. No bookseller has time to read all of the books offered to him, and he must necessarily rely on the judgment of the publisher as to their literary value and selling qualities. Consequently, he said, new books should be so guaranteed that the bookseller will not lose if the publisher has made a mistake and put out a poor seller or has loaded up the dealer with unsalable books.

To make up for the loss which would be occasioned to the publisher by such returns of unsold books, Mr. Arnold suggested an increased wholesale price, with a consequent slight increase in the retail price. Such protection to the dealer, he argued, would mean a great boom in the book selling business, as the dealers would no longer be depressed by the bugaboo of dead stock. He also suggested that the return of unsalable books would have a wholesome effect on the publisher, and that in consequence fewer worthless books would be put on the market.

In the discussion which followed Charles E. Butler spoke in favor of the return privilege, while G. Edgar Briggs of Fleming H. Revell & Co., publishers, attacked the proposition. No action was taken on the question by the convention yesterday, but another one of Mr. Arnold's suggestions, namely, the establishment of a Publishers' and Booksellers' Joint Board of Trade to thresh out their problems was favorably acted on, being referred to the Executive Committee to report back to-morrow.

In his paper on "Overproduction," Mr. Schenck presented some interesting statistics showing how the number of books published annually had increased out of all reason, compared with the growth of population. In 1890, he said, when the population was 60,000,000, the number of books published was 4,559. In 1900 the number of books had jumped to 6,350, with a population of 76,000,000; and in 1910 13,470 books were published, an increase of 112 per cent. over 1900, while the population was only 93,000,000. Since 1910 the tide of books, he said, had gone down a bit, the figures for 1911 and 1912 being 11,123 and 10,903, respectively. For this overproduction Mr. Schenck blamed the rivalry of publishers.

Additional papers will be read at the morning and afternoon sessions to-day, and in the evening all the delegates will attend a theatre party. To-morrow, however, will be the busiest day of the convention, opening with a secret session at which officers will be elected for the ensuing year. At noon the convention will adjourn and go in a body to the new home of Charles Scribner's Sons, where a buffet luncheon will be served, after which the members of the association will be taken in automobiles to inspect the manufacturing plant.

The annual dinner to-morrow evening will bring the convention to a close. Among the promised speakers are Borough President George McAneny, Percy Mackaye, T. A. Daly, and Irving S. Cobb.

COME HERE TO WED.

Schoolmates Thus Escape Possible Parental Objections.

The services of the Rev. Dr. G. C. Houghton of the Little-Church-Around-the-Corner were hurriedly requisitioned yesterday by Miss Grace Evans and Myron Craig Ballenberg, in order to forestall the bride's father, who was thought to oppose the match.

Miss Evans is the daughter of Evan Evans, a wealthy contractor of Cincinnati. When she and young Ballenberg suddenly decided to get married without asking parental permission, she came on to New York with her sister. The bridegroom came yesterday to the Hotel McAlpin, where the sisters were. The sister promptly gave her consent to the marriage, and after getting the license at City Hall, the young couple hunted up Dr. Houghton. The ceremony was also witnessed by Lee Ballenberg of Hamburg, Germany, a brother of the bridegroom.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Ballenberg left on their honeymoon for Atlantic City, after notifying the bride's parents of the marriage by telegraph. According to Miss Florence Evans, her sister and Mr. Ballenberg had known each other since childhood days, having been schoolmates.

7,000 GIRLS DANCE IN CENTRAL PARK

STOVER PLANS MORE FETES

Says Children Shall Enjoy Parks "in Spite of the Fault Finding of a Great Many People."

Seven thousand girls, from eighty-two public schools, danced around eighty-two May poles yesterday afternoon on the green in Central Park. It was the prettiest park festival the children have had since the Girls' Branch of the Public Schools Athletic League began to hold its annual play days at Central Park in 1908. There were special features yesterday. In the first place, Supt. Maxwell allowed the children to leave school at 1 o'clock, and they were all on the green and their dancing had begun before half past 3, and even before that they had had a special treat.

Most of the children had never seen sheep, and there were many lambs in the Park. At the request of Miss Elizabeth Burchenal, the entire flock, sheep and lambs, were left on the green until after the children arrived, and they had the pleasure of seeing the collies gather them and drive them off.

The girls' schools had different colors. In the May poles were two and in some cases three colors, but the girls made bright splashes of single color on the lawn, one group with bright red hair ribbons, another with orange, and from other schools the girls were all in dark blue and white. Others wore pale blue, pink, or soft lavender.

There were all the regular dances and others that were less familiar. There was the "Crested Hen," a Danish dance. The "Ace of Diamonds" was a new name, and there were the "Seven Jumps," and in one dance each one of the 7,000 little girls was down on her knees.

Among the best dancers were the children from the School for the Deaf, Public School 47, Manhattan. There were two leagues of them, fifty girls in each league, one group wearing orange ribbons with white dresses and the others pink roses in their hair.

The small boys of the city helped the girls celebrate, 100 Boy Scouts keeping order on the grounds, while the boys' band from Public School 47, Manhattan, furnished the music for the dancing. The girls did the cheering, with different "yells" for different schools. All the girls together had a cheer for their Director in Chief, Miss Burchenal. She was standing on the band stand in the centre of the green when the girls, coming up from all parts of the field, gave their special yell for her and rushed forward to shake hands with her. In her arms she was carrying a big bouquet of flowers, a cluster of lovely purple iris and snowballs from a real outdoor garden in Harlem, from School 36, the Bronx, and a bunch of hothouse pink roses from Public Schol 100, Manhattan.

Many well-known people were on the grounds, among them Superintendent of Schools Maxwell and three of the founders of the Public School Athletic League; Gen. George Wingate, C. Ward Crampton, and Gustavus T. Kirby, who said this work for the children, which had spread not only all over the country, but all over the world, was one of the greatest pleasures of his life.

Commissioner of Parks Stover said it was one of the prettiest of the Park fêtes, and that there were going to be more of them.

"In spite of the fault-finding of a great many people, we are going to have a great many more pageants for the children here," he said.

Among the guests many of them Directors of the Girls' Branch, were Mrs. James Speyer, Mrs. Alfred Seton Post, Miss Laura J. Post, Mrs. McGee Ellsworth, Mrs. Gustavus T. Kirby, Miss Catharine S. Leverich, Miss Helen Glover, Miss Frances de Peyster, Mrs. Henry Butterworth, Mrs. Henry Parsons, and Mrs. Cyrus Miller.

Of all the 7,000 little girls in the Park dances yesterday there were only three who got separated from their respective groups and teachers. The last one was little Esther Weissberg of Public School 63, Manhattan, and it was after all the games were over and most of the schools on their way home. Little smudgy tear stains were all over Esther's cheeks, and she was a very unhappy little girl.

"Let us take her home," said Mrs. Speyer, but as it was certain that an unhappy teacher was counting noses and missing one of her little charges, a Boy Scout was called in and Esther found herself in a jiffy.

One thing that had not been claimed up to the time when the last of the crowd was leaving was a little girl's white petticoat that some dancer had dropped. It waved gayly in the breeze where some one pinned it on the lines inclosing the green, waiting for its little owner to come and claim it.

Mrs. Russell Sage stopped her automobile just outside the enclosure and watched the children dance for some time.

QUITS 13 CLUB DINNER.

Dr. W. S. Gotthell Incensed at Friedmann Cure Discussion.

After voicing a protest against the organization lending itself to advertising purposes, Dr. William S. Gotthell of 154 West Seventy-seventh Street withdrew last night from a dinner of the Thirteen Club held in the Hotel Cadillac, at which Dr. Friedmann's alleged cure for tuberculosis was discussed. Dr. Gotthell said he also spoke in behalf of Drs. Thomas W. Embley, Solomon Rosenbaum, Leo Jacoby, Walter A. Shoales, L. L. Satenstein, and David Lazarus, whose names had been used without permission as members of the dinner committee. It was only after repeated efforts had been made to silence him that Dr. Gotthell succeeded in placing his protest on record, before the floor was taken by Dr. M. A. Sturm, who told of work he intended to do with the Friedmann vaccine.

Dr. Friedmann said yesterday in his apartment in the Hotel Majestic that the residence at 878 West End Avenue, leased by Eisner & Mendelsohn as New York headquarters for the "cure," would be ready for business in a week or so. He also told of an alleged statement, signed by Dr. Sturm on April 27, in which the latter denied having in his possession the secret for manufacturing the turtle vaccine. Dr. Sturm averred he treated sixteen patients yesterday, of which nine were charity cases. Mr. Eisner said his attorney would take whatever legal action was necessary in connection with Dr. Sturm's assertions.

FAREWELL TO W. H. PAGE.

Fellow-Workers Join in a Hearty Send-Off to New Ambassador.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 13.—At an informal reception in the library of Country Life this afternoon Walter Hines Page, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, said good-bye to and received the good wishes of 700 employes of Doubleday, Page & Co. Mr. Page was visibly affected by their expressions of affection.

Word had been passed around that Mr. Page would be in the library to say good-bye to his friends in the big printing plant at 3 o'clock. They had no opportunity to do more than wash the grease and oil from their hands before filing in from the binderies, the composing room, the engraving rooms, the editorial and other departments, but they made up for this at a dinner in his honor to-night at the Garden City Hotel.

It is expected that Mr. Page will be accompanied to England by his son Frank, and that Mrs. Page will follow after her daughter, Katherine, is out of college.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Improve on Little More Active Trading—New York Central Consolidation.

Showing a little more activity than it had on Monday, the stock market regained yesterday practically all the ground which it had lost in the general level of quotations during the two previous days of trading. Some improvement in the London market upon the resumption of trading after the triple holiday offered some incentive to traders here to work with more confidence on the long side of the account. The contradictory day-to-day movements of prices, however, in such a market as we have lately had hardly call for any other explanation than that suggested by the fickleness of professional traders and by the uncertainty which is naturally enough felt by many over the wisdom of continuing operations for the fall after a prolonged decline. United States Steel and some of the copper shares were among those which showed more than average gains yesterday. The news from the copper trade as a whole has been favorable, and that from the steel trade has been sufficiently good to suggest that, so far as general business is concerned, it is a contraction feared but not yet experienced rather than dissatisfaction with the current volume of transactions which offers ground for the conservatism which is so generally felt regarding the future. The movement in United States Steel yesterday was particularly interesting, in contrast with the interpretation which many traders felt should be put upon the showing made in the unfilled-order statement of the Steel Corporation issued just as the market closed on Saturday. The action of the stock since then has indicated that the view of many traders has not been shared by outside holders of the stock generally that the decline in unfilled orders suggested a rapid adverse change in the steel trade. The fact is that steelmakers feel that they are still as well supplied with orders as need be, and more business than is being done could be done if prompter deliveries were possible. This all fits in with one noteworthy phase of the general business attitude, which is one of caution regarding the future, though current opportunities for trade are large.

Bankers are giving a good deal of thought just now to the probable provisions of the Currency Reform bill which the party leaders have under consideration. In a broad sense currency reform, if actually entitled to that designation, must necessarily work to general advantage, but there is some concern in the financial district lest certain provisions of the bill which is to be submitted to the House would work seriously to the disadvantage of the New York banks. What is feared specifically is that such a change will be made in respect to the reserves of National banks as will cause the loss to New York institutions of a large volume of reserves which they now hold for interior institutions. Just how much ground for concern there may exist in this respect cannot be determined until the exact proposals of the new currency bill have been made public. It is worth remembering, though, that no small part of the inconvenience which has been caused by the existing bank reserve system has been connected with the recurrent piling up of idle funds in New York at seasons when they are not needed elsewhere and their withdrawal from this city when banks in the interior begin to find use for them, often at times when it is by no means convenient for this centre to give them up.

The New York Central announced yesterday the first steps in the proposed consolidation of its principal lines into a single corporate organization. Not the least interesting feature of the plan is the offering of a 4 per cent. bond for the New York Central's 3½ per cent. collateral trust bonds now outstanding. Many advantages are expected to accrue to the New York Central through the simplification of its corporate form, the direct economies to be made possible by the merger of a number of companies into one being regarded as by no means the least of these advantages.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Whose Was the Victory?

The Street filled in idle moments yesterday discussing the Stock Exchange election, the focal point of argument being the question of whether or not the independents scored a technical victory over the regulars or vice versa. On the face of the voting neither party had an advantage. Partisans of the independent ticket argued that the regulars had been defeated because the latter, with candidates selected by the recognized Nominating Committee of the Exchange, had not been able to elect all of their men. Supporters of the regular nominees declared, on the other hand, that they had come out considerably ahead of their opponents for the reason that they had added three new men to the progressive membership of the Governing Committee, and little more could be desired in an election so hotly contested. The rank and file of the members appeared to be well satisfied with the result, and the defeated candidates were congratulated only less heartily than their rivals when they appeared on the floor.

Educating the Public.

The Stock Exchange has entered upon a comprehensive campaign of education with the purpose of informing the investing public about many matters dealing with the conduct of the board. Yesterday the recently organized Library Committee sent out 18,000 pieces of mail to all parts of the country, and it was said that no less than 100,000 letters and pamphlets would be distributed by the end of the week. The chief medium for reaching the people is supplied by the mailing lists of stock, cotton, and grain brokerage houses of the Wall Street district, but the Exchange has in course of preparation a ponderous list for its own account. Most of the matter consists of newspaper and magazine articles which treat Exchange proceedings or methods in a non-partisan manner. The articles are reprinted in a convenient form and included in market letters of brokers when not sent directly by the Exchange. The Library Committee is preparing an elaborate filing system to extend the work, and it is believed that the distribution will within three months reach a total of 500,000 letters a week.

Problem for Oil Stock Traders.

Brokers who have been dealing in South Penn Oil shares are trying to discover where they stand in regard to transactions made since April 30. The stock has been selling ex dividend and ex rights since that date, and something of a shock was felt when it became known yesterday that the Directors decided last Saturday to reopen the books until May 20 for participation in the 300 per cent. stock dividend and the privilege of subscribing to 100 per cent. of new stock at par. The shares have been moderately active since news of the melon cutting was made known, and the proper placing of due-bills for the dividend and rights appeared to brokers when they learned of the ruling to be a tedious and intricate task.

One Bond's Strength.

While the market for high-class bonds has been steadily declining one lone issue has been moving away from the rest of the list. The Lake Shore 3½ per cent. collaterals, which were quoted at 76¾ on March 15, have advanced to 82½, and are now selling slightly under that price. The reason for the strength of this issue became apparent last night with the announcement of the impending exchange for a new New York Central bond paying 4 per cent. interest.

Compulsory Friendship.

The breach between the New York Stock Exchange and the Consolidated has been healed by law, so far as any surface wounds show. President de Aguero of the smaller board was quoted yesterday as saying that he expected to see a good deal of business for the Consolidated transacted upon the big board. He says that as soon as the Governor signed the bill prohibiting discrimination several Stock Exchange members called up friends on the Consolidated to ask for their business, and he expects the new law to result in the establishment of cordial relations between the two boards. A contrary view was taken by some of the Stock Exchange brokers, who said that while the rule against taking accounts for the Consolidated had been rescinded by the new law, the brokers would still feel morally bound to refuse accounts of members of the smaller board. If the members of the Stock Exchange exact the proper margin from Consolidated brokers who offer them business it is hard to see on what ground the authorities could object to their taking any business tendered, but there is no doubt that they could make any offending broker feel uncomfortable if they chose to consider the old rule still binding.

Bucket Shops Flourishing.

An active member of the New York Stock Exchange who recently made a business trip to most of the larger cities in this State says that the general impression that the activity of the Federal authorities in recent years against bucket shops had practically ended them was an erroneous one. In his estimate the business of taking buying and selling orders which are ostensibly executed on one of the Exchanges, but which in reality are used to offset one another, has never flourished as it does to-day. Many small towns which never supported a real branch office of a reputable brokerage firm are supplying good business for the local agent of a big chain of bucket shops, and the operators are apparently little frightened by the knowledge that they are violating the laws. In one day a big bucket shop up-State received orders for 8,300 shares and actually sent over the wires orders for 1,100 shares. The balance of the orders were evidently used to offset one another, so that the house got the commissions without performing any service. Numerous branches of one of these chains with headquarters in Pittsburgh try to steer clear of Federal prosecutions by sending their accounts and reports to the main office by express, and make no use of the Post Office facilities, which might react on them. Many a man who has placed orders with these out-of-town bucket shops boasts of his gains or losses in Wall Street, when in reality Wall Street never saw a dollar of his money.

BANK MAY BE REOPENED.

Nothing Criminal in Atlantic National's Suspension.

PROVIDENCE, May 13.—Nothing of a criminal character has been found in connection with the recent suspension of the Atlantic National Bank, according to a statement issued to-day by R. L. Curtis, who is preparing to take charge of it as permanent receiver.

"There is still a chance," added Mr. Curtis, "that the bank will be reopened or absorbed by some other bank, although we are going along on the basis that the receivership will be permanent, and that the bank will be definitely liquidated."

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Good Investment Demand in London—Dear Money Restricts Business in Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 14.—The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"The supply of money was ample. Day-to-day rates were unaltered for call loans and fixtures. Discount quotations gave way slightly, but bills were not sought for at the lower level which was established. Paris checks moved ¾ cent. against London; Berlin fell 1 pfennig. It is expected that the Bank will receive the bulk of the South African bar gold this week, there being no foreign inquiry.

"Members of the Stock Exchange returned from their holiday in an optimistic mood and found a fair accumulation of buying orders awaiting execution. Consequently prices went ahead during the early hours. During the rest of the day business was quiet, but the tone of the markets, on the whole, remained good throughout. The chief features were the strength of home railway stocks and diamond shares, the latter being steadily bought from the Continent. French operators also bought Peruvian Corporation stocks and others of their favorite securities to a small extent. On the other hand, there was some selling of Canadian Pacific shares from Berlin. Wall Street supported American shares, but only in a half-hearted fashion, and as compared with Friday's closing level prices were mostly lower. Mexican stocks were heavy, partly on rumors of further disturbances in Mexico, and partly owing to poor traffic returns."

PARIS, May 13.—Prices were irregular on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 84f. 95c. for the account.

BERLIN, May 13.—The dearness of money restricted business on the Boerse to-day.

Net profits were $1,054,000, compared with $554,000 in 1911. The balance for the common stock was equivalent to 14.6 per cent. on the $5,000,000 outstanding. The company has about $4,000,000 worth of orders on its books now.

Mackubin, Goodrich & Co. have issued a booklet for free distribution on several representative convertible bonds.

LEAVING BANK ASSOCIATION.

Several Others Expected to Follow Lead of Seamen's Bank.

The New York State Savings Bank Association is likely to lose from its roster several local institutions, in addition to the Seamen's Bank for Savings, which announced its withdrawal on Monday. President Horace F. Hutchinson of the Broadway Savings Institution said yesterday that the Trustees had seriously considered taking such action, and it was learned that some of the larger institutions, including the Emigrant, the Bowery, and the Union Dime Savings Banks, were debating the step.

"A number of the banks are dissatisfied with the conduct of the association," said Mr. Hutchinson, "particularly as regards opposition to certain bills at Albany. The feeling is growing that the association is of no practical use to the members, and, unless an awakening of some sort occurs within the organization soon, many banks will decide that it would be better to save their yearly dues and stand by themselves."

An officer of another savings bank said that the desire to discontinue membership in the association was by no means confined to the banks of this city. In up-State cities, he said, a protest had been made against the lethargy displayed by the association in opposing the Pollock bill and the inclusion of savings bank deposits within the Federal Income Tax bill. For the reason that a rather general movement was afoot to shake up the association, he inferred that a lively contest over the election of officers might be expected at the annual meeting of the association on May 22. A slate favored by some of the local members of the organization is made up of Walter Trimble, President of the Bank for Savings, for President; William Felsinger, President of the New York Savings Bank, First Vice President, and Robert S. Donaldson, President of the Erie County Savings Bank of Buffalo, Second Vice President. H. P. Brewster, head of the Rochester Savings Bank, is now President of the association.

Factional discord within the organization is believed to have been brought to a head by the passage of a bill in the last session of the Legislature empowering the Governor to appoint a committee to examine all the State banking laws, with the purpose of making changes. A savings bank officer said yesterday that the association apparently took no steps whatever to learn the will of its members toward the measure, and calmly watched it go through both houses.

NEW PENNSYLVANIA STOCK.

Warrants Issued Giving Stockholders Right to Subscribe.

The Pennsylvania Railroad mailed yesterday to its 78,747 stockholders warrants entitling them to subscribe to new stock. Payments will be received at any time up to and including May 31. The number of stockholders on May 5, 1913, showed an increase of 3,288 over Feb. 5, 1913. The stockholders of the Pennsylvania and its subsidiaries number approximately 100,000.

In the parent company the average holding of shares in April, 1913, was 115, a decrease of 7.38 shares, as compared with April, 1912. The number of women stockholders in April, 1913, was 37,902, an increase of 2,792 over April, 1912.

Coming Journalists on 'Change.

The workings of the New York Stock Exchange were investigated yesterday afternoon by a party of eighteen members of the junior class of the Columbia School of Journalism. The visitors were accompanied on a tour through the building by several Governors of the Exchange, who extended to them the courtesies of the floor in the final hour of the session.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

A firm tone showed in the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange from the opening at 9:30 o'clock. There was a slow short covering movement, with profit taking readily absorbed as prices rose. Commission houses handled a good volume of odd lot orders. There were transactions in American Car & Foundry and in Pittsburgh Coal representing the only market for those stocks reported in Wall Street during the day.

Forty Years of Public Service

We are offering the first mortgage 5% bonds of the Minneapolis Gas Light Company, due February 1, 1930, at 100.00 and interest.

For over forty years this Company has furnished gas to the city of Minneapolis under an exclusive franchise. The prosperity and development of this city are reflected in the growth of the population from 202,718 in 1900 to 301,408 in 1910, an increase of nearly 50%. The earnings of the Company are over three times what they were ten years ago.

The gross earnings for the year ended February 28, 1913, were $2,071,557, and the net earnings, $770,714 or about two and one-half times the interest on the total bonded debt.

Public Service bonds, secured by first mortgage on properties operating in large cities, are difficult to obtain as their elemental security renders them in constant demand among institutions and discriminating investors.

These bonds are a legal investment for Rhode Island Savings Banks.

SURE STEEL TRUST IS PUBLIC BENEFIT

President Farrell Tells of Constant Enterprise to Help Things Along, Without Profit.

CHEAP LABOR IN INDIA

Three Cents a Day for Men at Blast Furnaces There—He Thinks New Tariff Will Let In That Steel.

James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, continuing yesterday his testimony in the suit for its dissolution, added several strokes to the picture he had drawn of it on Monday as an industrial benefactor.

He reinforced his story of how it had built up a strong export business in the face of great obstacles, told how it had paid many and increasing millions to labor, how it came to the assistance of independent manufacturers when London speculators cornered tin, how it rushed work to get steel pilings to New Orleans ahead of threatening floods, and how it carried on the unprofitable manufacture of "cotton ties" so that the cotton crop could be marketed. Incidentally, he brought in the menace, under the Underwood Tariff bill, of pig iron for the Pacific coast from India, China, and Australia.

All this was without volubility, and was brought out in simple answers to the skillful questioning of Lawyer Severance. Mr. Farrell again astonished his auditors by his detained knowledge of costs, wages, and freight rates all over the world, which he gave readily from memory. With equal facility he described conditions of assembling material for making pig iron and steel in various countries, and mentioned long lists of companies which at different times were in competition with the American Steel and Wire Company in various places and in various lines of product.

Mr. Severance first introduced a table of comparative prices received for products sold in this country and abroad and of the amount of business of both classes for a series of years. It showed, Mr. Farrell said, that the Steel Corporation obtained an average of $4 a ton less for its domestic goods in 1912 than in 1904, while it had increased its export prices by improving the quality and adapting its output to foreign requirements. Many of its products sold abroad, he said, were of special design, of which none was sold in this country.

In addition to the prohibitive tariffs imposed by Germany, Great Britain, France, Austria, and Italy, Mr. Farrell told yesterday of obstacles such as cheap labor, low freight rates, and low cost of manufacture that had to be contended against in extending the export business. Wages in Europe, he said, were from 35 to 38 per cent. lower than here. He produced a memorandum showing that wages had increased 28½ per cent. in this country since the Steel Corporation was formed, adding $70,000,000 a year to the payroll. In 1902 the Steel Corporation employed 196,127 men at a total cost of $120,528,000, or an average of $717 a year a man. In 1912 it employed 221,025 men at a cost of $189,351,000, or $857 a man. An advance in wages made in February last would bring the average wages up to $912.

Some Advantages Abroad.

In the discussion of the Steel Corporation's acquisition of the Tennessee Coal & Iron property, it has been shown that ore, coking coal, and limestone are in such proximity in the Birmingham district that pig-iron can be produced there more cheaply than anywhere in the United States, and some experts have said than anywhere else in the world. The cost is considerably higher at Pittsburgh and Chicago, with ore brought from the Lake Superior region, and it is under these conditions that most of the Steel Corporation's output is produced. Mr. Farrell said yesterday that a number of the foreign makers have advantages similar to those in the Birmingham district. At Luxembourg, he said, conditions were about the same as in the Birmingham district.

"As the Gerans say," he remarked, "they are sitting on their material at Luxembourg. In Westphalia the conditions are not quite so favorablee. In England, at Middlesborough, they are about the same as at Luxembourg. The English makers also import a large amount of ore from Spain, where they own their own mines. They get some from Sweden."

As to the advantages foreign manufacturers have in reaching the seaboard, Mr. Farrell said:

"German manufacturers can ship to Antwerp and Bremen, about 300 miles, for 60 cents a ton. From Pittsburgh to New York, 480 miles, the rate is $2.05 a ton in general and $1.75 a ton on rails.

"The new plant at Sini, near Calcutta, can make pig iron at $5.40 a ton. The men working at the blast furnaces get 3 cents a day wages. It costs 48 cents a ton to get it to Calcutta. There it can be put on a sailing vessel and sent to San Francisco for $5.50 a ton. The duty under the new tariff bill would be 11 cents, so that the pig iron could be laid down in San Francisco at about $11.50. The first cargo from India is now on its way to the Pacific Coast.

"In China there is a plant near Hankow, where the workmen average 13 cents a day. Pig iron can be made there for $6.20 a ton and transported to San Francisco for $3.60. Tariff and all, it can be laid down for about $10.78. The market price for American pig iron at San Francisco is $21.50."

"Have you told Mr. Underwood about that?" inquired Judge Dickinson, the Government counsel.

"I don't think it would make any difference with him," replied Mr. Farrell, with a smile.

Pig Iron from China.

Between 1908 and 1911, he said, China had exported 200,000 tons of pig iron to the Pacific Coast, but the movement had been interrupted by the disorders in that country. The Steel Corporation was still able to sell rails in China because the Chinese mills were unable to keep up with the demand for extensive railroad construction in progress there. Foreign rails were imported into this country at the rate of 6,000 or 7,000 tons a year, mainly on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Farrell also told of a new plant in Australia where pig iron and steel could be made cheaper than here. Freight to the Pacific Coast was about $7.50 a ton, while from Pittsburgh it was $16.

Mr. Severance next took up the supply of tin used by the American Sheet and Tinplate Company, a subsidiary of the trust.

"All the pig tin that we use," said Mr. Farrell, "is imported from Singapore and Penang, in the Straits Settlement. The Welsh import most of theirs from the same place, although they have some mines in Wales. The American Sheet and Tinplate Company, however, is the largest buyer of pig tin in the world. There are constant fluctuations in the price. Speculators in London are either trying to corner tin or they are trying to bear it. When a corner is on, we are asked—I won't say importuned—by our American competitors to sell them tin, and we always do so at one-half of 1 per cent. above cost, regardless of the price in London."

Supplies of tin were also available, Mr. Farrell said, in Australia, Tasmania, and Bolivia. On the subject of cotton ties and the recent floods he said:

"There is no profit on cotton ties and the business is not attractive. Our competitors have abandoned their manufacture, so it has devolved on us to meet the demand. Last year we furnished the compress men in the South with 1,900,000 bundles at 85 cents a bundle. If we should follow the example of our competitors and stop making them the coton crop would lie on the ground.

Government Always Favored.

"At the time of the recent floods the Government needed steel piling to strengthen the levees on the lower Mississippi. We got a rush order for 515 tons, and, although we were filled up with regular orders, we delivered them in New Orleans five days later, eighty-six hours before the high waters arrived. We always give the preference to Government work."

Mr. Farrell was also examined on a table showing the output of the American Steel and Wire Company in a score of different lines in 1900 and 1911, the purpose of which was to show that, instead of being a monopoly, it had less than 50 per cent. of the business, and in many lines its proportion of the country's output had diminished. Mr. Farrell said he had made up this table himself. He named the company's competitors in each line and gave their proportion of the output. Some of the independents controlled 50 and some 75 per cent. of the business in certain lines, he said.

He also denied any community of interest between the Steel Corporation and the railroads, saying that the roads bought their rails from the nearest mills, regardless of ownership.

Mr. Farrell will continue his testimony to-day.

DULUTH, Minn., May 13.—The United States Steel Corporation's plant here will be surrounded by a parked town site of 800 lots, on which the corporation will build 350 apartment houses and homes. This was announced to-day by George L. Reis, Vice President of the Minnesota Steel Company.

The total cost will be $1,300,000. There will be bathrooms and basements in every house or apartment. Club houses and tennis courts also will be features.

An Unfailing Source of Revenue and ample physical assets are two fundamental principles which should be taken into consideration in the selection of an investment.

Statistics show that the earnings of corporations engaged in supplying public utilities such as gas, electric light and power, and passenger transportation are more dependable than those of corporations engaged in the manufacture of other commodities or in the transportation of freight.

A Comparison of Earnings
During the past decade the earnings of public utility corporations have shown a steadily increasing revenue, in sharp contrast with the comparatively violent fluctuations in the earnings of railroad and industrial corporations.

We shall be pleased to submit our special circular T 232 showing the unusual opportunities for profitable investments afforded by our offerings.

WEST HUDSON RUN STARTS AT NOON

Contest Draws Twenty Entries —Novel Number Plates— Cars Needed for Orphans.

With an entry list of about twenty cars, the West Hudson and Catskill reliability, fuel economy, and hill climbing contest will start at noon for two days of outdoors in the beautiful country of the Hudson highlands. The run, which will be a sort of swan song contest for "Senator" W. J. Morgan, who arranged it, has Newburg for its objective to-night. There a smoker will be held, at which Mitchell May, Secretary of State; A. G. Batchelder of the A. A. A., J. Lackey Hunter, and others interested in motor matters, are to speak. Gov. Sulzer and John M. Carlisle, Highway Commissioner, may also attend. The fuel economy part of the contest is to conclude with the arrival at Newburg. The hill climbing will take place to-morrow as part of the return trip, which strikes inland for a time before heading for New York.

At the Manhattan Automobile Club the entrants, drivers, observers, and officers of the run received final instruction last night from David Beecroft, referee, and Fred J. Wagner, starter. The rules and purposes of the contest were explained to them and the route was outlined. All cars will weigh in at the public scales at 130th Street and the North River at 11:30 o'clock this morning. It is planned to start the run promptly at noon. There is much interest along "Automobile Row" in the economy and reliability features of the contest. Six prizes are offered for the various competitive events, including a secret time prize. The entries include a Hudson, two Mercers, a National, an Alco, two Fords, a Pathfinder, a Winton, two Americans, an Oakland, a Paige, a Lozier, a De Dion-Bouton, a Briggs-Detroiter, a Kissel-Kar light truck, a Chalmers, an Oldsmobile, and an Overland.

One of the annoying problems of motor car registration has always been the number plates and where to carry them. An English device tries to solve this puzzle. The ground-work of these new plates consists of copper wire mesh painted black, and on this are attached the letters and numbers, which are of polished aluminium. When mounted on the radiator, the wire mesh background prevents the usual interference with radiation.

⁂

Unless many more cars of both the touring and commercial types are offered, the committee in charge of the ninth annual Orphans' Automobile Day will have to resort to hiring trucks to transport the 5,000 children to Glen Island, New Rochelle, on June 5. The feeding of the children has been provided for.

⁂

In the motor truck reliability contest which was conducted at Washington last week under the observation of United States Government officials, White trucks won the army ambulance division, the 1,500-pound class, and the 3,000-pound class. The 1,500-pound truck had the lowest gasoline consumption as well.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Bead Ornaments and Toys Defined —Decision on Ores.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained in part contentions by Bernard, Judae & Co. of Chicago regarding the classification under the Tariff act of 1909, of necklaces, bracelets, and fan chains composed in chief value of beads. Duty was assessed at 60 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 421 as ornaments made of beads. The importers contended that all were toys under Paragraphs 431 of 464. Judge McClelland held that the necklaces and bracelets were known in the trade as toys and sustained the protests, but ruled that the fan chains were properly taxed.

The board overruled a claim by the Consolidated Kansas City Smelting and Refining Company, in which objection was made to the assessment of duty on both the lead and zinc content of ore imported at El Paso from Mexico. It was alleged that duty should have been taken on either the lead or on the zinc contained in the ore, but not on both.

Carr Brothers filed protests against the assessment made by Collector Loeb on calculating machines, but failed to mention the rates or paragraphs under which duty was desired, and the board overruled the protests as vague.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat prices developed positive weakness on the favorable crop news and closed practically a cent net lower. Corn showed a net loss of ½c to ⅝c and oats ⅝c to ⅞c net. Cotton closed at about the lowest point of the day and from 5 to 7 points net lower.

⁂

WHEAT.

Early in the day the wheat market showed considerable resistance to declining tendencies and after a slightly lower opening steadied up a little, but found more for sale on the rallies than could easily be absorbed. In the last hour, with prospects for practically no export business and with crop news more favorable, the market developed positive weakness and closed practically a cent below the previous night. Traders who have been acting on the theory that the market had discounted a big crop outlook and would, therefore, be less sensitive to favorable advices from the belt than it was a while ago, were surprised at the lack of support even at present low levels, and considerable long wheat came out during the day from this source. Aggressive selling pressure was not much of a feature, but with present crop conditions, sentiment can hardly be termed enthusiastically bullish. Both private reports and the weekly weather crop bulletin were bearish on the outlook, and there were rains in parts of the Southwest and also the Northwest, where needed. Foreign markets opened after the holidays rather easy in tone, with Liverpool unchanged to ⅛d lower, Berlin partly ¼c lower, and Budapest 1⅝c lower. The decrease of only 1,901,000 bushels in world's stocks, according to Bradstreet's, was considered bearish, as there was a decrease last year of 8,808,000 bushels. The European crop outlook, as viewed by Broomhall, was quite favorable, particularly the German official report, which made Winter wheat condition 80, or the same as last year, with only 1.3 per cent. Winter killed. Further big clearances were reported from the seaboard, with a large amount of grain arriving for future shipment. Claims of insect trouble from Missouri were modified by reports of recent moisture, which is expected to check the ravages of these pests. In the local market red wheat was entirely nominal at $1.13, cost, insurance, freight; New York, $1.14, free on board, afloat, and No. 1 Northern Duluth, 99¼c, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

A decline of ½ to ⅝c in the corn market reflected favorable crop conditions and increased country offerings, together with late reports of lower cash markets. Good rains occurred in the big States west of the river where corn is already planted, and there was little check to farmwork in other sections. The weekly Government crop bulletin said corn was being seeded under satisfactory conditions and private crop experts wired practically the same thing, although the Ohio State report said rain was needed for the best results. The Liverpool market came ¼d net lower. At New York export corn was quoted at 63½c free on board, afloat.

OATS.

While there was still some complaint about dry weather damage, the feeling in oats was less bullish and prices sold off ⅝ to ⅞c per bushel, partly in sympathy with other grains. Showers were predicted for various parts of the belt, and there was a belief in some quarters that the dry weather talk had been exaggerated, this being particularly true of the Northwest. Cash oats in the local market closed as follows: Standard white, 43½c; No. 2, 44c; No. 3, 43c; No. 4, 42c; ordinary clipped white, 42½ to 43c; fancy clipped white, 44c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

After a slightly easier opening the provision market developed considerable firmness, and for the balance of the day had an advancing tendency which left prices at the best point of the session. Commission house demand was a feature, and the steadiness of hogs also exerted some influence. The Chicago arrivals were 12,000 hogs, with 29,000 expected to-day. Kansas City had 16,000 hogs, Omaha 12,000, and the West 82,000 hogs.

COTTON.

A renewal of the recent buying movement which was encouraged by expectations that the weekly review of weather conditions would confirm bullish reports from the Eastern belt, and relatively firm cables carried July contracts into new high ground in the cotton market yesterday morning. Other positions sold up to about the high point of yesterday, but offerings became heavier on the advance, and when the weekly weather report failed to stimulate any fresh buying of consequence, the market turned decidedly easier. The close was steadied by covering, but at practically the lowest point of the day and from 5 to 7 points under the final figures of Monday. There did not appear to be any change in the general average of private reports from the new crop, and the weekly bulletin of the Weather Bureau read quite as complainingly of conditions in the Eastern belt as had been anticipated, but very few unfavorable crop reports are coming in from either Central or Western sections of the country, and with trade advices indicating a comparatively slack spot demand, local bears were inclined to argue that the unfavorable conditions in the Eastern belt would soon yield with better weather conditions and that the technical position of the market had been weakened by recent reductions in the scattering short interest.

Liverpool reopened for business for the first time since last Friday and was 2 or 3 points better than due on American and Continental buying and covering of shorts. The local market opened steady at an advance of 3 or 4 points, and after some little irregularity sold about 5 to 7 points net higher, with July contracts touching 11.71, or practically $2 per bale above the recent low level. Realizing was evidently quite heavy at this level, and the market weakened under more aggressive selling in the late trading.

Notwithstanding the renewal of bear pressure, the action of the market showed continued uneasiness over the probable showing of the first condition report of the season, which will be compiled as of May 25, and published early in June. This showed itself in the disposition of recent sellers for a turn to take comparatively moderate profits, and it was also reported that houses with prominent New Orleans connections were large buyers of July on the decline. A few additional May notices were issued early, but led to no particular activity as the interest in that position is supposed to have narrowed to very small proportions, and July is now practically the only old crop month in which there is any general business. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to ⅛ cent higher; generally unchanged.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and unchanged at 12.10 for middling upland; sales, 101 bales.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Further scattered liquidation caused an easier feeling in the oil market, and prices closed from 1 to 4 points net lower. Business was again of small volume and mostly professional. The consuming interests showed indifference, and there was an entire absence of the bull support that characterized the market some weeks ago. On May contracts there were tenders of 700 barrels, making practically 15,000 barrels already.

COFFEE.

Total sales amounted to only 36,000 bags, but there was a steady undertone, and prices closed at a net advance of 1 to 3 points. Fluctuations were very narrow. Havre and Hamburg markets showed a strong response to our advance over their Whitsuntide holiday. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were firm, with Santos 4s quoted at 13.20 to 13.50, while Rio 7s were here at 11.25. These prices were a little above a parity with New York quotations. Havre closed at a net gain of ¾@1 franc, while Hamburg was 1 pfennig net higher. Brazilian markets were closed, but the cables showed the Monday market firm, with Rio 75 reis higher, and Santos unchanged to 50 reis higher.

Spot coffee unchanged, at 11⅝c for Rio 7. Contract prices follow:

NEW MEXICO STATE BONDS.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Loan Commissioners of the State of New Mexico will, at the office of the Treasurer of said State, in the Capitol Building, at the City of Santa Fe, New Mexico, on the Second day of June, 1913, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, receive sealed proposals for the purchase of $450,000.00 of bonds of said State of Series "B," or of portions thereof, which are to be issued in accordance with the provisions of Section Three of Article IX. of the Constitution of said State of New Mexico and of an act of the Legislature of said State, which became a law on the first day of June, 1912, for the payment of the bonds and accrued interest thereof of Santa Fe County, assumed by said State in Section One of Article IX. of said Constitution. Four hundred and twenty-five of said bonds are to be issued in the denomination of one thousand dollars each, and fifty thereof are to be issued in the denomination of five hundred dollars each, dated July 1, 1913, and will be in the form prescribed in Section 13 of said act of the Legislature of the State of New Mexico, and the principal thereof will be payable to bearer in gold coin or its equivalent in lawful money of the United States forty years after their date, and they may be redeemed at the option of the State at any time after twenty years from their date. The interest on said bonds will be payable semi-annually on the first day of January and July in each year, and principal and interest will be payable at the office of the State Treasurer at Santa Fe, New Mexico, or at the Seaboard National Bank, New York City, at the option of the holder. The said bonds are offered for sale to the person who will agree to take the same at par and accrued interest to date of delivery and at a rate of interest to be named in his bid; and said bonds or any part thereof will be awarded to the person offering to accept the same at par at the lowest rate of interest.

Each bid must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Purchase of Bonds," and accompanied by a certified check for not less than two per cent. of the amount of the bid, as security for the faithful performance of such bid in case said bonds or a part thereof shall be awarded to the person making such bid, and as liquidated damages in case of the failure of the successful bidder to fulfill his contract; but no such check drawn upon a banking house making a bid will be accepted as such security.

The Loan Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids, and particularly specify that no bid will be considered unless it is an unconditional bid for the purchase of said bonds or any part thereof, not made dependent upon any contingency whatever. It is further distinctly stated that only so much of said bonds will be sold as may be necessary, at the price bid, to realize the amount of the indebtedness to be paid, which indebtedness does not exceed the said sum of $450,000.00.

This is the second advertisement for bids for the purchase of these bonds, previous bids at 4¾ per cent. interest having been rejected.

Intending bidders who may desire further information can obtain it by application to said Board of Loan Commissioners at Santa Fe, N. M. W. G. SARGENT, United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission will hold an open competitive examination at the New York Custom House for dental interne, for men only, on June 4, to fill a vacancy at $600 a year, with maintenance, in the Government Hospital for the Insane, Washington, D. C., and vacancies as they may occur in places requiring similar qualifications. The department reserves the right to end the appointment at the expiration of one year of service if it is deemed advisable. As no applications were filed for the examination for this place which was to be held on April 2, 1913, qualified persons are urged to enter this examination. In addition to the many interesting cases presented, the dental interne has an excellent opportunity for study and for doing experimental and research work in the pathological, histological, and other laboratories of the institution. Competitors will be examined in the following subjects:

Letter writing, anatomy and physiology, chemistry, materia medica, and therapeutics; dental pathology and oral surgery, operative and prosthetic dentistry, bacteriology, histology, and hygiene, and orthodontia.

Applicants must be graduates of regularly incorporated dental colleges, and applications will not be accepted from persons who have been graduates more than two years. Statements as to training, experience, and fitness are accepted subject to verification. Applicants must be unmarried and 20 years of age or over on the date of the examination, which is open to all male citizens of the United States who meet the requirements.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Hatpin Guards in Demand.

There has been considerable inquiry for hatpin guards in the local market since the general agitation against unprotected hatpins has swept the country. Several local dealers are featuring these articles, and one of them said yesterday that a large business was in store for the firm that produced a guard that was simple and easily attached and detached.

⁂

Commodity Exports Gain.

Exports, exclusive of specie, from New York continue to keep ahead of those of last year. Last week they were valued at $18,566,623 and $17,562,421 in the same week in 1912. The respective totals from Jan. 1, to May 10 were $364,080,360 and $318,508,580. England led as usual in the week's receipts, with the British possessions, Brazil, Germany, and France also over the $1,000,000 mark. Wheat shipments, which totaled 728,359 bushels, were much heavier than those of the previous week.

⁂

Powdrell Company Moving Plant.

The Powdrell Manufacturing Company, Boston, makers of novelty curtains, who three months ago bought the plant and business of the Globe Curtain Works, 2,566 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, and continued it until recently under the management of the Boston office, are moving the entire plant to Boston. Most of the machinery has been dismantled and is now in transit. More convenient operation of the two plants under a single roof is the chief reason given for the removal.

⁂

Rubber Prices Going Up Here.

Prices in the local crude rubber market are advancing, especially on Para grades, despite the continued inactivity of buyers. Up-river fine was quoted here yesterday nominally at 92 cents and pale crêpe at 85. The former price is ascribed to the holding up of stocks at Manaos and Para. About 2,200 tons of rubber, 1,400 tons of which are in first hands, are now being held there to force up the market.

Jewelers Oppose Exemptions.

This telegram has been sent to President Wilson by E. N. Stone, Secretary of the National Jewelers' Board of Trade, voicing the protest of that body against the provisions of the Sundry Civil bill exempting labor and farmer organizations from prosecution under the anti-trust law:

> The National Jewelers' Board of Trade respectfully requests you to disapprove the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill because we believe that the "rider" practically exempting labor union and farmers' organizations from prosecution under the Sherman act to be vicious class legislation. There may be convincing reasons why the Sherman act should be amended by exempting these two classes, but such changes should be made in the open after a full and fair debate.

Good Prices at Whitman Auction.

There were about 250 buyers present yesterday at the opening of the auction of men's wear fabrics, held by William Whitman & Co. for the Arlington mills. Values on medium staple serges and other plain goods were well maintained, and some lots of the former, usually bringing $1.62½ a yard, sold for $1.27½. Prices for fancy goods, however, were not as strong, and certain lots of worsted mixtures, usually bringing $1.30 a yard, brought only from 85 to 95 cents. One lot of tropicals, generally sold at $1.20 a yard, went for 72½ to 82½ cents. In all about 2,000 pieces were sold. The sale was conducted by Burling & Dole.

⁂

Hard Coal Going West.

"While local retail dealers are not calling for very heavy deliveries of anthracite," The Coal Trade Journal will say to-day, "the demand from other directions is absorbing the tonnage in such good shape that there is little or no surplus pressed for sale in this market. What is not needed hereabouts is going to line points and to the West, so that individual shippers are able to command full circular on their tidewater business.

"The firmness of the bituminous market is astonishing. According to precedent, prices should be on the down grade at this stage of the season instead of holding practically stationary."

RAPS NORTHERN COMMITTEE

In Letter to President New Orleans Wholesaler Repudiates It.

This letter, setting forth the Southern side of the free sugar controversy, has been sent to President Wilson by G. P. Thompson, President of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of New Orleans:

May 8, 1913.

The President, Washington, D. C.

Sir: The most aggressive agitators and promoters of reduced duty or free sugar have been heretofore certain refinery interests in the North. They have flooded the entire country with literature in advocacy of such measure. This has brought about a feeling of unrest among some and a demand for a lowering or the elimination of the tariff on sugar.

Certain of these refinery interests have for some little time developed a plan, as you know, of representing, supposedly, an organization of wholesale grocers. The Wholesale Grocers' Association of New Orleans was instrumental in absolutely repudiating the position assumed by this self-appointed interest. In other words, there was positively no organized movement, in so far as the wholesale grocer is concerned, in favor of such legislation.

These refinery interests still continue their endeavors, notwithstanding the repudiation. They have used the press and others to educate the public up to such demands, but is it fair to the South, Louisiana particularly, to practically wipe it out, as far as this particular interest is concerned? Should free sugar prevail, as is suggested?

The many millions of tariff that are being paid at present on this article by the consumers of this country has not heretofore been objected to by them; they certainly feel an interest in the Government, therefore ought to be willing to pay their reasonable quid pro quo toward its maintenance. Is there any easier plan of obtaining the same amount of money in question as now prevails in connection with the tariff on sugar? Almost every one consumes sugar, and, in turn, contributes to the Government.

The Wholesale Grocers' Association of New Orleans respectfully urges that your decision be the retention of the present tariff on that article, or only a slight modification. Respectfully yours,

GEORGE P. THOMPSON, President.

In the local trade the letter is regarded as a direct rap at the activities of the Committee of Wholesale Grocers, a body of Northern wholesalers, of which F. C. Lowry of this city is Secretary. This committee has worked hard for the removal of the duty on sugar, or a material reduction of it.

TARIFF AND UNDERWEAR.

Peril to Our Manufacturers in Schedule, Says E. E. Hartzell.

The proposed tariff schedule seriously affects American underwear manufacturers, especially those in the South, according to Elmer E. Hartzell, a local selling agent, because England and Germany can produce better-grade garments much cheaper than they can be turned out here, as labor costs are lower. He said, however, that Americans could compete with cheaper-grade men's goods, because European manufacturers had never been educated to volume production.

"However, they cannot compete," he said, "on women's light-weight vests, as nearly 50 per cent. of their production cost is for labor, and with the duty on them removed, French and Swiss manufacturers can make trouble for the Americans."

Mr. Hartzell believes, however, that European manufacturers will be unwilling to increase their liabilities by preparing for extensive American business, as the tenure of the present Administration is only four years, and there is no guarantee against the replacing of the duty.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Last week's exports of domestics and cotton duck from this port amounted to 4,038 packages, and were valued at $268,216. The heaviest shipments went to Chile and Central America.

According to estimates made by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce, imports of commodities from the tropics in the fiscal year 1913 will exceed those of other years. Coffee, crude rubber, and sugar all show material gains to date.

C. A. Brockway, who resigned May 1 after three years with Gimbel Brothers as furniture buyer, has acquired an interest in the firm of Bergen & Orsenigo, Incorporated, 675 First Avenue, manufacturers of period furniture. Mr. Brockway will call on the principal decorative houses of Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington.

The New York State Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association will hold its annual meeting in Utica to-day. The Hotel Utica will be the scene of the meeting. The tariff and the proper date for opening Spring lines will be discussed.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

De Medici ruffs of maline and net are showing tremendous drawing power in the women's neckwear field. Some houses are doing a good percentage of their business on these goods alone.

Embroidered net allovers in colored silk are expected to be used widely this Fall for waist and other purposes.

The unseasonable weather of the last few days has given a temporary check to business in women's wear lines. The demand during the previous warm spell, however, predicted great things for suits of linen, cotton eponge, and other light materials.

Shoe retailers are showing more interest in the proposed National "all-leather" bill than in the endeavor of Congress to put shoes on the free list. The latter legislation would have no marked effect on their business, if passed, they say.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The Russian Ministry of Trade and Industry is working out a project for constructing a port on the Island of Sakhalin, which will be intrusted to private parties on the basis of competition. If the private enterprise proves unsuccessful, the work will be carried out by the Government. The cost of the port has been estimated at $2,575,000.

Bids for constructing and operating the Thomar-Nazare Railroad have been invited by the Portuguese Government. They will be opened on June 14 by a Government commission. The line will be about 56 miles long and will traverse a region annually visited by thousands of tourists.

The Societe des Charbons Agglomeres du Littoral Mediterraneen, 46 Rue Chevalier Paul, Toulon, Var, is erecting at Toulon (France) a large plant for manufacturing briquets, which will probably be completed in October. It will have an annual capacity of about 200,000 tons of briquets.

GREER INDICTMENT HOLDS.

Eastern Box Board Club Demurrer Overruled by Court.

Judge Mayer overruled yesterday in the Federal District Court the demurrers interposed by William C. Greer and eighteen other defendants, who were members of the Eastern Box Board Club of 50 Church Street, to the indictment, charging them with conspiracy and combination in restraint of inter-State trade in violation of the Sherman law.

The indictment was challenged in the first place on the ground that the penal section of the Sherman law was void, as it was uncertain and unconstitutional. Judge Mayer ruled that it was impossible for a court of first instance to consider at this late date such a contention. He overruled also the other counts, which raised technical points.

Terms and conditions of sale:

The Special Master will offer for sale, and invite bids upon, all the above mentioned property and securities in one parcel and as an entirety, and will accept provisionally the bid of the highest qualified bidder therefor.

The Special Master will receive no bid from any one offering to bid who prior to said sale shall not have deposited with him or delivered to him, as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid in the event of its acceptance, the sum of $50,000 in cash, or by certified check for said amount on a National Bank or Trust Company in the City of New York, to be approved by the Special Master, or in bonds of Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Rapid Transit Company issued under and secured by the said Consolidated Mortgage, dated May 1, 1903, of the aggregate face value of principal of $250,000. The deposit made by an unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him upon the acceptance of the successful bid. The deposit received from the successful bidder will be applied on account of the purchase price of the property and securities to be sold.

Upon the acceptance of any bid, the purchaser will be required forthwith to deposit with the Special Master, in addition to the amount to be deposited as aforesaid, the further sum of $50,000 in cash or by certified check to be approved by the Special Master, or in said bonds of Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Rapid Transit Company of the aggregate face value of principal of $250,000.

In lieu of the actual deposit of said bonds with the Special Master under these terms of sale, he will accept the certificate or certificates of any National Bank or Trust Company to be approved by him to the effect that such Bank or Trust Company holds such bonds in an amount to be specified in the certificate, subject to the order of said Special Master.

The complainant, Guaranty Trust Company of New York, or any holder or holders of any of the bonds of the defendant, Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Rapid Transit Company, issued under and secured by said Consolidated Mortgage, dated May 1, 1903, may be a purchaser at the sale.

In case any bidder shall fail to make good his bid upon its conditional acceptance by the Special Master or shall fail after such acceptance to comply with any order of the court relating to the payment thereof on the completion of the purchase, then the cash or the bonds deposited by any such bidder, shall be forfeited as a penalty for such failure, and shall be applied to the payment of the expenses of a resale and toward making good any deficiency or loss in case the property and securities purchased by him shall be sold at a less price on such resale, and to such other purpose as the court may direct.

If such sale, for which a deposit shall have been made either by cash, by certified check or in bonds or certificates, shall not be confirmed by the court, such deposit shall be returned to the bidder.

The purchaser or purchasers, on the confirmation of the sale by the court, shall pay in cash such further sum on account of the purchase price as the court may direct. So much of the purchase price as shall not be required to be paid in cash, may be paid in cash, or the purchaser may turn in and apply to the payment of the residue of his bid, in whole or in part, any of said bonds and matured and unpaid coupons issued under and secured by said Consolidated Mortgage. Upon bonds and matured and unpaid coupons so turned in to the Special Master as aforesaid, the purchaser or purchasers shall be credited with such sums as would be paid in cash on account of such bonds and coupons out of the net proceeds of sale, if the whole amount of the purchase price were to be paid in cash.

The court reserves the right to order a resale and to resell the property and securities, upon such notice as it may direct, at the risk and the cost of the purchaser thereof, in case such purchaser shall fail or omit to make any payment on account of the purchase price pursuant to an order of court requiring such payment. The purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors and assigns, will have the right to enter his, its or their appearance in court and to become a party to this cause.

The purchaser, as part of the consideration for such sale and in addition to the price bid, shall take the property and securities sold subject to any liens which may have been or may hereafter be established as having priority over said Consolidated Mortgage, dated May 1, 1903.

The court reserves for consideration, upon the coming in of the Special Master's report of sale, all matters relating to the adequacy of the bid and reserves the right, as a condition of confirming any sale, to impose such terms upon the purchaser as the court may see fit. The court may reject any bid and may retake and resell the property purchased if the court shall deem such bid inadequate; or upon the failure of a purchaser to comply with the terms of sale or with any order of the court relating thereto as provided in said decree; and in case of any such resale, all the sums paid by any defaulting purchaser may be forfeited as a penalty, or such defaulting purchaser may be held liable for any deficiency remaining upon the price bid by him upon the property, after subtracting from the proceeds of the resale the expenses of such resale, and after giving credit for the amounts theretofore paid by him and the amounts realized upon such resale.

The purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors or assigns, shall have the right to contest any claim, demand or allowance existing at the time of the sale and then undetermined, and any claim or demand which thereafter may arise or be presented which would be payable by such purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors or assigns, or which would be payable out of the purchase price, and he, it, or they may appeal from any decision relating to any such claim, demand or allowance.

Upon confirmation of the sale and payment in full of the purchase price, and upon compliance with all the terms of the sale, including the execution of all undertakings and agreements and the giving of any security which may be required by the court in pursuance of the terms of said decree, the Special Master will make, execute and deliver to such purchaser or purchasers, or his, its or their assigns, a proper instrument or instruments to be approved by the court and to be joined in, if requested, by the complainant and defendant in this cause, for the assignment and transfer of the property and securities so sold; subject, as to the stock and bonds of the Scranton and Northeastern Railroad Company, the Central Valley Railroad Company and the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad Company, (formerly Northern Lackawanna Railroad Company,) to the lien thereon of the said Deed of Trust, dated July 23, 1901.

The Special Master may postpone said sale by announcement of such postponement at the time and place herein appointed for such sale and may further postpone said sale from any adjourned time of sale without further notice or advertisement other than by announcement at the time and place appointed for such sale and at such postponed time may proceed with said sale as provided in said decree.

For a more detailed statement of the terms and conditions of the sale, reference is hereby made to said decree, dated April 18, 1913, on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, in the Court House in the Post Office Building in the Borough of Manhattan, New York City, or the same may be examined at the office of the Special Master.

Dated New York, April 30, 1913.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate south, becoming variable; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate, mostly south; South Atlantic Coast, moderate south and southwest.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate south winds, becoming variable, with unsettled weather to the Grand Banks.

EDUCATION NOTES.

At the Wadleigh High School Auditorium, 114th Street, near Seventh Avenue, exercises will be held on Friday to commemorate the quarter centennial of the Harlem Evening High School for Men. A number of guests who have been connected with that institution in the past will speak, among them De Witt J. Seligman, Chairman of the Evening Schools, when the school was established in 1888; Michael F. Dugan of the Harlem Evening High School Alumni, and now with the office of Taxes and Assessments of Long Island City, and Edward W. Stitt of the original Faculty of the school, and now District Superintendent in charge of play centres.

The history of High School instruction will receive attention from William H. Maxwell, City Superintendent of Schools, and Albert Shiels, District Superintendent in charge of Evening Schools. Thomas W. Churchill, President of the Board of Education, formerly an instructor in the Harlem Evening High School, will relate some of his reminiscences. Among the present District Superintendents, William L. Ettinger, John Davis, and Cecil A. Kidd were all members of the original Faculty, and will address the meeting briefly.

The school orchestra will play a number of selections, and the New York University Glee Club will vary the entertainment with college songs. J. Albert Rose of the Aborn Opera Company will sing.

An examination for license for promotion will be conducted by the Board of Examiners on Sept. 15. For those electing either history or mathematics, the written examination will be held at Public School 27, Forty-second Street, east of Third Avenue; for others, at the Hall of the Board of Education, Fifty-ninth Street and Park Avenue, Manhattan. For those candidates electing drawing and constructive work, the written examination will be continued on Sept. 16. An examination in principles and methods of teaching will be held later at the call of the Board of Examiners.

Exemption from the examination in principles and methods of teaching will be accorded only to those applicants who present evidence of having completed in an approved institution satisfactory courses amounting to at least sixty hours in the science of education, such courses to be in excess of the studies required to establish eligibility for License No. 1. An oral examination (including inspection and investigation of teaching) to be conducted at the call of the Board of Examiners, will be required of all applicants for license for promotion.

To be eligible for license for promotion, applicants must be holders of License No. 1 and have had three years' successful experience in teaching. The examination will be open only to those who will fulfill the conditions of eligibility prior to Nov. 5, 1913. License for promotion qualifies the holder to teach in grades 7A, 7B, and 8A in elementary schools.

To you personally—
Read it!
Think it over!

Quoted from the London Papers:

"To decide a bet, a peddler stood all day on the Strand in London about three months ago offering gold sovereigns ($4.86) for sixpence (12c.)

"He was only able to sell four.

"Of the thousands who passed, ninety-nine per cent. had sixpence but they were skeptical and afraid the gold sovereigns were counterfeits.

"Only four men were clever enough to know a real sovereign from a counterfeit, and to take advantage of the opportunity and buy."

Ask yourself if you know a real opportunity from a counterfeit.

Are you clever enough—have you enough self-confidence—to take advantage of the real opportunity?

QUEENS—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

Non-Resident Property Owners in the Third Ward of the Borough of Queens are invited to join

The Third Ward Rapid Transit League which is being organized for the purpose of securing rapid transit.

The Third Ward, which includes Flushing, Bayside, Douglaston, College Point and Whitestone, has been entirely ignored in laying out the dual subway system, with the result that this section is put to a great disadvantage in comparison with the other sections of Greater New York and more than 20,000 non-resident property owners who have bought unimproved property are unable to improve and use the same on account of the high cost of transportation, which now is 37 to 41 cents per day on the Long Island Railroad.

Millions upon millions have been poured into the Bronx and Brooklyn for rapid transit and only a comparatively small amount has been allotted to Queens, although its assessed valuation has been increased $36,000,000 more than the Bronx within the last six years.

Every property owner, no matter where he lives, is entitled to membership in the League. We expect the League will have 10,000 members within sixty days, from which a Committee of One Thousand will be selected, each of whom shall pledge himself to work to have the Third Ward included in the dual subway system at the earliest possible moment.

Send your name and address to the Third Ward Rapid Transit League, Flushing, L. I., and we will send you a complete analysis showing where over Three Hundred Million Dollars is to be expended for rapid transit.

Do not fail to be at the Board of Estimate meeting at 10:30 Thursday morning, when the Flushing-Bayside route will come up for final action.

M., at the north main entrance of the County Court House in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, at public auction, as directed by said court, the following described property, to wit:

All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon erected, situated in the City and County of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point formed by the intersection of the westerly side of Broadway and the southerly side of Walker Street; and running thence southerly along said westerly side of Broadway fifty feet ten and one-quarter inches, (50 feet 10¼ inches,) more or less, to the northerly wall of the building commonly known as No. 393 Broadway; thence running westerly and parallel or nearly so with Walker Street and along the said northerly wall of said premises known as No. 393 Broadway, one hundred feet three and one-half inches, (100 feet 3½ inches,) more or less, to the corner of a wall; thence again southerly and parallel or nearly so with Broadway, and along the rear walls of the premises known as Nos. 391 and 393 Broadway, fifty feet and eleven inches, (50 feet 11 inches,) more or less, to the centre of a stone wall; thence again westerly and parallel or nearly so with Walker Street and through the centre of said stone wall in the rear of premises known as No. 61 Walker Street, twenty-four feet three and one-quarter inches, (24 feet 3¼ inches,) more or less, to the easterly wall of the premises known as No. 59 Walker Street; thence northerly and parallel or nearly so with Broadway and along the easterly wall of premises known as No. 59 Walker Street, one hundred feet and eight inches, (100 feet 8 inches,) more or less, to the southerly side of Walker Street, and thence easterly along the southerly side of Walker Street one hundred twenty-seven feet seven and three-quarter inches, (127 feet 7¾ inches,) more or less, to the point or place of beginning. It being therein declared to be the intent of the said mortgagors to convey thereby the premises known as Nos. 395, 397, and 399 Broadway, and Nos. 61, 63, 65, and 67 Walker Street, as the same were then in possession.

The Special Master will receive no bid from any one, except the complainant, who shall not first deposit with the Special Master the sum of Five Thousand Dollars, ($5,000,) either in cash or in check certified by a National or State Bank, or a Trust Company, situated in the City of New York. The cash or checks so deposited, except those deposited by any bidder whose bid shall be provisionally accepted, will be returned by the Special Master at the conclusion of the sale to the bidder or bidders from whom they were received. The cash or checks so deposited by any bidder whose bid shall be provisionally accepted will be returned by the Special Master to the bidder or bidders from whom they were received if such provisional acceptance shall not thereafter be confirmed by the court. The cash or check deposited by any successful bidder in order to qualify him to bid will be forfeited and applied to the expense of the sale and of the receivership in the event that said bidder shall not make good his bid. In the event that any successful bidder shall fail to make good his bid upon confirmation to him of such sale, a resale may be ordered and the said bidder shall be liable for all the expenses thereof and for any deficiency of price realized thereon.

The property will be sold subject to all taxes, assessments and water rates, and existing leases.

LEDERLE PURPOSES TO KEEP CITY CLEAN

Board of Health Head Says Street Cleaners Must Take All Rubbish Offered.

CLEAN-UP ONLY A START

Quantity and Variety of Stuff Put Into the Streets Shows Need for Constant Work.

One important lesson has been taught by New York's first "municipal housecleaning," according to Health Commissioner Ernst J. Lederle. After a tour of inspection on the lower east side Dr. Lederle said yesterday afternoon that he thought the city would be guilty of a grave error if it permitted conditions such as had been brought to light to exist again. He was confident, he said, that in the future the Street Cleaning Department would compel its employes to carry away, without charge, any rubbish which householders wished to have destroyed.

"Much as I had been impressed by the need of cleaning up the city I had no idea that so much rubbish would be found," said Dr. Lederle. "This campaign has emphasized a point which I have never before felt like talking about; that the Street Cleaning Department must remove day by day rubbish such as has been collected during the two days of the city house cleaning. I think Commissioner Edwards will agree with me."

When he heard what Dr. Lederle had to say Commissioner Edwards asserted that the Street Cleaning Department always stood ready to carry off any rubbish which the householders placed out on the curb where his men could get it.

"We'll take the old beds and trunks and things like that at any time," said the Commissioner. "We can't force the people to put their rubbish out on the curb, but if they will do so we will take it away and not charge them anything. There are some instances where we won't carry off rubbish free of charge. For instance, we won't take away vast quantities of waste paper from factories; we haven't got the wagons to do that."

Residents Welcome New Idea.

A number of people who were getting rubbish out of their homes yesterday in order to take advantage of the free delivery to the dumps expressed the hope that the employes of the Street Cleaning Department would follow out that policy. Some who admitted that they had not infrequently tipped the ashcart men liberally to take away old pieces of furniture said that they never knew it was the duty of the department to remove rubbish of that kind.

The work of cleaning up the city went on with unabated enthusiasm yesterday. Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards ordered out every wagon in the stables and made a personal tour to see that the men worked their hardest. Officials of the Health Department also toured Harlem, the Bronx, and Brooklyn.

One of the inspection parties was composed of Dr. McMillan, First Assistant to Dr. Lederle; Assistant Deputy Commissioner Taylor of Brooklyn, Assistant Section Foreman Brett of the Street Cleaning Department, and Garret Smith, who represents the New York Milk Committee and other civic organizations. While the party was en route to Harlem in an automobile the machine was brought to a sudden stop by a bed which came hurtling from the top floor of a house at Seventy-eighth Street and Third Avenue, and missed the head of a junk dealer, who was searching a pile of rubbish, by a few inches.

"That," said Mr. Smith, gravely, "was only one evidence of the enthusiasm with which the householders are tackling this job. We waited around for a few minutes and I am confident that in that time at least one-third of the furniture was tossed into the street."

In South Brooklyn the inspection party left the automobile to put to flight a crowd of 100 school children, who were swarming over a huge pile of refuse. There was a battle for ten minutes until the police arrived, and old pieces of furniture, which the children used for missiles were scattered all over the street. There was another exciting moment when a barrel of hot ashes was dumped into a scow loaded with refuse at the Harrison Street dump in Brooklyn. A slight fire was started and some one turned in an alarm, bringing out two fire boats, two engine companies, and a hook and ladder company.

Dr. McMillan said that at least twenty complaints were received yesterday at the offices of the Health Department of controversies between janitors and tenants of houses in various parts of the city. The janitors, he said, had grasped the opportunity to get rid of old furniture stored in the cellars, and some of the tenants objected.

"There was another queer case which shows how thoroughly interested the people are," said Dr. McMillan. "One man living on the upper west side telephoned to the office to ask if the inspectors of the Department had the authority to break into his cellar and take away whatever they thought was useless. He was going out of town for a few days and was very anxious about it."

Dr. McMillan said that only a small percentage of the owners of vacant lots in the three boroughs had paid any attention to the order of the department that they must clean up the lots and put all refuse on the curb line.

"I have a list of the owners of all these lots," he added, "and we are going to send inspectors around at once to warn the citizens. Then, if they don't want to take advantage of the opportunity to have their rubbish carted away free of charge, we are going to summon them before a Magistrate, and, if necessary, hold them for General Sessions on the charge of permitting a public nuisance to exist on their property. Commissioner Lederle has said that drastic action must be taken. Some of the lots, even in the best sections, such as along the Southern Boulevard in the Bronx, were found to be in very bad condition."

All of the 1,200,000 notices directing the people to be ready for the arrival of the street cleaning wagons had been distributed, said Dr. McMillan, and no one could offer the excuse that he had not been warned.

The officials had a lot of trouble with the junkmen who were out in full force yesterday searching through the piles of rubbish. Three junkmen were driven away from one pile, a great mound of old stoves, boxes, and furniture almost fourteen feet in height. On the west side, north of Seventy-second Street, the heaps of rubbish formed the best loot. Dr. McMillan said the amount of rubbish thrown away by residents on the upper west side was a surprise to him. One of Dr. Lederle's assistants who lives in that section offered a case in point.

"I started to search through my home," he said, "and, although I didn't think there was much I wanted to throw away, I collected at least two barrels of truck. I don't know where it all came from."

Wants No More Money.

Commissioner Edwards of the Street Cleaning Department issued a statement last night in which he said that he was determined to complete the work without an extra appropriation. He had some trouble at first with the contractors who furnish the scows, but this was smoothed over, and he also was able to obtain eight more scows, which were badly needed. About 2,500 loads in excess of the ordinary number were hauled in Manhattan yesterday, 356 extra loads in the Bronx, 2,000 in Brooklyn. The programme to-day is:

DEATH RATE HIGHER.

Increase of 82 Deaths and of the Rate .25 for the Week.

The Department of Health reports a slight increase in the death rate for the week just ended.

There were 1,543 deaths reported, with a rate of 14.98 per 1,000, as against 1,461 deaths and a rate of 14.73 per 1,000 for the corresponding week of 1912, an increase of 82 deaths and .25 of a point.

The mortality from measles, diphtheria, and whooping cough remained the same as last year, but in scarlet fever was considerably lower. The heart diseases showed an increase of 28 deaths, pulmonary tuberculosis 10 deaths, diseases of the nervous system 23 deaths, and violence 29 deaths. The respiratory diseases, such as bronchitis and pneumonia, showed a decrease of 11 deaths, and Bright's disease of the kidneys a decrease of 17 deaths. The mortality of children under 5 years of age was below that of last year, while the mortality for the age groups of 5 years and over exceeded that of those ages during the corresponding week of last year.

STABBED 12 TIMES, HER $2,500 STOLEN

One Thief Attacks Woman with Icepick While Confederate Loots Home.

SAVINGS HID IN MATTRESS

Robbers Then Flee, Leaving Woman Insensible — Police Get Clue from Husband.

Attacked in her home at noon yesterday by two thieves and robbed of $2,500 savings, Mrs. Maria Tola, 37 years old, of 467 Park Avenue, Brooklyn, is in the Cumberland Street Hospital, that borough, suffering from twelve stab wounds. While the woman is very weak from loss of blood, the physicians at the hospital do not think that she is mortally injured. The robbers, whom their victim describes as young Italians, escaped, but the police believe that they have a clue in the case, and detectives are tracing the men.

Mrs. Tola, her husband, Francisco, and their four children live on the third floor of the Park Avenue house. The family came to this country from Sicily about a year ago, after selling a bakery which they owned there. A large part of the money stolen yesterday represented the proceeds of this sale. There was $1,700 in United States currency, and $800 in Italian money. It was hidden in the mattress of one of the beds. The other members of the family were away at work and Mrs. Tola was busy with her household duties, when there was a knock at the hall door. Opening the door, the woman was seized by two young men. Mrs. Tola is strong and she struggled with her assailants.

"You take care of her, while I get the money," directed the elder of the pair, going into the bedroom.

The woman continued to fight, and the robber who held her, angered at her resistance, stabbed her repeatedly with an icepick. She was wounded thrice in the neck, six times in the back, twice in the left side, and once in the left arm. The other robber had in the meantime ripped open the mattress in which the family treasure was hidden and found the money. Leaving Mrs. Tola lying insensible on the kitchen floor, the pair ran downstairs and disappeared.

A few minutes later a neighbor heard Mrs. Tola groaning, and, investigating, discovered what had happened. Word was sent to the Flushing Avenue Police Station and Ambulance Surgeon Geis of the Cumberland Street Hospital was called. After he had dressed the woman's wounds she refused to go to the hospital, saying she preferred to await the return of her husband. Later in the day, however, her condition became such that, at her own request, she was removed to the hospital.

When the report of the robbery reached Brooklyn Headquarters, Italian detectives were detailed from several precincts to work on the case. From Tola's story the detectives think that the thieves knew where the money was hidden. He said that he attended an entertainment in Manhattan on Sunday night and became friendly with several young men he met there. They talked about money and the detectives are of the belief that Tola may have said something which revealed to them the existence of the hoard and its hiding place. The detectives are working on this clue.

ORAL CHARITY BEQUESTS.

Charles Schoolhouse's Children Will Obey His Last Wishes.

The will of Charles Schoolhouse, President of Charles Schoolhouse & Sons, silk manufacturers, who died on May 7, was filed for probate yesterday. The accompanying petition said the value of the estate was "more than $10,000 in realty and more than $10,000 in personalty." To his grandchild, Beula H. Hyman, Mr. Schoolhouse left $125,000, and to his nephew, Joseph Runshein, $10,000. The residuary estate was divided equally between his two children, Lewis Schoolhouse and Mrs. Tillie Oppenheim.

Lewis Schoolhouse was made executor, and, in the petition which he filed asking for the probate of the will, he said that his father shortly before death had asked that he make certain gifts to charity, which were not mentioned in the will itself. This wish the son said he would carry out, giving $1,000 each to the following institutions: Mount Sinai Hospital, German Hospital, Montefiore Home, Hebrew Orphan Asylum, Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews, New York Skin and Cancer Hospital, Hebrew Technical Institute, Educational Alliance, Blythedale Home for Tubercular Children, and the New York Society for the Ruptured and Crippled. The other residuary legatee, Mrs. Tillie Oppenheim, approved the probate of the will and the oral bequests to charity.

CHUCK CONNORS IS BURIED.

All Sorts and Conditions Honor Chinatown's White Mayor.

They buried "Chuck" Connors yesterday. Where "Chuck" had reigned for years as Chinatown's white "Mayor"—as contrasted with Tom Lee, its Chinese "Mayor"—there gathered men of all walks of life, to pay the last honors. "Chuck" Connors had friends among high and low—politicians, mission workers, chop suey dealers, and reformed gangsters unnumbered. Tammany Hall was represented, too, in high silk hats and long black gloves. It was one of the most elaborate funerals that Chinatown has ever known.

Sixty-three coaches with mourners and six coaches filled with floral pieces made up the procession that proceeded from 6 Doyer Street, Connors's home, to the Church of the Transfiguration in Mott Street. It moved amid a clash of cymbals and drone of Chinese chanting, proceeding from 20 Pell Street, where the Chinese were propitiating Connors's ancestors with red-fire, joss sticks and other accessories of a Chinese funeral. The burial took place in Calvary Cemetery, after the Rev. Father McGann had intoned high mass at the church.

Among those who attended the funeral services were Gene and Larry Mulligan, ex-Sheriff Tom Foley, Senator Fitzgerald, and Senator Frawley, representing political activity; Marc Klaw and Owen Davis, representing the drama, which Connors had enriched with his own picturesque character and slang, and Joe Humphreys, Billie Joh, Charlie Harvey, Frank O'Neill, the Kramer brothers, Billy Gibson, Jesse and Ed McMahon, and others representing the world of sport. Six members of the Press Club acted as pallbearers. Philip O'Connor, a brother of "Chuck"—for "Chuck's" real name was O'Connor—and Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, his sister, were the only relatives present.

UNION TO STAND ALONE.

Dr. Brown Says Seminary Will Keep Its Independence.

Reviewing the seminary year of Union Theological Seminary, at Broadway and 120th Street, which closed its commencement exercises last night by awarding fifty-eight diplomas, Dr. Francis Brown, President of the institution, referred to the conferences that have been held by the Directors and Faculty of Union Seminary and representatives of the Presbyterian General Assembly, looking to a renewal of official relations with the Presbyterian Church, and said that Union Seminary was to remain independent and autonomous. He said that the initiative had been taken by the General Assembly in the effort to close the long-standing breach.

It was pointed out by one of the officers of the seminary that the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, before the beginning of the controversy, by general consent of the seminary's officers had the power of vetoing the appointment of professors. The request has been made by the General Assembly that additional professors be appointed to instruct in Presbyterian policies and principles.

The Conference Committee of the seminary has replied to the request with the statement that instruction in Presbyterian policies and doctrines is already provided. The Conference Committee has, however, expressed its willingness to consider the appointment of lecturers, although it has not agreed to apoint any additional professors. The reports of the committees representing the seminary and the General Assembly will be placed before the General Assembly meeting in Atlanta to-day, according to Dr. Brown.

FINE BARROOM FOR SAILORS.

Fancy Drinks, Too, Without the Bite at Seaman's Church Institute.

The new Seamen's Church Institute at 25 South Street, which will be opened as soon as the remaining $200,000 of the needed $1,050,000 has been subscribed, will satisfy even the most fastidious of sailors, according to Edmund L. Baylies, who has had charge of the raising of funds. The object of the institute is to keep the sailors from frequenting the cheap saloons and boarding houses on the water front.

In order to make the sailor feel at home in the new building there has been erected on the main floor at the entrance of the institute an alluring replica of the ordinary bar room, brass footrail and all. Here the sailors may congregate and order up regulation schooners of ginger ale from the most sociable of bartenders. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Irene K. Lane, Secretary of the institute, prepared a partial list of the drinks which could be had at the new bar. These included the Hornpipe Sundae, the Marlinspike Cocktail, the Raspberry Life Preserver and the Neptune Frappé. The old nautical flavor is still to be retained in the names, though not in the drinks themselves.

The building is twelve stories in height and has 500 bedrooms, in addition to three dormitories with thirty beds each, which may be rented at low prices. There will be a free shipping bureau in the basement.

Thousands Have Read This New Book on

How to Judge a Piano

From all over the country people are writing for free copies of "The Pith of the Piano Problem." It has created a sensation because it handles the subject for the first time without gloves.

Until now it has been almost impossible for the layman to distinguish the good from the bad in pianos. The outside—the case—which is all one can see, is the least important part. Even the most inferior instruments have beautiful exteriors. It's the inside—the Pith—that really counts, and that is why we call this new book "The Pith of the Piano Problem."

DISCUSS MUNICIPAL NEEDS.

Conference of Charities and Correction Opens Annual Sessions.

The fourth annual New York City Conference of Charities and Correction opened its three days' sessions at the United Charities Building last night, with papers and discussions of municipal needs. Frederic C. Howe, Director of the People's Institute, was Chairman of the session, which lasted until close upon midnight. The discussions centred chiefly around social problems incidental to the new dual subway extensions and their relation to the city plan.

Delos F. Wilcox, Chief of the Franchise Bureau of the Public Service Commission, said that $330,000,000 of new money was going into the new system, but that before even the fixed charges of the new subways could be paid all the present profits of the two companies would have to be preserved and paid. This, he said, would require that 2,375,000 persons be added to the city's population, or else more fares would have to be paid in some way. It had been figured by subway experts that there would be an increase of 35 per cent. in the population and 70 per cent. in number of fares between 1910 and 1960. Applying this same ratio of increase for the next fifty years, Mr. Wilcox said, New York in 1960 would have to have 21,000,000 population and 21,000,000,000 fares a year, or 1,000 rides per inhabitant. The prospect, he said, was startling, and led him to fear that the rapid transit extensions might increase rather than diminish the difficulty of public control of rapid transit facilities in the future.

George B. Ford, a lecturer on city planning at Columbia University, said that two-thirds of the new rapid transit lines were to be subway and only one-third elevated. Elevated construction costs two-thirds less, he said, and could be supported in a less thickly populated district. The evils of the present elevated system, he said, darkening of the streets and noise, could be obviated by laying out the new streets that were to have such elevated lines from 130 to 200 feet wide, as in Paris, and building the elevated structure of heavy and solid concrete in the middle of the street, the space beneath to serve as sidewalk or for garden purposes, and the whole artistic structure enhancing rather than detracting from the beauty of the street and its real estate value.

Other speakers last night were Dr. O. F. Lewis, President of the conference; Henry C. Wright, Chairman of the Transportation Committee of the City Club, and ex-Service Board Commissioner E. M. Bassett.

FIND BOY'S BODY IN CREEK.

Astrologer Foretold Albert Smith's Watery End.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, N. J., May 13.—The discovery of the body of six-year-old Albert Smith in Assiscunk Creek this afternoon solved the mystery of the schoolboy's disappearance last Friday. A strange coincidence was the receipt of a letter by Police Capt. Joseph Shumard this morning from an astrologer in Atlantic City, urging the police to continue their search in the creek. The writer said the horoscope of the Smith boy indicated that he was destined to die at a young age, and that he would be found in the water.

The police had given up the search of the creek, and a volunteer crew was rowing ashore to quit when the grappling hooks caught in the clothes of the dead boy.

MRS. BROKAW GETS HER SON

Husband in Jail and Wife Speeding to New York with the Boy.

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 13.—Clarence Pierce Brokaw of New York, in jail here since Sunday on his wife's charge that he assaulted her with a skillet, to-day appealed to the Sheriff of El Paso County to have Mrs. Brokaw taken from the train which is bearing her toward New York, together with the eight-year-old son of the couple. The Sheriff refused to attempt to intercept Mrs. Brokaw, and informed the man that his wife had a right to take her son, "Buster," anywhere she pleased.

Brokaw came to Colorado Springs with the boy more than a year ago. The incident, then heralded as a kidnapping, followed a series of domestic difficulties in the Brokaw family. Various charges were made and later Mrs. Brokaw had her husband arrested, charging that he had broken two of her fingers. With Brokaw in jail, she packed her belongings and departed for the East.
